State grant aids expansion of the Wooden Shoe

Lena restaurant can now handle bigger events and grow catering business

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

The village of Lena received a $110,000 state grant to assist in expanding the Wooden Shoe Bar and Grill located in downtown Lena.

The Community Development Investment Grant from the Wisconsin Economic Development Corp. supported the village's plans to increase the capacity of the Wooden Shoe to capture more events and grow the restaurant's catering business.

Significant renovation of the existing facility has resulted in a larger kitchen and new equipment, as well as construction of a patio for outdoor seating. A blighted building connected to the existing bar and grill was razed to provide space for the development. This expansion has nearly doubled the size of the Wooden Shoe, 100 W. Main St.

Between indoor and outdoor seating, the expansion lets the Wooden Shoe host around 70 additional people, allowing the venue to compete for larger events.

"The Wooden Shoe Bar and Grill could not have achieved its build-out and required space to run its business without the help of the Wisconsin Economic Development Corp.," said Carisa Deheck, owner of the Wooden Shoe. "We had outgrown our current space and were in jeopardy of losing customers, and now we can offer them the service they deserve. Thank you, WEDC, for having such great programs to help small businesses."

With the addition of the patio, larger kitchen, longer business hours and catering, the Wooden Shoe expects to hire additional staff.

CDI application.

"This project is a continuation of the thoughtful work that has been shown by the village to provide opportunities for businesses to grow and thrive here," said Paul Ehrfurth, executive director of the OCEDC.

Village President Steve Marquardt said the CDI program is an invaluable resource to small business owners to take their business to the next level.

"The timing of this grant award is right, as our village is actively working with our existing businesses to ensure that they remain viable and successful," Marquardt said. "I am excited for the completed Wooden Shoe expansion, as it serves as an example of what a business and state agency can accomplish by working together."

aims to support community development and redevelopment efforts, primarily in downtown areas. The matching grants are awarded based on the ability of applicants to demonstrate the economic impact of the proposed project, including public and private partnership development, financial need and use of sustainable downtown development practices.

"One of the top priorities of WEDC is to promote substantive local development by helping communities enhance their downtown areas and establish firm foundations for ongoing economic growth," said Missy Hughes, secretary and CEO of WEDC. "This project will make a real difference in the village of Lena by supporting a valuable business in the community and encouraging future investment."

Navy veteran receives Harley from Hogs for Heroes

Group has awarded 17 motorcycles to wounded veterans since 2016

By WARREN BLUHM
Editor-in-chief

Shannon Flynn of Oconto Falls decided to enlist in the Navy after his sophomore year in high school, and after getting out he decided to join the reserves, figuring he could serve a couple of weekends a month and earn some extra beer money.

Three months later the events of Sept. 11, 2001, changed everything for the nation's military reserves, and he ended up with 20 years of service to his country, including three deployments to combat zones, once in Iraq and twice in Afghanistan.

Before he left on deployment, he sold his beloved motorcycle "just in case," explains Kevin Thompson, president of a nonprofit organization called Hogs for Heroes.

"The bike he loved and meant so much to him, he sold it so he could serve his country and take care of his family," said Thompson. "Like other veterans he would do it all again ... But that hole doesn't go away, no matter how many friends you have, your wonderful family, he didn't have that motorcycle in his life."

During a special gathering at Veterans Memorial Park in Suring on May 8, Thompson's organization presented Flynn with a 2017 Harley-Davidson Ultra Limited, black with blue striping, that he had picked out after being selected as the latest recipient of a motorcycle from Hogs for Heroes.

"We have a really simple mission: We raise money to buy Harleys for injured Wisconsin veteran riders. We're talking about men or women who have that passion and that love for riding and in the course of service to our country have been injured, disabled, and now find themselves struggling and unable to have that bike in their life," said Audra Thompson, Kevin's wife and vice president of the organization, during the Suring ceremony. "We gift them with a Harley and get them back on the road, and as I look out at this beautiful crowd I know we have a lot of you out here who totally understand the power of wind therapy, and it does make a difference."

During one of his deployments, Flynn was working convoy security and was taking tire chains off a truck, fell off and landed on his back, with 150 pounds of chain landing on top of him.

"All I remember is my other mechanic looking down at me and saying, 'Oh, man, that must have hurt,'" Flynn said.

It still does. Kevin Thompson said Flynn gets annual treatments to help him deal with the pain from his back injury.

Flynn had used the G.I. Bill to get certified as a Harley-Davidson mechanic so he could stay close to motorcycles, working for a number of dealerships and even opening his own shop for a time, Thompson said. A friend nominated Flynn for the honor.

"When the Hogs for Heroes advisory board saw that application, we thought this is exactly what we do," Kevin Thompson said.

To riders the bike is a symbol of freedom, a concept the country struggles with these days, he said.

"It doesn't mean we all have to agree, but it means we allow each other to live our lives as we choose to. And that can be messy and it's not easy — it's not supposed to be, but that's what makes it all the more precious," he said. "The real cost of freedom is what men and women are willing to do and sacrifice for that freedom. That cost of freedom falls disproportionately on our men and women in service, and the veterans, and I think that's part of the struggle now why people can't grasp that cost of freedom is because so few people pay that price, and they pay it on behalf of all of us."

Audra Thompson said when she and her husband started Hogs for Heroes in 2016, they thought if they could raise enough to buy one motorcycle a year, they'd be successful. Five years later Flynn was the recipient at the 17th Hogs for Heroes presentation and the first of six expected to be given during 2021. This was the first time the Madison-based group has come as far north as Suring to present a bike.

"It's a great organization, I've worked with them on some rides, and what they're doing is just awesome," Flynn said.

The Thompsons credited a large donation from Operating Engineers Local 139 of Coloma for helping to pay for Flynn's bike and part of at least one more. The local has supported Hogs for Heroes almost from the beginning, and is hosting a fourth annual poker run June 26, said Terry McGowan, president of the local.

"Last year we raised $30,000, and this year we intend to do a lot more," McGowan said.

The presentation ended with Kevin Thompson handing the keys to the Harley to the first person who ever received a bike from the organization, who passed it along through more than a half-dozen other recipients and finally to Flynn, who started the motorcycle.

"That's the sound of freedom right there," Kevin Thompson said.

The heart of a helper

Barb Salscheider stands on the porch of the Antique Bar & Grill in Oconto Falls, which she and her late husband, John, purchased 45 years ago and made a mainstay of the city's Main Street.

ANGELA DEJA

Memorial Day Parade Grand Marshal is a longtime friend, "helper" to the community

By ANGELA DEJA

Special to NEW Media

"Look for the helpers. You will always find people who are helping."

This quote comes from the late Mister Rogers, who once shared that his mother would tell him this as a boy if he became frightened by what he saw on the news. All things considered, these words of wisdom couldn't come at a better time.

This Memorial Day, the City of Oconto Falls will host a parade in honor of some of our nation's greatest helpers — the men and women who died in active military service, making the ultimate sacrifice for their country. The Grand Marshal of this year's parade, Barb Salscheider, will remind you those men and women are what this day is truly about. However, despite her desire to shy away from all this attention, this story is about her and the helper she is and always has been for her community.

Barb's life in Oconto Falls began in 1976 when she and her late husband, John, and their two young children purchased what is today known as Salscheider's Antique Bar and a cornerstone of the city's Main Street.

"The big rumor in town was that we would never make it because we were too young," she recalls. "We started our cash register with the $50 we had left after paying our bills."

Through hard work and some hard times juggling a bar and a growing family, the couple continued to prove those rumors wrong. Over the years, Barb and John not only built a solid foundation for a business, they cultivated a community and lifelong friendships at "The Antique."

"It's like 'Cheers' here," says Barb. "Everybody knows your name. It may be a bar and a liquor store, but it's also a source of community."

As Barb and John served up drinks and their famous hot-buttered popcorn over the years, they also provided their customers an ear to listen, a shoulder to cry on, and in many cases money or groceries to help those struggling to pay the bills or put food on the table. In some cases, John and Barb were the only family their customers had. With tears in her eyes, Barb recalls a memory of one their most regular customers.

"He couldn't travel well," she says. "He had never been able to make it to Green Bay to visit his mother's grave stone and that was very difficult for him. So, John and I traveled to Green Bay, purchased a wreath and laid it at his mom's gravestone. We took a picture of it and then presented it to him at Christmas. It allowed him to finally be able to see his mom's gravestone before he died, and we knew how touching it was for him."

Sadly, Barb's husband John has also since passed away, losing a battle to cancer in 2016. John served the Oconto Falls Fire Department for 35 years, and Barb is a devoted member of the Friends of the Oconto Falls Fire Department which raises funds for new equipment for the department. Despite his passing nearly five years ago, Barb still has John's fire radio and scanner plugged in her kitchen. Her ear is tuned to every squawk it makes.

"That way, if I hear there is a big fire, I can quickly get some food and refreshments together to bring to the fire station, so the crew has something to eat when they get back," she says.

Since John's passing, and despite this devastating loss to her and her family, Barb has continued to successfully run the bar. While her business is tending bar, her biggest passion continues to be tending to her community. Three years ago, she used her own money to launch a grassroots effort to revamp the city's aging Main Street.

"I sent a letter to all of my fellow business owners on Main Street, and we met at the library and discussed all the improvements we wanted to see," she says. "We want to bring some life and put some color back into our Main Street."

In the last three years, and thanks to additional donations from the community, Oconto Falls' Main Street is well on its way to the revitalization Barb, local business owners and community members want to see. Old buildings are getting new fronts and fresh coats of paint, flower beds and pots are being planted, and the color is coming back, too.

Recently, Barb commissioned a local artist to paint a mural of the city's dam and falls on the side of one Main Street business. A "Welcome to Oconto Falls" mural is planned for another Main Street business soon. Barb is also rolling up her own sleeves as part of these efforts. She and others spent a weekend removing stubborn, old stone from the façade of a resale shop on Main Street and giving it a new coat of paint.

"I bought a drill hammer from True Value, and we just went at it," she said. "It took an entire weekend, and I can still hear the rumble of that thing in my ears, but if we were going to do it, we were going to do it right or not at all."

As Barb continues the efforts to revive Main Street, she also continues to make sure other community projects stay afloat. She's donated countless hours and money in the last several years to bring life back to the city's annual Memorial Day Parade by hosting float contests and creating a welcoming atmosphere in her bar and on her front yard for parade watchers. She's also donated countless dollars to local school, sports and community organizations and efforts, such as Music on the River and the Veterans Monument build.

Barb is also known for her random acts of kindness. While she tries to keep them under wraps, she's not always successful at it. Someone recently shared she was the one who sprung for new patio furniture at the local golf course while shopping a clearance sale at the local hardware store. Last spring, when the pandemic hit, she spent hours making handwritten thank you posters and anonymously posted them outside nearly every business in the city, including the hospital and grocery store. It didn't take long for the community to figure out who the culprit was, and it even captured the attention of local news.

"You have to give back to your community. If they give to you, you need to give back if you're fortunate to do so," she says, while also explaining how grateful she is to her customers who have helped her to support her own family over the years.

Barb learned the importance of giving back at an early age, when her mom and dad with 12 children of their own would pack up extra clothing and food and deliver it to families in need near the Bay of Green Bay. Today, she continues to pass along this important lesson to her own children, Bret (Brenda) Salscheider, Stephanie (Steve) Kurek, John (Rebecca) Salscheider and Joe (Morgan) Salscheider, and her eight grandchildren: Lily (16), Kaitlyn (12), Emma (9), Mattek (9), Ava (13), Maya (8), Axel (4) and Joseph (1½ mos.).

Several years ago, Barb's daughter, Stephanie, interviewed her as part of a school assignment. She asked her mom, "What is the best advice you can pass down to others?"

"Be honest, caring, have fun, be thoughtful, loving and hardworking – and look people in the eyes when you talk to them," Barb had replied.

These are words of wisdom and lessons we can all take from Barb Salscheider who in the best of times and even the worst of times is a shining example of what Mister Rogers reminds us to look for: "the helpers."

If you're planning to attend the Memorial Day parade in Oconto Falls this year, be sure to look for Barb and give her a wave or a shout as she makes her way down Main St. and is honored as this year's Grand Marshall.

Parade starts at 12:30 p.m., folks, and it's going to be a beautiful day in the neighborhood.

This article was written and submitted by Barb Salscheider's niece, Angela Deja, a former Oconto Falls resident now living in Green Bay.

Oconto Falls school mask mandate stays

Board says it has been hearing from both sides

By WARREN BLUHM
Editor-in-chief

Faced with an emotional live and virtual audience, the Oconto Falls School Board voted May 10 to continue the district's mask mandate through the last three weeks of the school year but to make face coverings optional during summer school and the upcoming 2021-22 academic year.

The vote was 6-1 after a lengthy discussion, with the newest board member, Brian Baumler, casting the only dissenting vote.

"We've allowed tackle football, wrestling and basketball. Those are close-contact situations," Baumler said, who prefaced that by saying he believes in scholastic sports. "And that's where children are sweating on each other. They're perspiring, breathing heavily, and I understand that they're masking during that, but I struggle to say that that is almost a greater risk than a child sitting freely in the classroom without a mask on."

Sports turned out to have a major impact on the decision to stay the course, as both the North Eastern Conference (NEC) and the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association (WIAA) require athletes to wear masks during competition, among other COVID-19 protocols.

The Luxemburg-Casco School District had voted to make masking optional last week but was meeting to reverse that decision at the same time as the Oconto Falls meeting, Superintendent Dean Hess said.

"All of the districts that are in the NEC reached out to Luxemburg-Casco within the last four days and let them know, because they took the decision that they did, they're no longer in alignment with the NEC expectations that had been laid out earlier this year," Hess said.

Reports indicate that L-C athletes were asking their school board to reinstate the mask policy so that they could be allowed to compete against other schools.

Board member Adam Adler said despite a fairly large turnout of people opposed to the mask requirement, he and other board members were getting just as many emails from people who wanted to keep the mandate in place.

As the meeting began, the board heard from 11 members of the public, with all but one pleading to lift the mandate for the sake of children's mental and physical health. They spoke about children having trouble breathing or suffering migraine headaches and other ailments as a result of masking during more than six hours of school, day after day.

At least two parents said students were bullied by teachers threatening to give poorer grades to children who didn't keep their noses and mouths covered by a mask.

"I've seen students who are afraid to take a mask off for a bloody nose and a panic attack because they don't want to get in trouble," Jackie Wolford said.

But the final public speaker was teacher Sherri Woelffer, who argued that classroom plans are often redesigned to protect the health of students with peanut allergies or mobility issues, for example.

"Masking at school is no different from the scenarios I just described," Woelffer said. "We accommodate for the benefit of those who are immunocompromised."

Transgender woman's case goes to Supreme Court

'Ella' seeks to find sex offender registry unconstitutional

By KEVIN MURPHY
Correspondent

A transgendered Shawano woman wants the Wisconsin Supreme Court to find the state's juvenile sex offender registry unconstitutional as it allegedly violates her right to free expression and constitutes cruel and unusual punishment.

Ella is a pseudonym used by a 20-year transgendered woman who was convicted as a boy, identified only as C.G., in a 2016 sexual assault of a boy. Ella is challenging the state law that requires the Wisconsin Department of Corrections to maintain a registry of sex offenders by name and alias. The statute prohibits the offender from changing his or her name or identifying him or herself by a name not recognized by the DOC.

After serving a sentence of detention in juvenile facilities, Ella asked Shawano County Circuit Judge William Kussel Jr. to stay the order to register as a juvenile sex offender. Kussel denied the request in 2017, and earlier this year, after several extensions, a state appeals court upheld Kussel.

In affirming Kussel, the District III Court of Appeals concluded that the sex offender registry law prohibiting Ella's changing her legal name doesn't restrict her First Amendment right to free expression. Even if it did, it is permissible because the restriction is gender or content neutral.

The court also found that the registry law is constitutional because "it furthers an important government interest in an incidentally restrictive manner," Judge Mark Seidl wrote.

The government's interest is law enforcement's effective use of the registry and that outweighs any harm to Ella caused by her requiring to register her legal name, according to the appeals opinion.

The appeals court also rejected Ella's claim that having her legal name on the registry not matching the gender she presents "outs" her as a male without her consent each time she has to supply her legal name. That constitutes cruel and unusual punishment in violation of the Eighth Amendment, she had argued.

In a 2000 ruling, the state Supreme Court found that the sex offender registration requirement doesn't constitute punishment because it doesn't intend to punish sex offenders but protects the public and assists police.

The appeals court said it is bound by the higher court's ruling and requires it to conclude that the registry isn't a form of cruel and unusual punishment.

The state Supreme Court announced May 7 that it was accepting the case but has not set the case for oral argument and gave Ella's attorneys until May 27 to file the first brief in the case.

Ella's attorneys and attorneys for Juvenile Law Center, National Center for Lesbian Rights, and Trans Law Help Wisconsin did not return calls for comment.

Ella's conviction stemmed from when she was 15 and, with the help of a girl, held down a 15-year-old boy with disabilities so Ella could perform oral sex on him. The boy was 5 feet, 10 inches and 110 pounds; Ella was 6 feet, 5 inches and 345 pounds.

The boy's parents learned of the offense when they searched his cellphone and found Facebook messages of the incident.

Ella was sentenced from six to 10 months juvenile detention and required that she be listed on the state's sex offender registry. After a second unprovoked attack, which required hospital treatment, Ella was transferred from Lincoln Hills to Mendota Juvenile Treatment Center partly because she was transitioning as a youth from a male to a female identity.

After being released from Mendota, Ella requested Kussel to stay her registration on the sex offender list. A psychologist, specializing in sex offender treatment, said that the public wouldn't be protected by Ella's registration as a sex offender but there was a possibility that registration would harm her. Kussel denied the request, and the appeal began.

ThedaCare doc discusses symptoms and care for pink eye

It happens: You notice your eye turning red, and maybe it's itchy or watering.

Maybe it feels like you've have sand stuck in it, and you wonder what's going on. Is this pink eye, and how can you make it go away?

Pink eye, or acute conjunctivitis, is an infection or inflammation affecting the conjunctiva, the thin membrane that covers the white part of the eye. It's a common eye problem that can impact both adults and children.

Patients experiencing pink eye normally have one of three types: bacterial, viral or allergic, according to Dr. Felix Odathil, family medicine physician at ThedaCare Physicians-New London. Viral and bacterial conjunctivitis are both highly contagious and are spread through directly or indirect contact with someone else who is infected.

"Bacterial conjunctivitis usually has thick green or yellow discharge from one eye," he said. "That infection can spread to the second eye later, with no other systemic signs."

FELIX ODATHIL

Viral conjunctivitis, on the other hand, usually manifests in watery, thin strands of mucous coming from both eyes. Patients may feel like their eyes are gritty or burning, and often report feeling like sand is in their eyes. Viral conjunctivitis may be a symptom of the onset of other diseases, including COVID-19. People can also experience pink eye along with colds and respiratory infections.

"Both bacterial and viral conjunctivitis are contagious," said Odathil. "Washing your hands frequently and avoiding contact with others can help reduce the risk of contracting conjunctivitis."

Other ways to reduce your risk of contracting pink eye include the following:

- Avoid touching your eyes with your hands.

- Don't share eye cosmetics such as mascara or eyeliner, and don't share towels and washcloths.

- Regularly change your pillowcases and use clean washcloths and towels each day.

- Do not wear contact lenses longer than recommended and clean them properly.

A third type, allergic conjunctivitis, is associated with congestion, sneezing, thin watery discharge from both eyes, and "allergic shiners," Odathil said.

"It can be activated when the body produces histamines in reaction to irritants such as pollen, medicines or pet dander," he said. "The inflammation from allergic conjunctivitis can cause itching, tearing, nasal discharge and sneezing as well. Allergy eye drops might provide some relief of the issues."

According to Odathil, antibiotics can help speed healing from bacterial conjunctivitis, but other types of pink eye don't benefit. Most cases of pink eye will heal within a week or two. Over-the-counter eye drops, or artificial tears, can help with symptoms. Cold compresses also can help reduce redness and swelling.

"If you do notice symptoms of pink eye, call your provider to determine whether you should be seen," he said. "Symptoms that indicate you may need medical attention include pain, a very red eye, discharge, crusty eyes upon waking, blurry or foggy vision, or sensitivity to light. If you were exposed to an irritant, such as a chemical splash, or your eye was recently scratched, you also should visit your provider."

Newborns could experience pink eye because of a blocked tear duct and require a visit to their provider. Pink eye can lead to inflammation in the cornea in both adults and children that can adversely affect vision.

"People who have weakened immune systems should also see their provider if they have symptoms of pink eye," Odathil said. "It's important to receive proper treatment to avoid more serious eye problems."

Panel looks at how to spend compact funds

County eyes spending $82K from Ho-Chunk on park improvements in Wittenberg, Tigerton

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The Shawano County Tribal Affairs Committee could get a chance to have a say in what capital projects get funded with gaming compact money the county gets from the Ho-Chunk Nation.

Annually, the county gets $82,500 from the tribe as part of its compact with the state, accounting for the amount of land the tribe occupies within the county's borders. The money has gone toward capital improvement projects, but the committee, which is responsible for maintaining relations between the county and the area tribes, has not had a voice in determining which projects get funded with the compact money.

"In the past, we've never had a say with the Ho-Chunk's money," said Supervisor Kathy Luebke at the committee's May 6 meeting.

The committee is looking at asking for some of the funds to be applied toward projects at the parks on the western portion of the county, including Hayman Falls County Park near Tigerton and Wilson Lake County Park in Wittenberg. According to Keith Marquardt, county parks director, the county has already been making strides with setting up campsites at the two parks — six at Hayman Falls and four at Wilson Lake. Self-registration posts are being added this month, and the sites include fire pits and picnic tables.

"There's some leveling we have to do with our tractors at Wilson Lake," Marquardt said, noting that a county conservation grant was used to pay for constructing the campsites. "They should be up and running by next week at the latest."

The committee asked Rep. Larry Walker Jr. of the Ho-Chunk Tribal Legislature if the tribe had any preferences for where the money went, but Walker said it was something the legislature hadn't really discussed.

"The concentration of our Ho-Chunks (for Shawano County) are in the Wittenberg area, so any projects would be appropriate in that vicinity," Walker said.

Marquardt said some projects that the parks department is considering putting in a walking trail at Wilson Lake, and in order to make a full-mile loop, a boardwalk would need to be constructed to get over wetland areas. Also, there are plans to clean up the beach area around the lake, with Marquardt noting the area has become "overgrown" with weeds.

"The lake level has gone up, so there's not really a beach area," Marquardt said.

There are also preliminary plans to bring electricity to the campsites, according to Marquardt.

"Campsites are a little more popular when there's electricity available," he said.

Other suggestions included cross-country ski trails on the west side of the county and improving Wi-Fi at the libraries in Wittenberg, Birnamwood, Tigerton and Mattoon.

Marquardt noted he has not done any official number crunching or filled out a capital project request. Any capital project requests for 2022 need to be completed by mid-June.

Supervisor William Switalla, who lives in Wittenberg, suggested an extension of the existing fishing dock as a potential improvement at Wilson Lake.

"Because of the way things are overgrown, it's hard to shore fish out there," Switalla said. "If we could maybe extend that further."

Administrative Coordinator James Davel suggested that it might be possible to fund some of the suggested projects with money coming in from the American Recovery Act. The only problem, he said, is that the federal government has not provided any guidance or boundaries on what can and cannot be paid for with the funding.

"We have to use those funds by 2024," Davel said. "They've got to be gone. They can't go into a bank account."

Davel said he'd spoken with state Sen. Robert Cowles and Rep. Gary Tauchen when they were in Shawano a week earlier, and they both told him that the state has not received any input from the federal government, either.

"It's stuck in the bureaucracy in D.C. right now, because they said, 'We're going to give this money, blah, blah, blah,' and they passed it, but the people who execute that, the workers, they're like, 'Wait a minute. We've got to put the rules on it,'" Davel said. "It's really nuts."

Regardless of the status of the American Recovery Act funds, Luebke made it clear she wanted the committee to weigh in on projects using tribal compact funds.

"I don't want another year to go by and the tribal (affairs) committee not being able to submit something (to the capital improvement projects committee)," Luebke said.

Supervisor Deb Noffke recommended that the committee look at consulting the tribes more on capital projects that utilize their compact money and see if they have any needs that the county could fulfill.

"There are real community needs, and it would be nice to take the money and apply it to something more meaningful," Noffke said.

Cost to replace jail windows causes sticker shock

Price tag goes from $12K to $42K due to having to replace metal frames

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

A project to replace windows at the Shawano County Jail has jumped up in price more than three-fold, and members of the county's public safety committee are not happy about it.

Greg Nelson, the jail administrator, told the committee May 5 that plans to replace the windows in the shower area have gone from a $12,000 price tag to about $42,000 due to the discovery of decaying frames around the windows. Nelson said the project was approved several years ago.

"We agreed to fund that out of the inmate welfare account," Nelson said. "It has become a much bigger problem than just replacing the glass."

Nelson said the $42,000 quote came from Felts Construction.

"This is one of those things where they dig into it and we hope that the frames and the windows are the only issues," Nelson said.

Nelson recommended using the jail assessment fund, noting that when defendants appear in court for a hearing, they are assessed a fee that goes to the jail for maintenance and operations. The fund is under the purview of the county's maintenance department, according to Nelson.

He also suggested using the sheriff's department carryover fund, which is a portion of unused money left from the previous budget year that can be used when issues like the jail windows arise.

"There's money available in there," Nelson said.

Supervisor Theresa Serrano expressed frustration with the project's bottom line going up more than $30,000.

"I know things have increased, but $30,000? It's crazy," Serrano said. "I think we need to do our homework and get a second opinion. You always want to go shopping around locally, but I think these guys are gouging us, and I would respectfully request a second bid before we move on, and then you'll know what your numbers are."

Nelson pointed out that the increase in price is due to having to fabricate new frames, remove the old ones, put the new ones in and fortify them with concrete. He said the county could solicit additional quotes, if the committee felt it was best to so. The issue came up during the jail report and was not specifically on the agenda, so the committee couldn't vote on the matter.

Still, Serrano said, getting additional bids would be a good idea.

"I would feel more comfortable with a second opinion on the costs, and then we'll want to know where the funds are going to come from," Serrano said.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

America behind in fixing its infrastructure

To the editor:

After decades of disinvestment, our roads, bridges and water systems are crumbling. Our electric grid is vulnerable to catastrophic outages. Too many lack affordable, high-speed internet and quality housing. It's embarrassing that the greatest nation in the world is ranked 13th in the overall quality of infrastructure, according to a study in 2019.

Government officials from both parties have been promising for years how they will move forward with an infrastructure plan. Former President Donald Trump announced two different infrastructure weeks that never happened. Gov. Tony Evers promised if elected he would fix "the damn roads." Finally, we have a president and a governor who are working on infrastructure at the same time.

Evers' Badger Bounceback agenda shows his commitment to fixing the 1,949 miles of crumbling roads as well as the 198 bridges which are in poor condition in Wisconsin. His 2021-23 budget brings the state's investment in transportation aid for local roads to its highest level ever.

Infrastructure telecommunications include internet connectivity and broadband access. Every Wisconsinite should be able to access and afford internet. Evers' would like to invest five times the amount invested in the 2013, 2015, and 2017 budgets combined making internet services affordable to all income levels.

President Joe Biden is also committed to improving our infrastructure. Biden's American Jobs Plan is an investment in America that will create millions of good jobs and rebuild our country's infrastructure.

The American Jobs Plan will invest in America in a way we have not invested since we built the interstate highways and won the Space Race in the late 1960s. The past year has led to job losses and threatened economic security. Our nation is falling behind its biggest competitors on research and development, manufacturing and training. It has never been more important for us to invest in strengthening our infrastructure and competitiveness, and in creating good-paying jobs of the future.

In a Monmouth University Poll survey, 68% of U.S. adults supported the president's infrastructure package dealing with physical needs including road, bridge and tunnel upkeep, as well as broadband internet expansion and electric vehicle investments.

Hopefully our elected officials can support the people, compromise, and come up with infrastructure plans that improve life for all Americans.

Jan Koch, Shawano

Extend kind words to ones keeping the peace

To the editor:

Much has changed in policing since 1962 when President John F. Kennedy set aside May 15 as Peace Officers Memorial Day and the week in which it falls as a time to recognize America's peacekeepers, but the dedication and self-sacrificing nature of the men and women who commit themselves to the profession has been ever present. Some may view policing as just one of many career options, but in reality, if you ask most law enforcement professionals, you'd likely learn many regard it as a calling.

Most are unaware that the contemporary model of modern law enforcement goes back to the founding principles of the nation. Today's peace officer acts as a representative of, by and for the people in maintaining the quality of life we have come to enjoy through efforts to maintain order and enforce laws enacted to help preserve life and protect property. We are reminded that peace officers are also our friends, neighbors and fellow community members who have accepted a tremendous amount of responsibility, and I can assure you that whether on or off duty, they are constantly vigilant.

Sadly, we regularly watch and hear about tragic encounters in what seems to be an increasingly violent society, and over the course of the past few months we have seen that in our own region of America's heartland. We are not immune. Nationally, in 2020, 264 peace officers came to their end of watch paying the ultimate price. Thus far in 2021, 96 have fallen in the line of duty as well. Our thoughts and prayers go out to those they left behind.

Despite the growing complexities of policing in the modern era, the commitment of our professional peace officers is apparent. Frequently, I receive calls or letters of thanks from people who have had positive experiences with deputies as they fulfilled their duties in both keeping the peace and community caretaking. This coming week, as we pause to remember those no longer with us and their loved ones, I would ask that you also take the time to extend a kind word to those who still serve daily. Perhaps offer your gratitude, because they have mine.

Adam C. Bieber, Shawano County sheriff, Shawano

Men without morals denigrate Christians

To the editor:

God is not governed by mankind's propositions. Therefore what men and women think about the mind of God has no place in secular politics. To believe that we know what God thinks is the height of hubris, the pinnacle of pride.

There are many in this community and in this nation that irrationally superimpose their feelings on abortion upon their feelings on politics. Consequently, they will demonize a solid and good Catholic Christian who rightly separates his personal spiritual beliefs from his secular responsibility to govern our nation.

At the same time, these same folks will sanctify the former leader who claims to be a pro-lifer when in reality, he embodies the banal nature of a secular satan. It becomes OK in their minds that he denigrates all those who are not loyal and continues to demonstrate his amoral nature simply by telling the pompously pious what they want to hear.

For me, it is quite ironic that the same folks that profess such a sacred regard for human life before birth will immediately turn on those who have a child with no means to care for that child. These same people then will complain about the welfare state and the fact that they are called upon to support said people.

Then there is the Catholic church. Many in leadership are calling for the administration of the sacrament of the Eucharist to be withheld from President Joe Biden because he correctly does not believe that it is the government's responsibility to manage reproductive capacity. At the same time, this same institution has systematically covered up the sexual abuses of the clergy despite its assertions to the contrary.

Consider the recently launched investigation announced by Wisconsin's Department of Justice. Respect for life to be valid must extend to the church's cleansing first before imposing its man-made views on the definition of life's beginning.

Certainly, it needs to stay out of politics. By its very construction, our Constitution is a secular document. No mention of God or a creator is mentioned and that was by design. The United States was formed as a republic, not a theocracy.

It is time to realize that continuing to honor a man with no ethical foundation such as our former president and his sycophants is to dishonor the central message of Christianity. "Love your neighbor as you love yourself."

GUEST COLUMN

Understanding supply chain will help to lower drug costs

Even before the COVID-19 pandemic hit, one of the most significant issues facing Wisconsinites was the high cost of prescription medications. With routine health care and medication being vital to a patient's well-being, increases in medication costs can create untenable, unsustainable situations for our most vulnerable — including deciding between medications and other daily necessities. This is completely unacceptable.

The good news is that recently our state lawmakers reached across party lines to find a solution for all Wisconsinites to have better access to affordable quality health care, especially in the face of a global pandemic. Lawmakers passed and Gov. Tony Evers signed into law a bipartisan bill that will benefit all Wisconsinites and lower prescription medication costs for patients at the pharmacy counter.

The new law is an important step to improving patients' ability to access affordable care, increasing transparency in the prescription drug pricing process and reining in the power of pharmacy benefit managers (PBMs).

For too long, we have witnessed pharmacies and patients struggle with medication costs resulting from the one-sided nature of PBMs. It will help the health care system greatly now that lawmakers are finally beginning to hold them accountable.

Few people outside of the health care industry understand the role of PBMs. Until a recent Supreme Court ruling, PBMs flew under the radar of state and federal regulation, abdicating government oversight. Unfortunately, it has led to PBMs gaining significant influence in the prescription drug market, with PBMs deciding which medications are covered by insurance plans, where patients can pick up prescriptions and how much pharmacy providers will be reimbursed. Making matters worse, as the predatory practices of PBMs become exposed and they receive more scrutiny, like here in Wisconsin, they are trying to divert attention. Unfortunately for pharmacists, PBMs have begun attacking and mischaracterizing the only advocates we have to try and level the playing field — pharmacy services administrative organizations (PSAOs).

With PBMs having so much influence, their contracts are often take it or leave it. How can a Wisconsin small business owner take on corporations worth billions of dollars? Whether they want to or not, pharmacies are often forced into contractual relationships with PBMs so we are able to serve patients. PSAOs help give pharmacies an amplified voice during PBM contract negotiations and ease time-consuming administrative burdens.

PSAOs certainly do not solve all of the problems, but they help independent pharmacies navigate the complex market PBMs have created and give us a seat at the table that we would not otherwise have. It is crucial to our businesses that PSAOs do not become collateral damage to increased PBM scrutiny.

Understanding the prescription drug supply chain is the only way we will lower the cost of medication meaningfully and permanently for patients. Yes, it is complex, but Band-Aids on the health care system are no longer acceptable. Our new PBM law in Wisconsin is a step in the right direction, and I hope lawmakers continue to hold PBMs accountable without buying into their diversion tactics.

5 Shawano teens earn Eagle Scout honors

Boys complete various service projects to better community

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Five Shawano Boy Scouts were recently honored with achieving their goal of being an Eagle Scout.

The five scouts, Will Crawford, Damon Montour, Chris Teeter, Owen Krueger and Gabe Bohm, were honored May 2 at Camp Joseph north of Shawano.

Unlike a typical celebration, those who were allowed to attend were limited to four guests per scout. A typical celebration would consist of family members of the scout being honored as well as extended family.

According to Troop 32 Scoutmaster Bob Smits, the five boys who were honored rose the ranks within the Boy Scout organization. The ranks are tenderfoot, second class, first class, star, life and finally eagle.

"Becoming an Eagle Scout is a lengthy process," said Smits. "There are no guarantees to becoming an eagle."

Smits said that it was a unique situation having five boys honored together, rather than one or two.

Troop 32 has seen close to 25 boys become Eagle Scouts in the last 10 years, with 53 total in the troop's existence.

Smits said that only 4% of all scouts end up becoming Eagle Scouts.

In order to become an Eagle Scout, Boy Scouts must finish several steps along the way. These steps include earning the 12 required merit badges and nine elective merit badges, serving in a leadership role within the troop for a total of 16 months, and serving at least 13 hours on a service project. In addition to these steps, the Boy Scouts also create a proposal for a service project, they draw up the plan and they lead a team of scouts to bring the project to fruition.

The process of becoming an Eagle Scout ends with the Boy Scouts speaking to the board of review from the Bay Lakes Council, based in Appleton.

Crawford completed a project that revolved around building beds for dogs at the Shawano County Humane Society. Montour moved and refurbished a playground set for Bridge the Gap Inc. Teeter cleaned and restored paths, as well as built benches for St. James retreat. Krueger built a pergola and rest area along the Mountain Bay Trail for Shawano Pathways. Bohm added landscaping around the flag poles at the Veterans of Foreign Wars post in Shawano. In total, scouts and volunteers put in a combined 430 hours of time.

"The projects are not about the length of time," said Smits. "They are about the process — the scouts learn how to create a proposal, how to draw up a plan, they figure out who to get into communication with, and they serve as the leader of the project."

According to Smits, the projects are meant to give back to the community.

"The community supports the Boy Scouts by donating money or items, giving us a place to hold meetings, supporting fundraisers and giving their time to share talents and places of business," said Smits. "These projects give back to the community."

Smits said that through the process of becoming an Eagle Scout and leading these projects, the boys learn lessons that can be used for the rest of their lives.

"These lessons do not end at 18 years old," said Smits. "This process teaches them leadership and builds character — things they will use for the rest of their lives."

He said perseverance is taught in the Boy Scouts as they rise the ranks to Eagle Scout.

"The final steps of this journey were not easy in the year of a pandemic, but each persevered and reached their goal," said Smits.

According to Smits, Troop 32 has 37 scouts and he hopes that the number continues to grow.

"The Boy Scouts are a phenomenal organization," said Smits. "It is a great foundation for the youth to become great adults."

MIHS teachers causing wisdom to sprout with plants

The Menominee name for the month of May is Pahkwan-kesoq — The Budding Moon. While many Wisconsinites will spend the month cultivating their own gardens in anticipation of a fruitful crop, Menominee Indian High School students will mark Pahkwan-kesoq through culturally grounded cross-curricular activities centered on planting and gardening.

Although the pandemic has halted some educational opportunities due to COVID-19 restrictions, MIHS has used its school's shutdown as a catalyst for monthly collaborative teaching initiatives that span their course offerings. Yet, this is more than a theme for MIHS — it's demonstrative evidence of how the school uses a restorative practices based approach to teach the whole student body about their culture.

The school begins each month with Menominee Language and Culture Coordinator John Teller Jr. and Menominee Language, Culture, and History Teacher Dawn Wilber presenting the wisdom embedded in that month's teachings, thereby enabling the entire staff to gain an appreciation of the tribe's seasonal practices.

"The goal is for our teachers to gain insight on our tribe's culture and then recognize how they can infuse it into their classroom teachings," Wilber said.

MIHS's mission states that it strives to "provide a safe learning environment that allows every child an opportunity to succeed culturally, intellectually, academically, emotionally, socially, and physically." The connectivity of this teaching strategy is evidenced in how the school instructs its students through hands-on learning.

April was Supomahkwan-kesoq — Sugar Making Moon, and so the students and staff donned masks and held a sugar camp to tap the maple trees near MIHS. While the work was completed, those gathered recognized how each subject area offered opportunities for critical reflection.

John Teller and Dawn Wilber work to incorporate Menominee teachings into all aspects of Menominee Indian High School's curriculum.

MENOMINEE INDIAN HIGH SCHOOL

"The health classes compared the nutritional value of real maple syrup with those sold in stores, math and science classes delivered lessons on the equations involved in the process, the English classes wrote poetry about it all, and the physical education courses even talked about the best ways to traipse through the snow," Wilber said.

While the appreciative gains for the teachings are evident, MIHS is also ensuring that lessons are taught using the pedagogy of their ancestors — namely, the oral tradition.

"We're storytellers," Wilber said about the Menominee people. "We tell stories to teach students how to listen because that's how our culture has always been taught."

To help facilitate students' access to tribal stories within their culture courses, Wilber began recording herself performing Menominee stories. Like all schools, MIHS has students of varying abilities, and Wilber's recordings level the playing field by enabling them to engage with the teachings in ways reading alone cannot replicate.

Wilber also capitalized upon the opportunity to use Menominee language, incorporating both the words and their pronunciation. Still, the most important lesson is that the stories themselves model the Seven Grandfather Teachings — wisdom, love, respect, bravery, honesty, humility, and truth.

"Our class begins with an explanation on why oral stories are so important and why learning them as they were passed down is equally important." Throughout the teachings, be it inside or outside the classroom, Wilber specified, "Students realize that our ancestors weren't just sitting around and making up stories. The stories all have meanings. They all teach us about life."

Associate Principal Kate Mikle noted that while the 2020-21 academic year has featured faculty members' sharing how their specific discipline connects to each month's traditional meaning for Menominee people, next year the focus will shift to the students, asking them to consider how what they're learning is reflected in ancient Menominee wisdom.

The outside enthusiasm for their culturally grounded pedagogical approach is palpable, as was evidenced by Teller's much-lauded presentation about the initiative at the April Wisconsin Indian Education Association's virtual conference. He was praised for noting that MIHS was not asking for non-Native teachers to become experts, but rather to be conduits for Menominee teachings.

MIHS is thinking beyond the next two years, as Wilber added, "Our goal is for our students to get a better view of their identity and who they are as Menominee people. That means having respect, love, kindness, and trust surround our hearts."

If the proceeding months are any indication, Pahkwan-kesoq's teachings at MIHS will germinate literal and metaphorical seeds that yield a rich cultural harvest.

Ryan Winn teaches communications, English and theater at the College of Menominee Nation. Visit www.menominee.edu for more information about the school.

"Students realize that our ancestors weren't just sitting around and making up stories. The stories all have meanings. They all teach us about life."

Frank, Muenster capture 1st victories of year

Christians, Sobiesczyk and Westphal win other 3 features

By DAVE BUSS

Special to NEW Media

A bad night at the racetrack is often better than a good night anywhere else on a Saturday night, unless you're a driver in early May. Seasonable temps greeted the die-hards in the stands as racing returned May 8 for week four at the Shawano Speedway.

The action on the track continues to be some of the best around, as young guns and veterans fight it out for wins each week. This week saw Jeremy Christians, Tyler Sobiesczyk, Todd Frank, Eddie Muenster and Tanner Westphal find their places in victory lane.

The IMCA Stock Cars led off feature action, and like every other week, they set the bar for great feature action. Christians found himself back in the pack to start the feature event with a host of heavy hitters in front of him.

At the front of the pack was an announcer's nightmare as Mitch Stankowski, Josh Mroczkowski and Dan Michonski battled it out with Kyle Frederick and Chucky Forstner. Mroczkowski grabbed the lead and looked to escape the pack, and for awhile, it looked like he did.

Christians had other plans as he continued to pick up positions and eventually found his way to the runner-up spot. Christians cut into the lead lap after lap until eventually grabbing the top spot. Christians then cruised to another feature win, while Frederick was the best of the rest, grabbing the second spot. Mroczkowski and Trent Nolan rounded out the top four.

Eddie Muenster picked up the IMCA Modified feature win May 8 at Shawano Speedway.

TURN 2 PHOTOS AND DESIGN

The IMCA Sport Mods competed through a caution-filled, time-shortened feature to see Sobiesczyk grab his spot in victory lane. Sobiesczyk tried to check out from the field after each restart, only to have Jayden Schmidt and Zackary Raab brought back to his bumper with each caution.

Each time, the Sobiesczyk car was up to the challenge, leaving Raab and Schmidt to fight it out for the runner-up spot. Last week's feature winner, Jeffery Teske, joined the battle for second with Schmidt and Raab as Sobiesczyk made his breakaway.

When the checkers flew, it was Sobiesczyk leading Raab, Schmidt and Teske across the line. Max Oreskovich grabbed fifth after charging from mid-pack at the start.

The Late Model division came into the night missing some perennial front-runners as a couple regulars were traveling for other events. To those on the track, that didn't matter as they still faced tough competition.

Aaron Wickersheim looked to grab a feature win as he jumped to a dominating lead from the front row starting spot. Further back, Iowa's Frank began his attack by moving into the second spot. Once in second, Frank faced a nearly two-second gap to the leader.

Running the high side of the track, Frank began to move forward and gain on the leader. Frank grabbed the top spot on lap 11 and began to pull away. Wickersheim, determined to grab the lead back, didn't lose sight of Frank and late in the race had one more shot when lapped traffic slowed the Frank machine. Frank eventually sneaked by the lap car and pulled away for the win.

Wickersheim was second, with Luke Postl, Derek Janke and Joel Bennett completing the top five.

The IMCA Modifieds looked to add to the excitement of feature action; however, Muenster had other plans. That isn't to say the race wasn't exciting, and I would love to give Muenster a few more props, but he simply checked out and dominated to the win.

If fans took their eyes off the leader and looked further back, they would have witnessed Konnor and Jerry Wilinski battling with Jordan Bartz and Kevin Feck for the runner-up spot, with positions changing hands lap after lap.

Marcus Yarie, battling mechanical issues all night, was regulated to a 21st starting position in the feature. Yarie and his crew made the right decisions to get the car right as he drove to the top five. When everything settled out, it was Muenster who was victorious, with Jerry Wilinski grabbing third from his son Konnor. Yarie was fourth and Bartz fifth.

Lucas Hacker looked to take the checkered flag in Mighty 4 action as he jumped out to the early lead. Westphal began to give chase and put another plaque on his wall as he moved into the second spot. Troubles for last week's feature winner, Jason Stueck, brought the field back together as the caution lights illuminated the track.

Westphal wouldn't let Hacker get away on the restart and was able to get by for the lead a lap later. Westphal cruised to another feature win, with Hacker running second. Brad Wedde continued his strong season with a third-place finish, as Clint Malueg and Tony Everard completed the top five.

ATHLETE PROFILE: TUCKER BOUCHE

Oconto Falls senior hoping to make more memories on baseball field

Oconto Falls High School senior Tucker Bouche intends to play baseball while attending UW-La Crosse in the coming years, but he's hoping to make more memories with his Panther teammates this spring before graduating.

Bouche had a memorable game in the team's 3-0 North Eastern Conference victory over Freedom on May 5. Bouche pitched all seven innings, striking out 12 batters and allowing just one hit.

Bouche made the NEC honorable mention team in his sophomore season.

Q: When did your interest in baseball begin?

A: I was introduced to baseball at an early age, but my first love for the game came from playing one-on-one wiffle ball with a childhood friend of mine (Cooper Polczynski). We would play hours on end and even decided to play indoors at his house, in the living room, when it rained.

Q: What is your favorite part about the baseball season?

A: I truly enjoy the bus rides and practices with the boys. Laughing, competing and having fun makes the sport that much better.

Q: What has baseball taught you over the years?

A: The biggest thing I've learned in baseball is how to keep a steady head when things don't go your way. All of my coaches, at one point or another, have told me that errors and bad things are going to happen. You need to figure out how to minimize those errors and move on.

Q: What are your individual goals for your senior season?

A: I'm hoping to leave a lasting impression on my team and the baseball

Oconto Falls' Tucker Bouche throws a pitch during the team's North Eastern Conference win over Freedom on May 5 in Oconto Falls.

MICHELLE KONOP

organization. I want people to enjoy playing baseball as well as want to compete and be the best version of themselves.

Q: What will be the biggest key to team success this spring?

A: If we can wrap our heads around the game in a focused, competitive and loose mindset, I'm confident in our team's ability to compete as well as be successful.

Q: You plan on playing baseball at UW-La Crosse after high school. With that in mind, how do you want to cap your high school career?

A: I want to make the best memories with my high school team because of all the time and effort we have put into baseball.

AT A GLANCE

ATHLETE: Tucker Bouche

SPORT: Baseball

POSITIONS: Pitcher, shortstop

SCHOOL: Oconto Falls High School

YEAR: Senior

Q: What's your favorite memory of competing on the Oconto Falls baseball team?

A: We had a rain practice that turned out to be one of the most fun practices ever. It was during our fall ball team last year, but those who were there can vouch for it.

Q: Favorite TV show, movie, and musical artist?

A: TV show — "Chuck." Movie — "Cars" (the original). Musical artist — Not sure I have a favorite. I love all kinds of music.

Q: Do you have any rituals you go through before a game starts?

A: I have learned the best way to start a game is to have a light sweat as well as be mentally loose — or, as we say on the team, "vibing." To do that, I run a bit and do tons of stretches that I've gathered throughout the years.

Q: Name one thing about yourself that not many people know.

A: I'm a big Marvel and DC fan.

Q: What's the greatest piece of advice you have ever been told?

A: You can't hit the ball if you don't take the bat off your shoulder.

Q: What are some things you hope to accomplish after graduating high school?

A: I plan to pursue a major in elementary education as well as dive into a baseball organization following college. My hopes are to stay in baseball as long as I can and create a ton of lasting memories.

Why wait?

The Lena/St. Thomas Aquinas Academy baseball and softball teams both earned nonconference wins over Bowler on May 4 in Bowler.

The co-op baseball team won 8-2, while the softball team claimed a 24-12 victory in five innings.

Baseball

Lena/STAA got a strong start on the mound from Ethan Russell before a four-run seventh inning helped the team seal up a road victory.

Russell pitched the first 5 $\frac{2}{3}$ innings, striking out eight batters and not allowing a run. He worked around four walks and four hits.

Lane Whiting then got the next three outs, surrendering a pair of runs along the way, but Lucas Hofer was able to get the final out in the seventh to wrap up the contest.

“Tonight our pitchers definitely threw a really good game,” said Lena/STAA’s Logan Shallow, who drove in two runs. “Our guys threw amazing, and without their efforts, this game would have been closer.”

Whiting led the team at the plate with three RBIs, including a clutch hit in the seventh inning.

Russell led off for the co-op and set the table for the rest of the lineup by getting on base four times. Russell doubled twice and scored four runs in the contest.

Logan Graef, Shallow, Whiting and Bryce Kittredge all scored once for the visitors.

The softball game was a wild back-and-forth slugfest in the first couple innings before the teams were able to settle in.

Lena/STAA jumped out to a 2-0 lead before Bowler put up seven runs in the bottom of the first. The co-op answered back with six runs in its half of the second, only to have Bowler score twice in the bottom half to re-take the lead.

The visitors took control after scoring 11 times in the third inning and then held Bowler to just one run in the bottom half. An additional four runs in the fourth and one more in the fifth helped Lena/STAA out to a 14-run lead, and then the co-op was able to hold Bowler to two runs in the fifth to end the contest.

Lena/STAA was credited with 12 hits in the game, but they also took advantage of 12 walks and nine Bowler errors.

Katie Jo Knox led off for the co-op and ended up scoring four runs after reaching base five times. Chaela Rabas also scored four runs.

Leah Dean drove in five runs for the visitors, while Knox had four RBIs.

Knox also pitched all five innings, striking out six batters along the way. She and her defense stranded 12

Bowler runners on base.

"We were so hyped for each other.

We have a great team here. We all hype each other up, and the energy is so cool to see," said Lena/STAA's Brooke Kramer, who drove in two runs on three hits.

"When we get that many runs, which is something that hasn't happened in a long time for our team, we get really, really excited and we want to keep doing that."

IMPORTANT

UTILITY DUE DATES ARE CHANGING

Beginning in June 2021, Oconto Falls Municipal Utilities will be changing billing periods and due dates for most of our customers. The intent of these changes is to align our purchase of wholesale energy with the retail sales that we charge you, our customer, and minimize the fluctuations in the Power Cost Adjustment Clause (PCAC) that appear on your monthly bill.

The Power Cost Adjustment Clause (PCAC) allows electric utilities to make monthly adjustments to customer bills when costs for providing power are above or below the average cost authorized by the Public Service Commission (PSC). When power costs fluctuate, the PCAC allows bills to be adjusted accordingly.

NEW BILLING PROCEDURE

Beginning in June, due dates will become uniform for all customers, around the 28th of every month. Over the course of the next few months, you may experience longer periods of service reflected on your monthly bills, but by no more than five additional days per month.

BUDGET/AUTO PAY CUSTOMERS

The planned shift will change the date of your automatic payment. Auto payments will be withdrawn around the 28th of each month, beginning in June 2021. Please review your payment due date!
