Retzlaff faces felonies in traffic incident

Gresham business owner accused of endangering safety, fleeing and resisting deputies

By LEE PULASKI

City Editor

A Shawano County campground owner is once again in hot water as she faces charges of fleeing an officer and other crimes following an incident May 15.

Ann Retzlaff, owner of Annie's Campground west of Gresham, is facing a single count of fleeing an officer, two counts of second-degree recklessly endangering the safety of police officers and one count of resisting an officer. The resisting charge is a misdemeanor, while the others are felonies.

She also faces a traffic citation from Menominee County in relation to the incident. The Menominee County Sheriff's Department contacted Shawano County after 8 p.m. on May 15 about a pursuit from Menominee Indian High School southbound.

A preliminary hearing was moved back to Aug. 13 after Retzlaff said at a hearing on May 25 she still did not have an attorney representing her.

"It's very hard to find any attorneys right now that are constitutionally sound," Retzlaff said.

Shawano-Menominee Circuit Court Judge William Kussel said he could continue the hearing to a later date to allow Retzlaff more time to find legal counsel. He originally wanted to reschedule the hearing for 20-30 days later, but Retzlaff asked for a later date not around the Independence Day holiday because her campground is busy during that time.

"The summer is when I need to be there to run my business, which is one of my rights," Retzlaff said.

Retzlaff requested a list of attorneys who had experience in "constitutionally-sound lawyers who are in our area," but Kussel said he was not allowed to recommend attorneys. He instead recommended that Retzlaff call the State Bar of Wisconsin for assistance.

Shawano-Menominee County District Attorney Greg Parker said he had no objection to the delay.

This is not Retzlaff's first legal wrangling this year. Retzlaff has restraining orders against her that forbid her to make contact with Shawano County Supervisor Joe Miller and his wife, Jackie Miller, after Marathon County Circuit Court Judge Suzanne O'Neill ruled that she had harassed the pair and made "false claims and/or allegations of criminal or violent behavior." Retzlaff, an ardent foe of pandemic mask mandates, said the supervisor and others who voted against the county's Second Amendment sanctuary resolution in March "need to be removed, fined, tried, jailed."

The mask requirement became an issue when Kussel ordered Retzlaff to put one on. Retzlaff argued that the Wisconsin Supreme Court did not require a mask in court, but Kussel responded that the court "indicated" on May 21 that chief judges make the determination whether or not a mask is required in courtrooms.

"I am in violation if I don't have people wear masks," Kussel said. "If you can do that for me, I would appreciate it."

Retzlaff then said she could not wear a mask because of breathing issues.

"I have allergies, and it's hard for me to breathe," Retzlaff said. "I actually have an upper respiratory infection right now, so it's hard for me to breathe without a mask."

Kussel said he would proceed with the hearing, knowing he could face consequences for allowing Retzlaff to be maskless. He said any future instances where Retzlaff declined to wear a mask would require she be put outside of the courtroom if the mask mandate is still in effect.

Retzlaff posted a $1,500 cash bond on the current charges on May 18. One of the caveats required that she not be in contact with the two law enforcement officers, a lieutenant and a deputy with the Shawano County Sheriff's Department, who were involved in the traffic incident. Retzlaff said she wanted Kussel to rule that those two agents could not be allowed on her property if there was a call to the sheriff's department about any incidents at the campground, but Kussel said he could not do that.

"They were the ones who harassed me," Retzlaff said of the sheriff's officials who initiated the traffic stop, which took place at the intersection of state Highway 47-55 and Montoure Road. "I don't want them on my property."

Kussel explained that he can't impose restrictions on the officers or victims in a case, only the defendant.

No pleas were entered on the charges as Retzlaff wanted to have an attorney before proceeding.

1 injured in UTV crash in Town of Wescott

One man is in the hospital due to an early morning UTV crash in the Town of Wescott on May 21.

According to the Shawano County Sheriff's Department, a call came in at approximately 2 a.m. about a UTV crash on Lake Drive in Wescott.

A 20-year-old Shawano man was operating the UTV when it tipped onto its side. He was taken to a hospital for his injuries. The extent of the injuries are unknown.

The name of the driver was not immediately released.

CORRECTIONS

In the May 14 issue, the story "Cost to replace jail windows causes sticker shock," indicated that the cost to replace windows at the Shawano County Jail would cost $42,000, up from $12,000 previously quoted. The cost to replace the windows includes the metal frames that hold the windows. We apologize for any confusion.

Peterson: Summer tourist season looks good

As activities return to Shawano and Menominee counties, so do flocks of visitors

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Since summer 2020 was basically canceled due to the coronavirus pandemic, people are eager to hit the road, the lakes or anywhere else that will allow them to get away from their regular lives in general.

Events are coming back in some form or fashion, and hotels and restaurants are opening back up to welcome anyone who comes to pay northeast Wisconsin a visit. Gas stations should expect brisk traffic, as well, although those who are venturing out on Memorial Day weekend should expect to pay for fuel at prices not seen at the end of May since 2014. Wisconsin's average was $2.885, just above the $2.877 one week earlier but well above the $1.903 experienced by the state a year ago, according to AAA.

Having events return to Shawano and Menominee counties is welcome news to Patti Peterson, tourism manager for the Shawano County Chamber of Commerce.

"We're very happy to see that things are getting closer to normalcy," Peterson said. "Events are happening again. Some are restricted, but the outdoor events are happening, and we are happy to see that or are encouraged by the people who are interested in them."

Peterson noted that some people are still cautious about doing things on their own, but there are some things they're willing to do — like the three unique self-guided barn quilt tours offered through the chamber. Some of the events that callers and others inquiring have asked about include the Rhubarb Fest offered by the Shawano County Historical Society, activities happening at Franklin Park like the Thursday night bands and the farmer's market, and Sun Drop Dayz.

"People are just happy to see things happening," Peterson said.

There have been a few inquiries about events happening later in the summer, like the Independence Day celebrations and Pulaski Polka Days in July.

There have not been reports coming into the Chamber office about how well the hotels and restaurants are doing with visitor traffic, but Peterson noted that she's been seeing some full parking lots while commuting from work.

"With events happening, they'll definitely see an increase around those dates for sure," she said.

The chamber is partnering more closely with the state Department of Tourism to get the word out about local events, according to Peterson. It is also increasing its presence on social media and on Travel Wisconsin's website.

"We've got a lot of things in the works," Peterson said.

The chamber is encouraging local businesses that are holding special events to do what they can to get the word out, as tourists are hungering for specific activities, according to Peterson. Downtown Shawano activities are of particular interest, she said.

"We've been updating all of our menus and things that people can get here at the visitor center," Peterson said. "All the different chamber-member restaurants, we've been reaching out to them because people come in and like to pick those up so they can make their choices about where they want to go to eat."

With the health crisis being no longer as large as it was, Peterson is eager to see whether the Shawano area can get its visitation back up to where it was before the coronavirus shut everything down.

"People are anxious to do things, want to be out and about," Peterson said. "I think it's all been very positive as more people are comfortable doing things they had done previously and maybe trying something new. That's encouraging."

Shawano School District offers 4K program

Pilot program planned for two years, expected to close learning gaps

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The Shawano School Board approved on May 17 a pilot program for an all-day 4-year-old kindergarten program for Hillcrest Primary School and LEADS Primary Charter School.

Troy Edwards, Hillcrest principal, said the effort for an all-day 4K program is being pushed because of the curriculum the school currently has for that grade level, Tools of the Mind. He said that the half-day program provides a good education, but it's not able to tap into all of the items that Tools of the Mind offers.

"If you do math, then you're probably not going to have time to do the ELA (English Language Arts) stuff, and vice versa," Edwards said. "By increasing these two sessions, one at Hillcrest and one at LEADS, it would give us the opportunity ... to be able to provide the Tools of the Mind resource more thoroughly and provide more educational opportunities for the kids in those two sessions."

Tools of the Mind also helps to provide social and emotional learning for 4-year-olds, including taking turns and being a good listener when others are speaking, according to Edwards.

There is space available at Hillcrest for both classes, Edwards said, but the classes would be limited to 18 students each. He said there are 51 children enrolled for 4K at Hillcrest next year, with another 15 potentially signing on, as well, while LEADS has eight children enrolled. If there is more interest than space, a lottery will be held to see which students get into the full-day program.

Edwards said the program would be offered for two years to get data on how well the full-day program does versus the half-day program, at which point a determination would be made whether to continue.

"There's lots and lots of research that talks about the benefits of investing in our early learners and trying to close the gaps early," Edwards said. "That's something that we would be exploring."

The move would require adding an additional full-time position for a teacher and a paraprofessional, which would cost the district an additional $115,000.

Board President Michael Sleeper said the full-day 4K program is needed for the public schools because there are other entities offering the same thing, such as the parochial schools.

"Let's face it. We're in a competitive market," Sleeper said. "This would be one positive aspect that we could bring to the table to attract and retain students."

Sleeper added that there is talk in the federal government about providing full-day funding to schools that offer full-day programs. Currently, Shawano only gets 60% funding for 4-year-old kindergarten.

Board member James Davel said it's necessary to offer the program in order to increase the district's student count, which has been decreasing steadily for years.

"It gets us some students in to transition for kindergarten," Davel said.

Board member Mart Grams felt the offering of the 4K program would damage local daycares.

"This would be horrendous for them," Grams said. "We're a public entity with, unfortunately, unlimited funds, no matter how much we may think, we just increase the levy. We have no real handcuffs on our ability to write checks. Aren't families supposed to be raising kids in this country, not the schools?"

Sleeper dismissed Grams' claim that 4K would hurt daycares, noting that school is not mandatory for children until they turn 5 years old. The 4K program is optional, he said.

Board member Alysia Pillsbury said the 4K program would have helped her family if it had been available when her children were that age.

"I didn't have that option to stick with them until they were 5 or 6," Pillsbury said. "I know there are other families that will be helped by this."

The proposal passed 8-1, with Grams voting against it.

Menikanaehkem to build teaching lodge

Lodge will be used to teach community members about life skills and culture

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

The Menikanaehkem community plans to build a new teaching lodge in Gresham in June.

Construction of the lodge, including people of all ages, started on May 22 but was postponed.

“We hope to have all age brackets involved,” said Anahkwet “Guy” Reiter, the executive director of Menikanaehkem. “This lodge is for our community, so we have to have all of those age dynamics to be a part of building it, from the little kids all the way up to the grandma and grandpas.”

Menikanaehkem is a grassroots community organization based on the Menominee Reservation that Reiter said focuses on environmental justice, energy sovereignty, food sovereignty, a youth organization and a culture and language initiative.

Reiter said that the teaching lodge is reminiscent of lodges from thousands of years ago.

“It kind of breaks down into a medicine lodge,” he said.

He mentioned that the lodge that is being built isn’t used for ceremonies.

“This lodge is for teaching,” said Reiter. “The actual lodge itself tells a story and gives you a path forward, like how to live your life.”

Reiter believes that something like this is needed in the community. He alluded to the fact that the teaching lodge has been a part of his culture for many years.

“This is something that our people

Community members and volunteers begin to build the teaching lodge on May 22 at the Menikanaehkem complex. The construction of the lodge began on May 22 but was postponed until June.

LUKE REIMER | NEW MEDIA

have done for thousands and thousands of years,” said Reiter. “The lodge itself is a teacher — when we get it together, we are hoping that the love, compassion, time and energy that we put into it, makes it come alive and gives it back to whoever stands inside of it.”

Reiter said when anyone comes in to visit the lodge, they will feel the love, compassion, time and energy.

“We are always trying to remind our relatives and volunteers to do it with a good mind and good energy,” said Reiter. “We tell them that if they get angry, to step out because we want to have good intentions.”

The Menikanaehkem community uses the lodge for various teaching activities every Thursday when it is up and running.

“We have some sort of teaching — sometimes it is cultural, sometimes it is more life skills like learning about taxes,” said Reiter. “We have games and perform songs in there and always have visitors.”

Reiter explained that the lodge will play an important role within the Menikanaehkem community.

“The thing about this is that it recognizes our own strengths as Indigenous people as well as recognizing our history,” said Reiter. “The lodge is utilizing our own strengths, our own beauty, and our own history to bring it into this contemporary world that we live in now.”

He also added that the lodge can bring people within the community together to build stronger bonds.

“We are bringing it into 2021, where it seems like everything is so divided and people can’t get along,” Reiter said. “In the construction of this building, we come together as one people and try to do it in a way that is compassionate and caring for not only each other, but also for the Earth, the trees and the environment that we are in.”

Menikanaehkem aims to help their community by building housing as well as creating task forces like the MMIW (Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women).

He said that the teaching lodge is a cultural building, while the houses and other projects have a specific purpose.

“This lodge is more encompassing,” said Reiter.

Reiter mentioned that if people wanted to learn more about Menikanaehkem, what they do and who they are, they can visit, <https://www.menomineerebuilders.org> and find them on Facebook — @Menikanaehkem - Community Rebuilders.

Menikanaehkem executive director Anahkwet “Guy” Reiter begins the preparation of building the lodge by digging holes at the Menikanaehkem complex on May 22.

Ribbons cut at convenience store, bank

Menominee, Oneida tribes work together to help community

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Bay Bank and Standing Pines Convenience Store simultaneously held their grand openings on May 25 in Keshena.

"This is a great addition to the community," said Wolf River Development Company General Manager Jennifer Peters.

Representatives from WRDC, Bay Bank, the Menominee and Oneida tribes were in attendance at the complex to celebrate the grand openings by cutting ribbons.

"Thank you to the WRDC board of directors, both past and present," Peters said. "If it wasn't for you and your willingness to take a risk, we wouldn't be here today."

Bay Bank President and CEO Jeff Bowman said the Oneida Nation started Bay Bank 30 years ago, and through determination, they were able to expand to the Menominee Reservation.

"Oneida Nation was a pioneer 30 years ago and started this bank when tribal nations starting a bank was unheard of," Bowman said. "The vision that they had 30 years ago made this happen."

Bowman described the celebration as a milestone for both the Menominee Nation and Oneida Nation.

"Both of us have opened brand new businesses," he said. "These businesses will help us and many other people."

He added that out of the 72 counties in Wisconsin, Menominee County was the only one without a full service bank.

"We knew that there was a lot of opportunity to help people, and that's where it starts," Bowman said. "We pride ourselves on personal service."

Bowman said Bay Bank exceeds in helping people find homes in tribal communities.

"You can really transform a community by increasing home ownership," he said.

It's important to have Bay Bank in the Menominee community, Bowman said.

"With this new banking office, we have the opportunity to transform a community," he said. "Economic development in native communities is so important, but it doesn't happen unless there are solid friendships and committed partnerships."

Economic development was also a focus in Menominee Chairman Gunnar Peters' remarks.

"In 2015, Menominee Tribal Legislature combined three charter travel businesses into one — rechartering Wolf River Development Company," said Gunnar Peters. "In just a few short years, that company has taken phenomenal steps forward to energize the economic development engines of the Menominee Tribe. They created jobs and improved our commerce here on the reservation."

He added that the partnership between the Menominee Tribe, WRDC and representatives from Bay Bank worked together to produce positive results for the community.

"The tribal legislature, the tribal administrator along with our finance manager and WRDC, worked diligently with Bay Bank to construct this facility and finally brought a full banking service to the Menominee Reservation," said Gunnar Peters.

Peters said the partnership with WRDC can amount to a positive economic future for the Menominee Reservation.

"When the tribal legislature considers what the WRDC has accomplished in just five short years, we cannot wait to see what the future holds," he said. "To all of our travel employees out there come and try the car wash. Soon our Menominee Reservation will be known for pristine lakes, clear streams and also clean cars."

Oneida Chairman Tehassi Hill called the grand opening a stepping stone for nations to come together.

"Today's grand opening of the Bay Bank branch is a great testament to striving for our nations to work together across the state," Hill said. "I hope that we can work together in other avenues — I think that we have a lot to offer one another."

The Keshena Bay Bank branch opened in January, while the Standing Pines Convenience Store opened in February.

'American Pickers' coming to Wisconsin

Mike Wolfe, a star of American Pickers, is looking to find antiques and treasures in Wisconsin in July.

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

A popular History Channel show will be making its way to Wisconsin in July.

The crew from American Pickers will be looking for large, private collections that they can pick through during the day.

"We are looking for different, unusual and unique items — Something that we have never seen before with an interesting story," said American Pickers Associate Producer Maggie Kissinger.

American Pickers began in 2010, and the show follows the duo of Mike Wolfe and Frank Firtz in their search to find interesting and unique artifacts for their collections and stores.

The pickers only visit private collections and do not go to public places, like flea markets, museums, malls, stores, auctions or businesses.

The show has roots in the Midwest with a home base in Le Claire, Iowa. According to Kissinger, the Midwest is a spot that is always on the radar for the pickers.

"The show is originally from the Midwest and the pickers love coming back to visit their old backyard," said Kissinger. "We are excited to find some rusty gold in Wisconsin again."

In order to contact with the American Pickers about a possible collection, an email can be sent to AmericanPickers@cinetflix.com or a call can be made to 855-653-7878. They also have a Facebook page at @GotAPick. They are asking for a name, a city and a state, contact information, a brief description and pictures of the collection.

Red, white and blue — in wood

Bieber boys make American flags, crosses as a source of pride, profit

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Many folks pledge allegiance to a flag with 13 stripes of alternating red and white and 50 stars in a field of blue, made of cloth that stands limp when the wind doesn't blow.

The flags that the three sons of Shawano County Sheriff Adam Bieber make are a little sturdier, though, with interesting touches on each one.

Will, West and Wyatt Bieber have been hard at work making a variety of American flags to sell and give to people, all out of wood. While many of them are the traditional flags, others have been made in the old Betsy Ross style with the 13 stars from when the United States was first established. Still others have the words of the current Pledge of Allegiance emblazoned on them, and some bear the words of the Second Amendment of the U.S. Constitution regarding the right to bear arms.

The flags are not the only things that the Bieber boys make in red, white and blue, though. The American flag imagery also shows on a number of crosses they've created, combining patriotism and faith.

The common theme to them all is a symbol that has kept the country whole for well over two centuries, one that gives the Bieber family and many others in Wisconsin a sense of pride when they see it flying over homes and businesses or coming down the road in a community parade.

What started out as a project that the sheriff hoped would keep his sons occupied in the early days of the pandemic after Wisconsin Gov. Tony Evers ordered all schools closed has turned into a passion project for the boys that Adam Bieber believes has taught them some valuable lessons about running a business.

"(Wife) Amy and I have both encouraged them to keep doing it," the sheriff said. "They've thought about getting other jobs, but now they're back into baseball, back into football, back into wrestling and all those things that are going on, working out of the garage actually works really well for them, and I think they're finding that out. They can work it around their schedule."

West Bieber paints one of the red stripes on a wooden flag as a photo of the Bieber family hangs in the background. What started out as a project to keep the boys busy during the initial weeks of the pandemic turned into a source of great pride for the family.

Adam Bieber added that his sons seem to take pride in what they do, especially when they deliver the flags to paying customers or organizations they decide to give them to. Some of the flags have been prizes won at community raffles.

"They've donated to the Boys and Girls Club, to some veterans groups, and they gave to help a benefit for Doug Rogers recently," he said. "They see the value in giving and helping people to raise money for good, quality organizations in the community."

West Bieber, Adam's middle son, noted that when the project began during the pandemic, the flags were not the original idea for the project.

"We were going to make bird-houses, but then we thought about flags," he said. "After we made our first flag, we thought, 'This is nice; we're going to do this.'"

Will Bieber, the eldest brother, added that the flag project was better than the alternative, given the length of the pandemic.

"We just kind of sat at home, played video games most of the time," he said. "Then we thought we should probably do something with all of the time at home. We wanted to make some money, too, because teenagers want money to do stuff."

There were many different materials the Biebers could have looked to use to make flags.

"The wood, I thought, would look the best," Will Bieber said. "It's probably cheaper than buying metal flags or different materials. We saw some wooden flags online and just thought that we should go with wood."

The flags are made in bulk and usually take about one or two hours per flag to be constructed. The stars and any other special items like writing are made through templates and then glued on, and the boys have been quick to change whenever someone has requested a variation.

"People have different preferences," West Bieber said. "Some people want them normal, while others want some writing on it. There's just a variety."

Word soon got out into the community about the Biebers and their flags once they posted photos on Facebook and Instagram.

"More people have asked for them, and we just keep on making them," West Bieber said. "We love

One of the flags bears the current Pledge of Allegiance. Many of the flags that the Bieber brothers make have the pledge or the words of the Second Amendment, but many of them are made without words, depending on a customer's preference.

ADAM BIEBER

Will Bieber, left, and his youngest brother, Wyatt, hold up a pair of crosses with the stars and stripes of the American flag on them, with one of them noting the Bible verse John 3:16. While the flags themselves have been popular in the Shawano community, the crosses have also generated some attention.

doing them. They're nice."

While the flags have been the main attraction in the boys' woodworking, the crosses have also caught people's attention.

"We just thought, what if we were to make crosses?" West Bieber said. "We put together a couple of designs, put them together, and then we did that. It went pretty well."

"Whatever came to mind, we did them," Will Bieber added.

It was trial and error to come up with the first ideal flag. Will Bieber noted that the prototypes were plain and needed "something to spice them up."

"We had no burning (on the wood) at first; we had the wood and we just stained it and that was it," he said. "We thought we'd spice it up by adding some burning marks and wooden stars instead of white spray paint. It was a process."

So far, the boys have made about 300 of the flags. Recently, they made an American flag that also tied in with breast cancer awareness, and another one was made for National Nurses Week.

"We were just trying to keep them busy when we started this. Everything was canceled and shut down, and we wanted to keep them busy and doing something positive with their time and learning something," Adam Bieber said. "It really morphed into a lot of good life lessons."

Planning vacation easier, but caution urged

A family tradition for many is planning a summer vacation, and due to new guidelines from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the increased access to COVID-19 vaccinations, heading to the beach for some sun and fun is a possibility.

Dr. Long Nguyen, a family medicine physician at ThedaCare Physicians-Wautoma, said the new CDC guidelines for people who have been vaccinated can be helpful to planning ahead for an upcoming summer vacation.

LONG NGUYEN

"We want people to remember that travel can increase your chance of contracting COVID-19," said Nguyen. "It would be a safe practice to delay traveling until you're vaccinated. If you're not vaccinated and must travel or will be traveling with children, who are ineligible for the vaccine at this time, there are some safe behaviors and precautions people can take."

In general, people are considered vaccinated two weeks after their second dose of Pfizer or Moderna vaccines or two weeks after the single-dose vaccine from Johnson and Johnson.

The CDC said if anyone who has a condition or is taking medications that weaken the immune system, they may not be fully protected even if they're fully vaccinated. Those in that category may want to consider delaying travel plans and talk with their health care provider for additional recommendations.

According to the new guidelines from the CDC, fully vaccinated travelers are less likely to get and spread COVID-19 and can travel safely within the United States.

"It's important that everyone still follow safety precautions and keep using proper hygiene practices," said Nguyen. "Fully vaccinated people should still follow those precautions as well, especially while traveling."

The CDC recommends fully vaccinated travelers practice safety measures including wearing a mask over the nose and mouth, staying

DID YOU KNOW?

If you are not vaccinated, there are some precautions that can help limit your risk, including:

Before you travel:

- Get tested with a viral test one to three days before your trip

While you travel:

- Wear a mask over your nose and mouth. Masks are required on planes, buses, trains and other forms of public transportation.

- Avoid crowds and stay at least six feet from anyone who is not traveling with you.

- Wash your hands often.

After you travel:

- Get tested with a viral test three to five days after travel and stay home and self-quarantine for a full seven days after travel.

- Even if you test negative, stay home and self-quarantine for the full seven days.

- If you test positive, isolate yourself to protect others from getting infected.

- If you don't get tested, stay home and self-quarantine for 10 days after travel.

- Avoid being around people who are at an increased risk of severe illness for 14 days, whether you get tested or not.

- Follow all state and local recommendations or requirements.

feet from others and avoid crowds, and washing your hands often or use hand sanitizer.

"Some of the new CDC guidelines include updates to testing and quarantine," Nguyen said. "Make sure to plan ahead and learn what guidelines or mandates may apply where you're traveling, even if you're familiar with the place, there may be new health updates. Be sure to also check with your airline carrier to make sure you have any required testing and/or documentation for safe travels and check back often for any new updates that could be available."

The CDC says fully vaccinated travelers do not need to get tested before or after travel unless their destination or airline requires it and they do not need to self-quarantine. The CDC website offers a travel planner with the latest health recommendations for where you're planning to travel.

"Taking all of the CDC travel precautions can help prevent the spread of COVID-19," said Nguyen. "We are all ready to get back to fun events like family vacations, and following recommendations will allow us to do so safely."

ThedaCare keeping COVID-19 restrictions in place

To ensure the safest environment possible to improve the health and well-being of patients, visitors and caregivers, ThedaCare is continuing safety measures in all facilities.

Recently, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) announced fully vaccinated people no longer need to wear masks outdoors or in most indoor settings. Health care is one of the exceptions to this announcement, according to the CDC. Even fully vaccinated people must still cover their faces when visiting health care facilities, in addition to other public spaces.

Regardless of COVID-19 vaccination status, masks will be required by patients, visitors and team members in any public setting on a ThedaCare campus. If patients or visitors do not have a mask, one will be provided.

Safe behaviors, including staying home when ill, maintaining physical distance, washing hands frequently and wearing a mask, are the first line of defense against the virus. Screeners will continue to be present at all ThedaCare hospitals to prevent the spread of COVID-19. They will be screening all patients, visitors and team members upon entrance.

Everyone should enter and be screened at designated entrances for each facility. Signs will be posted to direct community members to the appropriate entrance.

Visitors should not visit if they are experiencing common COVID-19 symptoms, including fever, chills, cough, shortness of breath, headache, sore throat, etc. People should call their primary care provider to be directed to appropriate care.

For a full list of visitor restrictions, visit thedacarecovid19.org/visitor-information.

Oshkosh museum hosting works of Menominee artist James Frechette

A small gallery on the second floor of the Oshkosh Public Museum, referred to as the Winnebago Room, is home to the Menominee Clans Story.

In honor of the exhibit the museum will kick things off with a pow wow as a gathering to join in dancing, singing, and honoring the culture of the Menominee on June 5 from noon to 5 p.m., with the grand entry at 1 p.m.

The Menominee Clans Story displays wood figures carved by Menominee traditional artist James F. Frechette Jr. James was born and raised on the Menominee reservation. He learned many of the traditional crafts in his tribe, as well as the stories, legends and ancient lore of the Menominee people. At the same time, he observed the craft life of the elders and from time-to-time acquired principles and techniques from them.

"The Oshkosh Public Museum is honored to have been chosen as the holder of these important clans figures," said Museum Director Brad Larson. "Each figure and its associated implements were done with authenticity and imbued with meaning and spiritual power. Once completed, visitors will not only admire the beauty and spirituality of the figures, but they will also learn about their responsibility to the Menominee people and the natural world they are intimately tied to."

The pow wow is a free community program with general admission to the museum. Patrons are invited to bring chairs or blankets and enjoy a beautiful summer day on the historic grounds of the museum.

Located at 1331 Algoma Blvd., the museum's regular hours are Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Sunday from 1-4:30 p.m. For information, visit oshkoshmuseum.org, call 920-236-5799 or email museum@ci.oshkosh.wi.us.

Bonduel girls earn 1st place, boys 2nd at home invitational

Menominee Indian, Marion also compete

By MORGAN RODE

The Bonduel High School girls track and field team earned a first-place finish at the May 20 Bonduel Invitational in Bonduel. The Bonduel boys claimed second.

The Bonduel girls accumulated 171.5 points, with Weyauwega-Fremont (110.5) coming in second. Menominee Indian (49) claimed sixth, with Marion (3) in eighth.

The Bonduel boys racked up 140 points, behind Amherst (166). Menominee Indian (14) placed sixth.

Bonduel's girls team earned five first-place finishes on the afternoon.

Kara Troxel won the long jump with a leap of 14 feet, 11 inches. Ashlyn Kurey was the top finisher in the triple jump (31-8.5), and Brenna Hertzfeldt posted the top mark in the discus (111-2).

Kendra Troxel, Breanna Schnell, Kurey and Kara Troxel teamed up to take first in the 4x800-meter relay with a time of 10 minutes, 37.07 seconds. The same quartet placed first in the 4x400 relay in 4:29.56.

"I thought that I performed pretty well for the conditions at the meet," said Kara Troxel, who also competed in the 800, placing second in 2:32.99. "It was pretty hot out, but I still managed to PR (personal record) in the 800 and out-sprint a girl at the end to claim second place.

"In the two relays, it was kind of hard to push myself to go faster since there wasn't anyone running right next to me, but in my eyes I still ran a good time. Long jump also went pretty good for me, too. Although I didn't meet my goal of 15 (feet), I will still keep practicing so that 15 will be my smallest jump."

The Bonduel boys top finishes all came from individuals.

shot put (40-0.75) to lead the Bears. Kaden Bergsbaken was the top finisher in the 300 hurdles (46.13).

Karter Schroeder won the boys high jump after clearing 5-6.

"This year I've been focusing on high jump because that's where I excel," said Schroeder. "I've been consistently getting 5-6, and I'm so close to getting 5-8 and 5-10. All these top finishes give me hope for conference and sectionals."

Along with its nine total first-place finishes, the Bonduel boys and girls teams earned 14 second-place finishes.

The Menominee Indian girls were led by the second-place finishes of Emma Komanekin and Guadalupe Cruz.

Komanekin was second in the 1,600 (5:54.45), while Cruz earned second in the shot put (37-2).

"I think I did fairly good on my individual events," said Komanekin, who was also third in the long jump. "Every meet my mile time decreases, and that is what I want. As my mile time decreases I get more confidence about the regional meet."

Asenex Turney had the best individual finishes for the Menominee Indian boys. He placed third in the shot put (34-5) and fourth in shot put (102-5.5).

ATHLETE PROFILE: COLE ANDERSON

Bonduel senior stacking up big games

The Bonduel High School baseball team is enjoying a strong season this spring, and senior Cole Anderson has put together some big games to help the team along the way.

Anderson posted three RBIs and doubled during Bonduel's 10-9 win over Manawa on May 22. Two days earlier, he earned the win on the mound when Bonduel topped Menominee Indian 8-3. He struck out 11 batters.

In a 9-5 win over Wittenberg-Birnamwood on May 18, Anderson had four RBIs on three hits. He earned a win on the mound during an 8-5 win over Iola-Scandinavia on May 15, striking out seven batters in a complete game effort. Another win for Anderson came when Bonduel topped Weyauwega-Fremont on May 10, with the senior striking out nine batters across five innings.

During a pair of victories on May 1, Anderson earned the win after coming on in relief in game one before driving in four runs on four hits in game two. Anderson also earned the win in the team's season-opening game against Iola-Scandinavia.

Q: When did your interest in baseball begin?

A: My interest for baseball began the moment that I was able to pick up a bat and throw a ball. It especially grew when I was in little league with a team that enjoyed the sport as much as me.

Q: What is your favorite part about the baseball season?

A: My favorite part about the baseball season is all the games and the atmosphere that the games bring — especially when our whole team is really engaged in the game.

Q: What are your individual goals for the season?

A: My first goal was as a hitter. I would like to try for a .500 batting average, which is a hard but a good goal to try and achieve. Also I want to be a solid pitcher that keeps runs off the board and my ERA below 2.

Q: Your team has put together a strong season so far. What's been the key to the success?

A: I feel the key to our success is how we rally together. Our team this year has a lot of younger underclassmen, and we treat them all the same — allowing us to be a well-unified team.

Q: You've become a force at the plate and on the mound for your team. What's helped you be so successful in both areas?

A: I credit the time put in during the offseason, taking the extra time to hit and throw a few more balls. Along with that, I credit my teammates who create a great atmosphere around me.

Q: With it being your senior season and the season lasting longer than usual, how do you plan to stay engaged and focused as the regular season winds down and the postseason nears?

AT A GLANCE

SCHOOL: Bonduel High School

A: Staying engaged won't be much of a problem because of the passion that I've got for the game.

Q: Before a game begins, do you have any rituals you go through?

A: Before every game, me and a few of my teammates will run out to the foul pole and say the Lord's Prayer together, followed by our own short prayers. For me when I'm batting, I follow the same routine every time before I step up to the plate.

Q: What is your favorite memory of competing on the Bonduel baseball team?

A: Beating Coleman in the regional semifinals 13-1 my sophomore year. Going into the game we knew that we were the underdogs, but we rallied and pulled out a big win.

Q: Favorite TV show, movie and musical artist?

A: TV show — "Shooter." Movie — "Million Dollar Arm." Musical artist — Luke Combs.

Q: Name one thing about yourself that not many people know?

A: I broke both my middle fingers.

Q: What's the greatest piece of advice you have ever been told?

A: When you put your mind to it, you can do amazing things.

Q: What are some things you hope to accomplish after graduating high school?

A: I hope to continue playing baseball in college, as well as to receive my degree in the natural resources field.

Whitman cashes in after IMCA Modified win

Schmidt, Arneson,
Frank, Wedde win
other features

By DAVE BUSS

Special to NEW Media

A picture-perfect night for racing brought a large crowd to the Legendary Half Mile at Shawano Speedway. With added money in the IMCA Modified division, it was sure to be a big night of racing.

Jayden Schmidt, Eric “Chummy” Arneson, Johnny Whitman, Gunner Frank and Brad Wedde had the biggest of nights with feature wins in their respective divisions.

The IMCA Sport Mods got the show rolling with Jason Jach trying to find a groove after a rough early start to the season. Jach grabbed the early advantage despite multiple cautions in the early going.

While Jach didn’t want to see any yellow flags, Schmidt was happy to see them. Schmidt, having started mid-pack, used each caution to shrink the gap to the front of the pack. On lap 10, Schmidt wrestled away the lead and cruised to a feature win.

Jach finished with a strong runner-up performance, with Jeffery Teske in third place.

It is getting very difficult to find adjectives that explain just how great the action has been in the IMCA Stock Car division. Saturday was no exception.

For the first nine laps, Vern Stedjee was out in front of all the craziness behind him. Kyle Frederick rose to the top on lap 10 and looked to escape.

Meanwhile, Arneson was battling with numerous heavy hitters in three-wide battles that evolved into four-wide wildness. Arneson snuck past Frederick with four laps left and drove to the win.

Chucky Forstner grabbed third, with Travis VanStraten and Trent Nolan using late-race charges to complete the top five.

Thanks to LINE-X Extreme Coating, there were 1,000 reasons to win the IMCA Modified feature. Normally a driver leading green to checkered for the win makes the recap a boring thing to write, but not on this night.

Whitman took the lead on the opening lap after starting third. Whitman then began to power away from the field. With multiple feature wins this season, Mike Mullen was doing his best to entertain as he was slicing his way to the front. By lap six, Mullen made his way to second from 10th.

Mullen began to cut into the lead lap after lap, and it looked like he would get by the Whitman machine on multiple occasions. Whitman was up to every challenge.

A late-race caution gave Mullen one more shot, but Whitman was up to the challenge and picked up the win. Mullen was second with Marcus Yarie third and Lance Arneson fourth.

Frank wouldn’t let anyone spoil his pole position start as he jumped to a big lead in the Late Model feature. Building an over five-second lead at one point in the race, Frank was just too strong.

Luke Postl would be the talk if it wasn’t for Frank, as Postl finished a strong second. Brett Swedberg finished third with Mullen grabbing fourth while racing double duty.

Wedde kept up his strong season with a win in the Mighty 4’s as he took the lead on lap two and cruised to victory.

Tanner Westphal finished second. Taylor Becher and Alexis Michonski completed the top four.

Isolation, inactivity in pandemic 'recipe for falls'

CDC targets 4 states, including Wisconsin, for falls prevention campaign for older adults

By SHAMANE MILLS
Wisconsin Public Radio

Wisconsin has the nation's highest rate of deadly falls among older adults — and the pandemic may have made the problem worse.

In response, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention is launching a new campaign — Still Going Strong — in Wisconsin, along with Maine, Oklahoma and Oregon, to prevent falls among older adults.

The campaign will have TV, print, radio and social media ads that highlight the importance of being active and staying up to date on routine doctor's visits.

Wisconsin has consistently ranked in the top three in the nation for deadly falls among older adults, said Janet Zander, policy coordinator for the Wisconsin Aging Advocacy Network.

"We continue to try to find what is the way to message this that's going to really get their attention. Because we certainly have not been successful to date," she said.

Candy Hoyt, 70, remembers repeated trips to the hospital for falls she had in 2015. She wasn't seriously injured but had to undergo rehabilitation services for five weeks.

"I missed Christmas, I missed New Year's. I missed a lot," she recalled. "When I went in, I could not walk on my own, I needed help. It was a very humbling experience."

Doctors believe a thyroid problem made her gait unstable, along with low vitamin D levels which she said may have increased her chances of falling.

While exercise classes like Stepping On focus on improving strength and balance, there are many contributing factors that can affect a person's gait or ability to stay upright — like Hoyt's. Sometimes it's not always obvious.

"To a lot of people it's confusing and their first answer will be, 'Well, it's cold outside and it's slippery.' That's not it. We have colder states, we have Minnesota doing better than us," said Dave Nelson, executive director of The Wisconsin Institute for Healthy Aging, which urges older adults to talk to their doctors about any medication they're on, in case it may contribute to falling.

Not only is Wisconsin No. 1 in deadly falls, but the most recent data shows rates are increasing faster than other states.

The rate of deaths from falls among people 65 and older in Wisconsin rose 19.1% from 2016 to 2019, while the nationwide rate increased 7.6% over the same time period, according to the CDC.

A 2019 report from the Wisconsin Department of Health Services showed alcohol-related disorders accounted for the second-highest rate of hospitalizations in those 65 and older, and that "excessive drinking, icy winters and better reporting of falls" were cited as reasons for why Wisconsin leads the nation in deadly falls.

New national data for 2020 isn't out yet but some have speculated that, like other Americans cooped up during the pandemic, older adults may have lost some strength and balance that can help prevent falls.

How to downsize your home for a move

By JIM MILLER

Special to NEW Media

Dear Savvy Senior,

What tips can you offer for downsizing? My husband and I would like to relocate from our house into a retirement community condo near our daughter but need to get rid of a lot of personal possessions before we can move.

Overwhelmed Willa

Dear Willa,

The process of weeding through a house full of stuff and parting with old possessions is difficult and overwhelming for most people. A good place to start is to see if your kids, grandkids or other family members would like any of your unused possessions. Whatever they don't want, here are a few tips and services that may help you downsize.

Selling your stuff is one way to get rid of your possessions and pad your pocketbook at the same time. Selling options may include consignment shops, a garage sale, estate sale and selling online.

Consignment shops are good for selling old clothing, household furnishings and decorative items – they typically get 30 to 40% of the sale price. A good old-fashion garage sale is another option, or for large-scale downsizing you could hire an estate sale company to come in and sell your items. See EstateSales.net and EstateSales.org to locate options in your area. Some estate companies will even pick up your stuff and sell it at their own location – they typically take about 35% of the profits.

Selling online is also a great option and opens you up to a wider audience. The OfferUp app (OfferUp.com), Facebook Marketplace (Facebook.com/marketplace), Craigslist (Craigslist.org) and the CPlus for Craigslist app (Yanflex.com) are great options for selling locally, which can eliminate the packing and shipping costs and hassle. These websites and apps also don't take a cut of your sales, but you're responsible for connecting with your buyer and making the exchange of money and goods.

If you itemize on your tax returns, donating your belongings to charitable organizations is another way to downsize and get a tax deduction. The Salvation Army (SAtruck.org, 800-728-7825) will actually come to your house and pick up a variety of household items, including furnishings and clothing. Goodwill (Goodwill.org) is another good option to donate to but they don't offer pickup services.

If your deductions exceed $500, you'll need to file Form 8283, "Non-cash Charitable Contributions" (IRS.gov/pub/irs-pdf/f8283.pdf). You'll also need a receipt from the organization for every batch of items you donate and will need to create an itemized list of the items donated. To calculate fair market value for your stuff, use the Salvation Army's donation guide at SAtruck.org/home/donationvalueguide.

If you have a lot of junk you want to get rid of, contact your municipal trash service to see if they provide bulk curbside pickup services. Depending on where you live, you could hire a company like 1-800-Got-Junk (1800gotjunk.com, 800-468-5865) or Junk-King (Junk-King.com, 888-888-5865) to come in and haul it off for a moderate fee.

Another disposal option is Bagster (TheBagster.com, 877-789-2247) by Waste Management. This is a dumpster bag that you purchase for around $30, fill it to a limit of 3,300 pounds and schedule a pickup, which costs anywhere between $100 and $300 depending on your area.

If you want or need some help, consider hiring a senior move manager. These are professional organizers who help older adults and their families with the daunting process of downsizing and moving to a new residence. To locate one in your area, visit the National Association of Senior Move Managers at NASMM.org or call 877-606-2766. You can also search at Caring Transitions (CaringTransitions.com), which is a large senior relocation and transition services franchise company that has more than 200 franchises nationwide.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

How to reduce back pain during pregnancy

The good news during a normal pregnancy is that your baby is growing. The bad news is that you are likely to experience back pain.

Your symptoms may occur in the pelvic area or the low back, or both, and some women may also experience leg pain. Back pain during pregnancy is generally attributed to postural changes (increased low back curve to balance increasing belly weight) and ligament laxity caused by hormones.

Most pregnant women will experience some degree of back and/or pelvic pain during pregnancy. It usually begins in the third month of pregnancy and peaks in the third trimester before declining in severity. Many women report a return to pre-pregnancy levels of low back pain within six months of delivery, but some experience chronic low back or pelvic pain. The 12-month postpartum rate of back or pelvic pain is 37%, and the six-year rate is 18%.

BRIAN GRIEVES

Pregnancy-related low back pain contributes substantially to health care costs. Ninety-four percent of women who experienced low back pain during pregnancy have recurrent symptoms with subsequent pregnancies, and two-thirds of these patients experience disability requiring sick leave. Notably, 19% of women with pain in an initial pregnancy report avoiding a future pregnancy out of fear of a recurrence of these symptoms.

Fortunately, several effective non-drug strategies can help reduce the severity and frequency of back and pelvic pain — practicing good posture when standing and sitting, sleeping on your side and wearing low-heeled shoes with good arch support. Exercise and spinal manipulation are also very effective.

Medical research teams have found that an individualized exercise program that includes stabilizing exercises and aerobic exercise is effective for pregnant patients with back or pelvic pain. Aerobic exercise during pregnancy is important to your overall health, the improvement of your mood and the reduction of fatigue. Stabilizing exercises can control pain, improve function and enhance overall quality of life. Both forms of exercise can be used not only to treat pain, but also to prevent it. You should consult with your medical doctor before beginning any exercise program.

Researchers have found that spinal manipulation can provide safe and effective relief of back and pelvic pain in pregnant women. Three scientific reviews found that chiropractic treatment during pregnancy is a safe and effective means of treating common spinal symptoms in pregnant patients. Altogether, the current literature suggests that chiropractic treatment is a safe intervention for pregnant women with back and pelvic pain.

Recently, a randomized clinical trial found that adding chiropractic care (between four and six treatment sessions) to standard obstetric management provided important clinical benefits to pregnant women with back and pelvic pain. This study, published in the "American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology," was conducted with medical doctors and chiropractors. The Mayo Clinic has also recommended spinal manipulation for pregnant patients. If you are considering chiropractic care, it is recommended that you consult with an evidence-based chiropractor.

Dr. Brian Grieves is a doctor of chiropractic with a master's in public health and a member of the Shawano Community Health Action Team (CHAT). Call 715-524-8722 for more information.

$2 million available for food waste reduction

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced the availability of up to $2 million for local governments to host Community Compost and Food Waste Reduction pilot projects for fiscal year 2021.

The cooperative agreements support projects that develop and test strategies for planning and implementing municipal compost plans and food waste reduction plans and they are part of USDA's broader efforts to support urban agriculture.

USDA's Office of Urban Agriculture and Innovative Production (Office) will accept applications on www.grants.gov until 11:59 p.m. Eastern Time on July 16. Projects should span two years with a start date of Sept. 25, 2021, and completion date of Sept. 25, 2023.

"Finding ways to turn food waste into nutrient rich compost is a win-win for farmers, communities and the environment," said Tyler Radke, Acting State Executive Director in Wisconsin. "The level of enthusiasm and creativity communities are putting towards this kind of problem solving is inspiring, and USDA is proud to support it."

Cooperative agreements support projects led by local governments that generate compost, increase access to compost for agricultural producers, reduce reliance on and limit the use of fertilizer, improve soil quality, encourage waste management and permaculture business development, increase rainwater absorption, reduce municipal food waste and divert food waste from landfills. USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service will provide assistance for conservation related activities.

Priority will be given to projects that anticipate or demonstrate economic benefits, incorporate plans to make compost easily accessible to farmers, including community gardeners, integrate other food waste strategies, including food recovery efforts and collaborate with multiple partners.

This is the second year the Office of Urban Agriculture and Innovative Production offered this grant opportunity.

A pre-recorded webinar will provide an overview of the cooperative agreements' purpose, project types, eligibility and basic requirements for submitting an application. The webinar will be posted at farmers.gov/urban.

Questions about this cooperative agreement opportunity can be sent to UrbanAgriculture@usda.gov.

The Office of Urban Agriculture and Innovative Production was established through the 2018 Farm Bill, and in addition to these grant opportunities, it offers grant and engagement opportunities. It includes representatives from many USDA agencies, including the Farm Service Agency and the Agricultural Marketing Service, and is led by NRCS. More information is available at farmers.gov/urban.

Additional resources that may be of interest to urban agriculture entities include NIFA grants, FSA loans and AMS grants to improve domestic and international opportunities for U.S. growers and producers.

CHURCHES ARE BACK... So is the Worship Directory!

When the coronavirus pandemic hit, churches and other places of worship had to close, which meant NEW Media's worship directory had to go away. Now that the faithful are returning to their houses of worship, we're in the process of rebuilding our worship directory on our website

WWW.NEWMEDIA-WI.COM

Houses of worship can send their vital information, including physical addresses, days and times of services, names of leaders and contact information, to

EDITOR@NEWMEDIA-WI.COM. Be sure to have "WORSHIP DIRECTORY" in the subject line.

NEW MEDIA INC.

PLANNING OUT YOUR NIGHT? YOUR WEEKEND?

LET US HELP YOU OUT WITH THAT!

NEW Media's website (www.newmedia-wi.com) has a calendar so you can keep up with the latest activities — sporting events, entertainment, government meetings, community festivals. Just click on the calendar tab at the top of the page, and they'll all be there for you to peruse!

BUT ONLY IF THE COMMUNITY TELLS US WHAT'S GOING ON...

There are two ways to submit calendar notices:

- Go to the form on our website at <http://www.newmedia-wi.com/content/community-calendar> and fill it out to send to us.
- Send your information by email to editor@newmedia-wi.com and put "Community Calendar" in the subject line.

CLUB NOTES

Shawano Area Writers

The Shawano Area Writers met May 20 in the Udder Room at Farm Inn. There were 11 members in attendance — Dennis Vickers, Irma Timmons-Arndt, John Mutter Jr., Manuel Moraleda, Twilla Beyer, Wendy Goerl, Lee Pulaski, Tom Thorstenson, Trudy Bosman, Terry Misfeldt and Barb King.

Trilby Beauprey McIntosh will be greatly missed by the group. She had served as secretary for three years.

First to be discussed was the 2021 George Putz Memorial Student Writing Contest awards ceremony held May 23 at the Mielke Arts Center at 1 p.m. Anyone who wanted to help set up needed to be there around noon. It was also decided that Fiona Hoffman from Gresham would receive her $2,000 writing scholarship at that time.

The annual dues of $5 were collected from each member.

Misfeldt brought up the idea of doing a workshop before each meeting for those who might like to learn skills like fleshing out a character or writing conversation that moves the story along. Members of the group could give the hour lesson. He wanted us to think about the suggestion and come came with ideas.

Next up was the voting-in of new officers, because the last group of officers had served four years instead of three due to COVID-19 keeping us from meeting. The new officers are Dennis Vickers, president; Lee Pulaski, vice president; John Mutter, treasurer; and Barbara King, secretary.

Vickers announced that the next meeting would be held June 17, the third Thursday of the month. The location was not decided at this time. Everyone will be advised of the location before the next meeting.

The Writers then went into the readings. Wendy Goerl read a section of her new photo essay book entitled "COVID County Fair." Goerl has been taking photos of the carnival rides at the fair since the 1990s and has expanded to take in all aspects of the Shawano County Fair. She has 3,460 images of the fair.

Lee Pulaski read an excerpt from his 10th Zachary Gagewood mystery novel located in Gresham, entitled "Dine Out and Die." Alice, a rather forceful newcomer to the town, is discussing with Zachary the fact that no one wants to back her plan of putting a library in town. First, she wanted to put it in Zachary's bookstore, then she tried getting the town board to put it in the newly restored ballroom. Alice can't understand why no one is willing to follow her plans. She seems to have forgotten she called the village board doddering old fools.

Trudy Boseman showed us how she is keeping a journal and posting small pictures with the writings. She also read a poem called "Memories." Every Wednesday, Writer's Digest puts a poetry prompt on its website, and Boseman likes to see what she can come up with.

Barb King read the prologue from her mystery novel "The Children in the Garden." The year is 1981 and 7-year-old Linda is impatiently waiting for her mother to pick her up after school when a tall thin man comes up to her. He calls her by her name, but Linda says she can't talk to him because he's a stranger. He convinces her he isn't a stranger, giving her a red plastic heart ring. Linda takes the hand of the man and goes to his truck. Linda's mother, never noticed the truck pulling out of the parking lot as she pulled in or her little girl crying and pounding on the window calling, "Mommy."

Irma Timmons-Arndt read her story "Two Lucky Ducks." She had gone into the South Forty and spotted two fuzzy ducklings in a box. She whistled and clucked, and they came over to her. She would have liked to adopt these two but remembered the last encounter with ducks. Her husband had gotten 30 ducks for their pond. Every day he counted the ducks, and every day there was one less, until they all were gone. Timmons-Arndt called these two lucky ducks because she resisted her urge to take them home.

Dennis Vickers recited the hilarious poem he had written for his brother-in-law's 60th birthday. It retold the time his brother-in-law was dancing on a bar in Cuba and fell off, breaking both ankles. Vickers said the poem with a Cuban accent, and when he was Facetiming, he wore a sombrero and had a cigar in his mouth.

Manny Moraleda talked about the trip he and his wife took to Holland, Michigan. He also gave each woman in the group a bookmark of delicate flowers made from melted wax, that he had made.

After the readings, the meeting was adjourned.

While studying at Ripon College, Waggoner simultaneously studied special education at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh. She plans to teach after graduation.

"The most important lesson I will be taking from Ripon is that you have the ability to do whatever you put your mind to," Waggoner said. "No matter any obstacle that you are put through, if you put in the time, the work and the effort, you can do anything. Being able to work in the admission office for most of my time at Ripon holds special memories for me. I was able to meet many prospective students and talk about why I love Ripon College. The best was seeing them on campus the next fall."

UW-Madison

McKenzie Trinko, of Shawano, is among the Wisconsin Agricultural and Life Sciences Alumni Association's outstanding sophomore recipients at the University of Madison.
