Chronic wasting disease detected in Oconto County

DNR plans to hold Zoom meeting Feb. 1 to discuss sampling, feeding and baiting bans

By KEVIN MURPHY
Correspondent

The first wild harvested deer in Oconto County to test positive for CWD has extended a three-year ban on feeding and baiting deer plus, two-year bans in Shawano and Menominee counties, the Department of Natural Resources announced Jan. 11.

The one-year-old buck was taken in the town of Underhill during the 2021 gun deer season.

"This is the first wild deer to test positive but there's been a positive test from a captive deer inside a facility in the county in November so there's been a continual ban going on. This deer extends it by a few months," said Janet Brehm, a DNR wildlife supervisor for the Peshtigo area.

Shawano and Menominee counties are included in the ban as state law requires counties within 10 miles of a county line where a positive test has been confirmed. Shawano is currently under a three-year ban due to a positive test for CWD at a captive deer farm earlier this year.

Testing harvested deer for Chronic Wasting Disease is voluntary and the DNR wants more hunters to participate in the free testing program, Brehm said.

"From this area it looks like we've gotten 150 samples, but we'd like to see a huge increase in sampling," she said.

To encourage more sampling in the area, the DNR will hold a Zoom meeting from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Feb. 1. The ban on feeding and baiting deer in and around Oconto County will also be discussed.

Oconto County is in the Farmland Zone where deer of either sex can be taken by archery and crossbow through Jan. 31. Permits remain available for purchase with a license.

More hunter participation in CWD testing will be the DNR's main focus in the 2022 deer hunting season, said Brehm, as more samples will produce a better understanding of how prevalent the disease is in the wild.

AT A GLANCE

WHAT: DNR meeting about CWD In Oconto County

WHEN: 6-8 p.m. Feb. 1

WHERE: Join by Zoom, Meeting ID: 871 6740 0821, or join by phone at 888-475-4499.

Game farms are regulated by the state Department of Agriculture Trade and Consumer Protection, which works with the DNR in lessening the spread of CWD.

Although there have been no reported cases of CWD infection in people, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the Wisconsin Department of Health Services recommends that people only consume venison from healthy-appearing deer that have tested negative for CWD.

CWD is fatal, infectious nervous system disease for deer, moose, elk and reindeer/caribou. The DNR began monitoring the state's wild white-tailed deer population for CWD in 1999 and the first positives were found in 2002.

Since then, CWD deer have been found in most counties in the state. In 2020, Outagamie, Winnebago, Brown, Kewaunee and Door, and several counties in North Central Wisconsin, had no positive CWD test results, according to DNR records.

One dead, one injured in Lakewood snowmobile crash

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

One person died and another was injured in a snowmobile crash Jan. 12 in the Town of Lakewood.

Oconto County Sheriff Todd Skarban said the Emergency Dispatch Center received a call around

Lakewood/Townsend and Mountain Area Ambulance services transported a 56-year-old woman and 57-year-old man, both from Wausaukee, to the hospital in Antigo. The woman, later identified as Victoria Schwartz, died from her injuries.

The sheriff's office, Department of Natural Resources and Brown County Medical Examiner were investigating.

OBITUARIES

Ila M. Schultz

Ila Mae Schultz, 103, of Shawano, passed away at an assisted living facility in Appleton on Jan. 11, 2022.

Ila was born on June 20, 1918, daughter of Earl and Ester Thompson. On March 20, 1939, she married Leon Schultz. They were married for 50 wonderful years before Leon passed in 1989.

Ila lived a long, joyful, and blessed life. The simplest pleasures are what brought her joy. She loved spending time with her family. Cooking and baking were her favorite pastimes. Whenever someone stopped by for a visit, they were always greeted with a big hug and offered a delicious meal. She enjoyed birds and flowers and could magically make any half-dead plant flourish. One memory we will cherish is, even though she had many descendants, without fail she always remembered everyone's birthdays and sent each one a dollar bill in a birthday card every year. She was still crocheting Afghans and hosting a big family Christmas when she was in her late 90s. Believe it or not, we even caught her shoveling snow at her house when she was 99! When asked what her secret was for staying healthy and living past 100, she would say, "I guess it's because I say my prayers every day and I mind my own business!" She was so humble, loving, and amazing. We will deeply miss her.

Ila is survived by her daughter, Bonnie (Delbert) DeBauch; daughter-in-law, Judy Schultz; son-in-law Jim Brei; grandchildren Tammy Horning, Randy Schultz, Cindy Raasch, Brad Schultz, Traci LaBrosse, Brian DeBauch, Kevin DeBauch, Scott DeBauch, Chad DeBauch, Shawn Brei, and Jamie Brei; 19 great-grandchildren, and five great-great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her parents Earl and Ester Thompson; her son, Lee Schultz; her daughter, Darlene Brei; and her brothers, Buck, Lenny, and Allen.

A funeral service for Ila will be held on Friday, Jan. 21, 2022, at 11 a.m. at Mickelson Funeral Service in Shawano. Ila's grandson, Pastor Jamie Brei, will officiate. Interment will take place in Woodlawn Cemetery. Visitation will begin at 10 a.m. and continue until the time of service.

Mickelson Funeral & Cremation Service is assisting the family with arrangements. Please share online condolences at www.mickelsonfs.com.

Cary D. Meissner

Cary Donald Meissner, 86, Punta Gorda, Florida, passed away on Jan. 4, 2022. Cary was born Nov. 22, 1935, in Chicago, Illinois, to Josephine Rachlewicz and Howard Meissner. Cary served in the United States Marines from 1953 to 1957. He was an Illinois State Patrol Officer and finished his working career as an over-the-road truck driver. He married Elaine Wilks and raised their five children in Grayslake, Illinois, before moving to Oconto Falls in 1978. They retired to Florida in the early 1990s.

Cary was an avid walker and loved to read spy novels. He appreciated a hot cup of coffee, a great meal and a cold beer. He was loved by all who knew him. More than anything, we are going to miss his vivid storytelling and his contagious laugh.

Cary is survived by his children, Leisa Idstein, Kenosha, and Walter (Pamela) Wardzala, Punta Gorda, Florida, Mary Brown, Westminster, Colorado, and Michael (Kat) Meissner, Coleman; daughter-in-law, Renee Meissner, Appleton, Wisconsin; 11 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Cary was preceded in death by his wife, Elaine; son, John Meissner; and granddaughter, Mariana Meissner.

In lieu of flowers, please donate to your favorite veterans organization, do something kind for a veteran near you or just tell a veteran thank you.

A private service will be held for the immediate family.

Benjamin J. Taylor

Benjamin J. "Ben" Taylor, 31, of Shawano, was called away too soon on Friday morning, Jan. 7, 2022.

He attended elementary and middle school in Gresham then transferred to Shawano schools, graduating from Shawano Community High School with the Class of 2009. After high school, Ben joined the U.S. Army, serving for four years. He was stationed in Fort Hood, Texas, and worked with Apache helicopters in the Air Calvary.

On Feb. 14, 2011, Ben was united in marriage to Eileen Taylor in Shawano. He was employed as a machine operator at Creative Converting in Clintonville. Ben was a gifted mechanic, earning the nickname "Tinker." He loved video games and exploring the unknown. He was a guardian and

Prevea gives community COVID-19 update

Official discusses masking, isolation vs. quarantine, testing

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Officials from Prevea Health gave an update on COVID-19 in Wisconsin during a Zoom meeting on Jan. 14.

Prevea President and CEO Dr. Ashok Rai covered where Wisconsin is at in regards to COVID-19, expectations for Wisconsin, isolation and quarantine guidelines, and testing.

Rai opened the meeting talking about how the omicron variant of COVID-19 has affected Wisconsin. Rai used a graphic showing Wisconsin in a dark red color, signifying a severe risk of being infected.

"There was a time where the state had a lot of green and some yellow, orange and red," said Rai. "Every single county is now in that extreme range."

He added that the positivity rate (those who are symptomatic and asymptomatic) is 30%.

"That is almost one in three people," said Rai. "If we are looking at symptomatic people, it is one in two and one in three for asymptomatic."

Rai said the omicron variant is "omnipresent."

"It doesn't need a whole lot to infect somebody," said Rai. "In a vaccinated and boosted individual, the chance of you going into a hospital is mild and very low. In the unvaccinated or unboosted population, the chance of getting sick is higher and higher."

He said that it may not make people as sick as the delta variant.

"It still is a nasty respiratory virus," said Rai. "It still puts people on a ventilator."

Responding to a question, Rai explained when the omicron virus would start to fade away.

"When it runs out of people to infect," said Rai. "That is how infectious this variant is."

He said Wisconsin can continue to see infection spread quickly.

"We have a couple of factors that can speed up infection," said Rai. "We haven't had the level of mitigation that other states have had. As much as we would like to consider this the end game ... we can't just sit back and say this is going to happen and this is going to be the end game."

Rai talked about the different forms of testing, as well as gave recommendations for employers.

"We are going to see a lot more home antigen kits through the federal government and state government," said Rai. "They do work. If they are positive, we ask you to believe them."

Rai said that due to the way omicron replicates, if an antigen is positive, it should be believed and that person should be isolated for five days or longer.

He also said that Prevea has experienced delays getting testing kits.

"We will still continue to test, we have strategies," said Rai. "What we are asking, is that if you are symptomatic and you can't get a test in the next few days, scheduling a test four days from now will do no good. It is isolate for five days."

He said that the only people that will be tested by Prevea in urgent care and the ER are people he described as an "NIH - pure one patient."

"Those are going to be people who have had a solid organ transplant, recent chemotherapy or are undergoing chemotherapy, over the age of 75 without a vaccine and over the age of 65 with significant medical issues and not a vaccine," said Rai. "Otherwise the capacity for testing just isn't there."

Rai went on to explain the difference between isolating and quarantining.

"Isolation is when you are positive — if you know the day of your symptoms starting, that is day zero. If you don't know, the day that you test is day zero," said Rai. "After five days, if the patient is asymptomatic or their symptoms greatly improved, they would be allowed to come out of isolation with a good fitting mask."

He said that implementing this will help to get more people back out to work or do whatever they need to do.

In regards to masking, Rai said that with research, they would like to see people wearing a level one mask to start.

"Cloth masks have more of side leak," said Rai. "In health care, you can't even visit our facilities with a cloth mask, we will put a level one on you."

He said that the importance comes from the tight fitting of the mask.

"Filtration is one thing, but fit is the other," said Rai. "If you have a side leak, then that is completely unfiltered, so it doesn't matter how good the filter is. What we would recommend is putting the mask with the best filter closest to the mouth, then if you wanted to use a cloth mask, you would put it on the outside."

Housing development OK'd for old SMC land

15 homes going on almost 5-acre site with estimated selling values of $250K-$380K

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The Shawano Common Council approved a deal Jan. 12 with Van's Realty and Construction to build 15 single-family homes on the old Shawano Medical Center site, ending an eight-year limbo in which the city had been trying to come up with the best use for the site.

Under the agreement, Van's has agreed to pay $500,000 to the city once the sale is closed, and the city will reimburse up to half of that amount if the company finishes building those homes within the next 2½ years. The homes will be a minimum size of 1,400 square feet plus a three-car garage and will occupy the 4.73-acre site that used to be a hospital before ThedaCare built its new medical center on the south end of Shawano.

The vote for the deal was 5-0, with Alderman Brad Keuschel abstaining because of his affiliation with the Shawano Ski Sharks. The hospital land is connected to Smalley Park, where the Ski Sharks practice and perform their water ski shows.

City Administrator Eddie Sheppard told the council that the homes are expected to sell for between $250,000 and $380,000. He noted that there were six different concepts presented to the city before the 15 single-family homes was accepted.

Having the $500,000 up front will allow the city to pay for extending Fourth Street, which ends currently at Smalley Street, west and north to Third Street.

"This allows us to utilize the funds to pay for the road without having to take out any debt," Sheppard said. "You're looking at a total return for this TIF (tax increment finance) district in about 5½ years."

Prior to voting on Van's plan, the council voted to change the zoning on the property from campus development to planned development.

While folks in the neighborhood like the idea of the single-family homes, some questioned whether it was necessary to have so many homes on that piece of land. Kelly Shelberg, who lives adjacent to the old SMC property, suggested that fewer homes go on the property and having the rest of it serve as park land or green space.

"I would agree that the single-family housing is a better option for this property than the four-story apartment that was proposed several years ago, but what I don't agree with is that this needs to be jammed with 15 houses," Shelberg said. "I believe that this property, which sits next to the Wolf River, should stand as is and be used by the community. We have been blessed by beautiful parks."

Shelberg noted that, on the day of the council meeting, she saw cross-country skiers and pet owners utilize the hospital space for recreation.

"If no housing is not an option, would the council consider a compromise and lower the number of houses for a bit more community space?" she said. "Would you consider taking small steps in this process and perhaps consider a few homes before giving up the entire property and the last bit of land that Shawano, the City on the Wolf, has?"

John Miesbauer, managing broker the Shawano Coldwell Banker, talks about the need for housing in the city during the Shawano Common Council meeting on Jan. 12. Miesbauer noted there are only a handful of homes currently for sale, and a lot of homes are sold before they are even built.

LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA

Todd Dobberstein, president for Shawano Area Waterways Management, echoed Shelberg's sentiments, suggesting that Smalley Park needed room to breathe. He noted that the space has been utilized for 20 Ski Sharks events and 25 other activities.

"Water and tourism associated with water is the number one biggest impact that Shawano has," Dobberstein said. "Don't make a decision today that will impact the future of what we can do with that park."

Sheppard noted that the density for the old hospital land is less than nearby plots of land. Directly to the east of the hospital is 3.3 acres with 12 homes, and south of that is another 3.3 acres with 13 homes.

Not everyone in the standing-room-only council chambers felt leaving the land or at least some of it open was a good idea. Former City Administrator Brian Knapp, who lives near the hospital land, said that Shawano needs high-quality housing in order to continue to prosper. He said that if the city doesn't move on this, the homes will be built in the towns of Wescott or Richmond because people want to live in the Shawano area.

"Each of those families represents at least $55,000 of economic development for this community every year, and that's a very conservative calculation," Knapp said. "That is something you can't replace with an event space or a park."

Shirley Hinze pointed out that affordable housing would be better to attract people to Shawano than high-quality housing.

"If we're going to keep housing affordable for people who work in the city of Shawano, this basically puts these dwellings out of the financial reach of most citizenry," Hinze said.

Housing overall is a problem, according to John Miesbauer with Coldwell Banker, the real estate company that has been working with Van's to sell the homes it constructs. He noted that Van's built 10 homes in Shawano last year, and all of them sold before construction even began.

"What does that mean? It means there's a huge need for housing in Shawano," Miesbauer said. "Currently, there are a total of seven homes for sale in the city of Shawano. One of these homes is yet to be built."

Alderwoman Sandy Steinke noted that, in the eight years the council has been looking at ideas for what to do with the former SMC site, this was the first time there was money for the city attached to it.

"We've gone through several different proposals with giving away that land and making different TIF districts, and we're actually getting money for this land for the first time that I can remember," Steinke said.

ThedaCare, Bellin, Children's Wisconsin team up

Health care corporations seek to provide more pediatric care closer to home

Bellin Health, Children's Wisconsin and ThedaCare have announced a new pediatric joint venture with a shared focus on improving the health and well-being of children and adolescents in northeast and central Wisconsin, as well as the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

The organizations, which will remain independent entities and continue to be responsible for the day-to-day operations of pediatric services at their clinics and facilities, will work closely together to enhance pediatric primary and specialty care to benefit children and adolescents in this growing region. Each partner organization will play an essential role, with direct benefits to patients that include:

- Bringing additional pediatric services and specialists to the region to expand access to local, close-to-home care.
- Reducing the need for children and their families to travel outside the region when a higher level of care is needed.
- Consistent, best-practice standards of care across each organization's care settings in the region.
- Tailored child and adolescent services that meet community-specific needs with the right resources, expertise, skilled providers and clinical staff, technology and more.
- Better and more efficient care through seamless care coordination and tighter alignment across the three systems.

"Through this partnership, we will create a destination for pediatric health and well-being right here in northeast Wisconsin," said Dr. Imran Andrabi, ThedaCare president. "By working together in new and innovative ways, we will make additional pediatric services available closer to home for people in the region and provide a consistent experience that utilizes best-practice standards of care for patients and families across our organizations."

"While patients today will continue to see the providers they know and trust at the locations in their communities, when patients need a higher level of care, this partnership will allow us to seamlessly transition that care through greater team connectivity, shared processes and more," said Chris Woleske, Bellin Health president. "The result will be a better patient experience that saves families valuable time, energy and cost, allowing them to focus on what matters most — supporting their loved ones."

Recognizing that pediatricians and family medicine providers are the vital home base for the children and adolescents the organizations serve, the joint venture will align each partner's existing primary and pediatric specialty care expertise. Importantly, the partnership builds on the existing long-term relationships between Children's Wisconsin and ThedaCare, and between ThedaCare and Bellin Health.

For instance, Bellin and ThedaCare have robust primary care networks that together provide more than 180,000 pediatric care visits with nearly 430 providers across approximately 70 locations throughout the region. Children's Wisconsin has operated a pediatric hospital, including a Neonatal Intensive Care Unit and Pediatric Unit, at ThedaCare Regional Medical Center-Neenah since 2001.

It also offers dozens of pediatric specialties, including more than 20 in northeast Wisconsin, and is one of the top-ranked pediatric health systems in the country. Children's also recently announced plans for a new outpatient clinic representing a significant investment in the region.

A joint operating board with three representatives from each partner organization will govern the joint venture.

Panther boys continue to build under Zepnick

Oconto Falls drops NEC game to Clintonville

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Oconto Falls High School boys basketball team has spent its winter season trying to build a foundation under new coach Aaron Zepnick.

After the team's 72-46 North Eastern Conference loss to Clintonville on Jan. 14 in Oconto Falls — which moved the team to 0-8 in conference play and 1-10 overall — Zepnick said that the process of building a foundation isn't necessarily about wins or losses right now.

"I tell the kids every night in our pregame speech, 'I don't care what the scoreboard says, I'm focused on how we compete, how hard we play and how we behave on the court,'" said Zepnick. "It's about things bigger than basketball. Changing the culture takes some time."

For seniors on the team, Zepnick is the fourth varsity coach they've worked under in high school, with a new coach every winter.

Zepnick said a big thing he's looking at this season is how the players respond in tough times or after a loss. He's even extended that same message to the athletes' work in the classroom.

"The scoreboard doesn't matter — it does, everyone wants to win — but my message to the kids is, 'you control your response to every situation. You have the ability to handle adversity, stare it in the face and overcome it,'" said Zepnick.

During the team's conference loss to Clintonville, the Panthers showed flashes of strong play, but weren't able to sustain it.

Zepnick said the lack of size on the team hurt against Clintonville, and added that the team's lack of varsity experience has led to some of the inconsistencies in the team's play. "We have five or six kids that play significant minutes and (for several of them) this is their first time playing varsity basketball," said Zepnick.

For about the first 10 minutes against Clintonville, Oconto Falls was able to hang around.

Senior Isaac Raddatz hit a pair of free throws to get the Panthers going before junior Caden Birr knocked in a 3-pointer. A Raddatz jumper tied the game at seven.

Buckets from Raddatz and senior Noah Hirst before free throws from sophomore Thomas Carmody helped Oconto Falls trail by just three, 16-13.

A 6-0 run helped Clintonville create some separation, and Oconto Falls was never fully able to recover. The visitors went on a 22-3 run over the final 8:40 of the opening half.

Raddatz said the team's lack of chemistry has led to some of the slumps in games.

"It's my last year and it's kind of hard but it doesn't really matter until the start of March (playoffs) when you need to start winning, so we'll just work hard until then and hope it works out," said Raddatz.

As the team nears postseason play, Raddatz said that communicating more and simply making more shots are things the Panthers need to improve on to see better results.

The start to the second half also saw Oconto Falls match Clintonville. A 3-pointer from junior Carter Hill followed by free throws from Raddatz and a bucket from Hirst helped the Panthers get going.

Baskets from senior Logan Seymour, Raddatz and Carmody had the Panthers down 19 before the visiting Truckers went on a 8-0 run. Both teams eventually pulled their starters, and Clintonville coasted to the win.

Raddatz led Oconto Falls with 10 points in the contest, while Carmody had eight points. No other Panther had over five points.

ATHLETE PROFILE: ALAINA HERZOG

Senior's improved play helping Tigers on court

The Gillett Secondary School girls basketball team needed to replace several talented seniors from last year's team as this winter season started up. Through Jan. 16, the Tigers are off to an 8-3 start and sit in second in the Marinette & Oconto Conference standings, thanks in part to the play of senior Alaina Herzog.

Herzog, who averaged about three points a game as a junior, is averaging nearly nine points a game this season. She's also helped out as a rebounder, someone who can set up her teammates with passes and a player who can steal or block the ball on the defensive end of the court.

The senior has scored in double figures in six games this season. She had a season-high 16 points in the team's season-opening win over Wausau East on Nov. 23. She followed that up with 12 points against Wittenberg-Birnamwood on Nov. 30.

Herzog's string of double digit games continued with an 11-point performance against Wausaukee on Dec. 3 and a 14-point game against Lena on Dec. 9. Both of those games were wins for the Tigers.

She tallied 11 points in a win over Menominee (Michigan) on Jan. 3 and had 10 points in a conference win over Niagara on Jan. 7.

Garden phlox, little bluestem named plants of 2022

The new year is upon us, and it's time for gardeners to celebrate the perennial plants of 2022. As chosen by a variety of gardening organizations, this year's perennial plants of the year are among my favorite garden plants.

The National Garden Bureau each year selects a perennial plant to feature as its perennial of the year. This year, it is the Year of the Garden Phlox.

Colorful, vibrant, long-blooming and attractive to hummingbirds as well as butterflies, tall garden phlox is one of my favorite plants — blooming from June all the way through frost.

Tall garden phlox comes in a variety of colors. From the pure white, heavenly scented David, to the rich, black cherry colors of several varieties, tall garden phlox is a beauty. There are those that bloom in purple, lavender, red, fuchsia, white or pink, as well as many patterns and forms that contain spots and swirls and pinwheels.

Tall garden phlox grows in various heights. There are those that are shorter, just a foot to 15 inches tall, while others may reach 4 to 5 feet in height.

Most of the tall garden phlox varieties are extremely fragrant, making them wonderful choices for the summer garden.

During wet summers, some varieties of tall garden phlox are susceptible to powdery mildew. If this concerns you, purchase varieties that are bred to be mildew resistant. There are a large number of tall garden phlox varieties that are resistant to powdery mildew. The plant tag should tell you this.

Enjoy the flamboyant, colorful and fragrant beauty of tall garden phlox this year and celebrate its selection as the plant of the year by the National Garden Bureau.

Another plant organization that routinely selects a perennial plant of the year is the Perennial Plant Association. Each year, a perennial is selected to be heavily marketed and featured throughout the country. The perennial plant of the year must meet certain criteria, such as being easy to grow, easy to find, as well as able to survive in a wide range of habitats and growing zones.

This year, the Perennial Plant Association has selected one of my favorite native grasses as its perennial plant of the year. Little Bluestem is the perennial plant of the year for 2022.

Native to Wisconsin, therefore easy to grow here, little bluestem is a compact version of the giant, big bluestem that may grow 6 to 7 feet tall. Little bluestem keeps it smaller, growing 2 to 3 feet tall and wide.

Like all native grasses, little bluestem is a perfect clumping grass. It remains showy throughout the four seasons — from beautiful, pale silvery blue-green in summer to fiery red, orange, purple and gold during fall and winter. Its feathery seed heads adorn the dancing stems all through fall and winter, adding to its grace, beauty and elegance.

There are many hybrids of little bluestem that have hit the garden centers that come in glorious colors from smoky reds to deep purple and fiery orange.

Little bluestem is the perfect, compact grass for shorter beds and borders and even does great in containers, provided you pop it back into the ground for the snow for the winter season.

Little bluestem is an excellent companion plant for wonderful texture and flow in the garden. Plant it alongside orange milkweed, bee balm, daylilies, coreopsis, gaillardia, purple coneflowers and other medium to large perennials. It is also excellent for mass planting to create a sea of flowing green in summer and colorful reds, oranges and purples in fall.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Don't believe Dems' version of riot narrative

To the editor:

Speeches by President Joe Biden and Vice President Kamala Harris blame Donald Trump for coordinating the events of Jan. 6, 2021. Harris went so far as to compare Jan. 6 to Dec. 7, 1941, and Sept. 11, 2001. Certainly, bad events in American history, but Pearl Harbor and the Twin Towers united America. Why, because Americans felt that we were attacked. Jan. 6 is similar to the Biden administration in the fact that it did not unite America in a common belief.

It started with the rally where Trump encouraged rally goers (go to the capital and peacefully gather and protest). Ending badly, one person was killed by a capitol police officer (Ashli Babbitt).

Lots of false information is out there. The Democrats are running what media headlines claim is an investigation. The first day of the committee, a well-known Democrat Congressman, Adam Schiff, read a statement, which was a lie, and that set the tone and course of this investigation.

Emotions ran high Jan. 6. Several people from Shawano County attended the event and reported no violence, but we know violence did occur. Do you have confidence this Democrat-led investigation is searching for the truth?

I do not condone the violence that occurred. I want those who broke the law prosecuted. What about people like Nancy Pelosi, who had responsibilities? Did they do their jobs?

With that said, I doubt true Trump rally attendees committed these acts. I have attended nine Trump rallies. Each was orderly, peaceful, and was family and child-friendly because lots of children were always present.

Was there a riot? Was there violence? Were laws broken? Did people who had responsibility for capital security fail? Yes, to all.

Do I believe this Democratic-led investigation is designed to fit a narrative? Do I see similarities between this and the Russia collusion, Ukraine investigation? Was the Russia collusion supported by the media? Was the Ukraine and resulting impeachment supported by the media? Is this investigation supported by the media? Yes, yes, yes, yes and yes.

In combat, the first reports of enemy contact are greatly exaggerated. Think back on some of the initial reports as facts now disproved. One example is that a police officer was bludgeoned to death by the rioters with a fire extinguisher. That lie lasted for several weeks but no evidence of an armed insurrection.

I do not condone violence, and I want lawbreakers prosecuted. Never forget our First Amendment has five basic rights and one is the right of the people to peaceably assemble.

Trust USPS, even if Trump does not

To the editor:

"If we don't make a deal, that means they don't get the money. That means they can't have universal mail-in voting," then-President Donald Trump said to Fox Business on Aug. 13, 2020, as he openly described his/the GOP plan to disenfranchise voters during the 2020 election by starving the United States Postal Service's budget.

Is the "post office" broken? The most recent Pew Research survey ranking government agencies once again placed the U.S. Postal Service at the very top. Ninety-one percent of respondents are satisfied with the USPS. How often do we see that kind of consensus anymore?

The USPS is a top employer of veterans. Anywhere across our country, a vet can find work that pays a living wage with benefits. It's a bridge for reentering civilian life. Slinging mug at the USPS is, by extension, an attack on the integrity of the many veterans it employs. Personally, I trust our vets more than a politician trying to game the system at election time.

Postmaster General Louis DeJoy, GOP megadonor, is Trump's own appointee. Trump launched a relentless smear campaign against mail-in voting. DeJoy obediently dismantled sorting machines and removed drop boxes to slow the vote — while millions of Americans were reluctant to vote in person due to COVID-19.

DeJoy also banned overtime to ensure carriers couldn't keep up with the mail volume. U.S. Judge Stanley Bastian ordered DeJoy to stop his corrupt actions, finding, "it is easy to conclude that the recent postal service's changes is an intentional effort on the part of the current administration to disrupt and challenge the legitimacy of upcoming local, state and federal elections."

At this time, Louis DeJoy refuses to resign, and there is no mechanism to remove him. We have a defeated former president still railing against the USPS still overseen by his pick. We have politicians crying foul because they fear losing their future races should more Americans rely upon the safety and ease of mail-in voting.

Then there's the rest of us who trust the post office to deliver our medications and to help us pay our bills, but now we're not supposed to trust it at election time. Have you asked your carrier if he or she diverted ballots in the 2020 election? We don't ask because we trust the USPS and because the question itself is absurd.

Defense trending wrong way as playoffs start

For most of the regular season, the Green Bay Packers' defense looked to have finally turned the corner. The unit was no longer a crutch for the team, and it was actually helping the team to wins.

MORGAN RODE

After great performances against the Kansas City Chiefs in week nine and the Seattle Seahawks in week 10, the Packers' defense has trended in the wrong direction. And now as the postseason opens for Green Bay, the defense is once again the likely determining factor in how deep of a postseason run the team can make.

In the team's seven games since the shutout win over Seattle, opponents have scored 28 or more points five times. In the game against the Cleveland Browns where the defense allowed 22 points, Cleveland also rushed for 219 yards. The other time Green Bay's defense allowed less than 28 points came in a lopsided 37-10 win over the Minnesota Vikings, where the Packers faced quarterback Sean Mannion instead of Kirk Cousins who lit them up for 341 pass yards and three scores earlier in the season.

Hoping to use the regular season finale against the Detroit Lions as a way to shore some things up, instead the defense was gashed for 404 yards and 37 points.

Even in the meaningless loss, coach Matt LaFleur didn't downplay the defense's poor play.

"I would just say the consistency, you know. Football in general comes down to discipline and people owning their roles," said LaFleur. "When you aren't disciplined or you go outside the scheme, bad stuff happens, and we cannot have that. We need all 11 doing their damn job, and if they don't, stuff like that happens."

Green Bay Packers outside linebacker Jonathan Garvin, right, tries to bring down Detroit Lions quarterback Jared Goff during a game on Sept. 20 at Lambeau Field in Green Bay. After putting together a solid start to the season, the Packers' defense has struggled down the stretch. GREG MELLIS | NEW MEDIA

The Packers' defense was beaten for touchdowns on a pair of trick plays against Detroit. With the San Francisco 49ers coming to Lambeau Field for the Divisional Round game, the result of those trick plays should be especially concerning because of all the motion and deception that 49ers coach Kyle Shanahan incorporates into his offense.

Of course, the 49ers and Packers already met way back in the early portion of the regular season, so there's some idea of the challenges the 49ers' offense presents already.

Green Bay held San Francisco's offense to 298 total yards. Only 67 of the yards came on the ground, but that was largely due to the 49ers going behind by 17 points to start the game.

The 49ers' leading rusher in that game was Trey Sermon, who didn't even receive a carry in the team's upset playoff win over the Dallas Cowboys. Running back Elijah Mitchell and versatile receiver Deebo Samuel combined for 168 rushing yards and two scored on 37 carries in the playoff win.

You can bet the 49ers will lean on those two guys and run all day, control the clock and keep the Packers' offense on the sidelines. It'll be up to the Packers' defense to find a way to slow down the rushing attack, or create some turnovers.

One thing that is working in the Packers' favor is its defense might be the healthiest it's been all season for the playoffs.

Outside linebacker Za'Darius Smith hasn't played since week one, but is trending toward playing this Saturday. While he is known more for his pass-rushing abilities, throwing him in to help slow the run should only boost the defense.

Then there's cornerback Jaire Alexander, who intercepted a pass and knocked away three passes in the Pack's win over San Francisco earlier this year. He's expected back for the playoff game as well. Again, like Smith, Alexander would help out more in the passing game, but he's proved to be a sure tackler and certainly makes the defense more versatile.

There's also a chance outside linebacker Whitney Mercilus is back for the playoff run, even though he was expected to be out for the season. He's another big body the Pack can put in the box to try and slow the San Francisco passing game.

Should the Packers find a way to consistently stop the run, they'll be as ready as ever to defend the pass. Ideally, the Packers' offense would get off to a strong start and grab a multi-score lead, like it did in the team's first matchup, then the Packers' revamped defense could pin its ears back and really control the game.

NOTEBOOK

By BILL HUBER
Correspondent

Studs pass-catchers

Two All-Pro receivers will take center stage when the Green Bay Packers host the San Francisco 49ers in an NFC Divisional Round playoff game on Saturday night.

In one corner, it's Green Bay's Davante Adams, who finished second in receptions, third in receiving yards and fifth in receiving touchdowns. In the other corner, it's San Francisco's Deebo Samuel, who led the NFL in yards per reception and finished third in yards from scrimmage.

The X-factor could be the No. 2 receivers, Green Bay's Allen Lazard and San Francisco's Brandon Aiyuk.

In the first six games, Aiyuk caught nine passes for 96 yards (10.7 average) and one touchdown. In the final 11 games, he caught 47 passes for 730 yards (15.5 average) and four touchdowns.

Lazard, meanwhile, scored five touchdowns in the final six games. That was one behind Adams' league-leading total.

"Feel good. Feel good," Lazard said about the state of his game. "I feel like I'm in a really good mental space; physically, as well. Just having a good intuition when it comes to playing the game, feeling it out, knowing what Aaron (Rodgers is) thinking. (Receivers) coach (Jason) Vrable and (Nathaniel) Hackett simply have done a great job throughout this entire year.

"I really just honed in on their teachings, on what they've done to prepare us. I've really been honing in on my notes, on the film and the details and the routes. I've just been working on that chemistry and connection with Aaron. It's obviously been working out very well."

Cold night at Lambeau

It's going to be a cold one at Lambeau Field for the 7:15 p.m. kickoff. While the predicted high for Saturday is 21, the projected low is 3. That will mean a kickoff temperature somewhere in the neighborhood of 12 and a wind chill perhaps dipping below zero.

With a kickoff temperature of 15 or colder, the Packers in games started by Rodgers have won four in a row. That includes a 37-10 romp over Minnesota in week 17.

"We think it's Packer weather, honestly," defensive lineman Dean Lowry said last week. "Go back to our game against Minnesota. We played great team defense. That was probably our most complete game of the year, against Minnesota in that freezing weather.

"We're used to it. Even today, we were outside the whole practice. We just think it fits our strength of playing tough defense and having a quarterback and an offense that's experienced in this weather."

Cold doesn't guarantee anything, though. In the 2013 wild-card round, the 49ers beat the Packers 23-20 with a kickoff temperature of 5. While Rodgers has a wealth of cold-weather experience, 49ers quarterback Jimmy Garoppolo has never thrown a pass in a game with a kickoff temperature of 40 or colder.

Turning over a new leaf

Based on regular-season play, one big advantage for Green Bay is turnovers. Even with the backups turning it over three times at Detroit in the finale, the Packers finished third in the NFL at plus-13 for the season. The Packers had two giveaways in week 1, three giveaways in week 18 and just eight in between.

The 49ers, on the other hand, were minus-4 for the season – worst in the NFC playoff field and second-worst among the 14 playoff teams. However, they were plus-5 down the stretch in winning seven of their final nine regular-season games.

Teams that won the turnover battle this season won 80% of the time. The Packers went 10-0 when collecting more takeaways than giveaways – including plus-2 in the 30-28 win at San Francisco in week three – and 0-3 when they had more turnovers. The 49ers went 4-0 when they won the turnover battle and 1-5 when they lost. Garoppolo threw 12 interceptions and fumbled eight times.

Hackett a hot name

Of the eight head coaching vacancies, Packers offensive coordinator Nathaniel Hackett interviewed for four of them during the playoff bye week: NFC North rivals Minnesota and Chicago along with Jacksonville and Denver.

Hackett, who helped guide the Blake Bortles-led Jaguars offense to an AFC Championship Game in 2017 and the Rodgers-led offenses to NFC title games in 2019 and 2020, has flourished alongside coach Matt LaFleur.

"This has been such a great opportunity for me," Hackett said. "Being able to come here with coach LaFleur has been unbelievable. You go through a lot of time as a coordinator creating systems. Being able to come here and learn Matt's system and being able to combine those two systems has been something huge for me as a person.

"And then at the same time watch a first-time head coach to be able to be in there with him, watch the things that he goes through, being able to have that relationship with Matt has taught me so much about his position. It's just been an amazing experience, it really has. And the culture that he's brought here, it's one of those things like, this is how it should be."

KEYS TO THE GAME

Green Bay Packers quarterback Aaron Rodgers slides to the ground during the team's game against the Detroit Lions on Sept. 20 at Lambeau Field in Green Bay. Rodgers and the Packers' offense will go up against a San Francisco 49ers defense that held the Dallas Cowboys in check last week.

GREG MELLIS | NEW MEDIA

By BILL HUBER
Correspondent

The Green Bay Packers (13-3) will host the San Francisco 49ers (11-7) at 7:15 p.m. Saturday at Lambeau Field in Green Bay. FOX will televise the game.

History

Including this year's 30-28 victory at San Francisco, the Packers lead the series 38-32-1. The teams have split eight playoff games. The 49ers knocked Aaron Rodgers and Co. out of the playoffs in 2012, 2013 and 2019.

Coaches

Green Bay – Matt LaFleur, 39-10 in regular season, 41-12 overall, third season. San Francisco — Kyle Shanahan, 39-42 in regular season and 41-43 overall, fifth season.

When the Packers have the ball

There's not a hotter offense in the playoffs than the one the Packers will roll out on Saturday night. Over the final seven regular-season games, they were second in the league in scoring. Aaron Rodgers was No. 1 in passer rating and Davante Adams was No. 1 in touchdown receptions.

They'll face a tough task against the 49ers' defense, which was superb in shutting down the Cowboys, the offense that was No. 1 in scoring the past seven games, in the Wild Card Round. In winning eight of its last 10 games, San Francisco allowed 20 points or less six times.

While the 49ers finished 12th in points allowed (21.5 per game), they were third in total defense (310 yards per game), sixth in yards allowed per play (5.11), third in sack percentage (8.8) and seventh in goal-to-go situations (63.3% touchdowns). The Cowboys were held to 4.4 yards per play, down three yards from their fourth-ranked season average.

The front is tremendous and was the reason why the Niners upset the Cowboys. The 49ers were credited with five sacks and 14 quarterback hits while limiting the top-notch running back tandem of Ezekiel Elliott and Tony Pollard to 45 yards on 16 attempts.

The only run of 10-plus yards was Dak Prescott's game-ending scramble.

Pro Bowler Nick Bosa and Samson Ebukam are the ends, and Arik Armstead and D.J. Jones are the tackles.

Bosa was limited to 23 snaps against Dallas with a concussion but the 49ers are hopeful he'll be back. He finished fourth in the NFL with 15½ sacks and added four forced fumbles but was largely held in check by Yosh Nijman when the Packers won in week three.

The battle between Bosa and David Bakhtiari will be must-see TV. Bakhtiari returned from a torn ACL to play 27 snaps in week 18 against Detroit. He was dominant in those snaps but the Lions don't have anyone with half of Bosa's talent. Armstead is a tremendous player who contributed six sacks and Jones is a highly underrated player who finished second on the team with 10 tackles for losses.

Fred Warner (137 tackles, seven for losses), Azeez Al-Shaair (102 tackles, nine for losses) and Dre Greenlaw (21 tackles in three games) are the linebackers. Rodgers for years has raved about Warner being an elite player. He suffered an ankle injury against Dallas but expects to play.

If the Packers can protect Rodgers, there are plays to be made against a secondary that gave up 12 catches to Adams, including two big ones on the game-winning drive in week three. Emmanuel Moseley and rookie Ambry Thomas are the corners and K'Waun Williams mans the slot.

Thomas is the weak link. Jimmie Ward and Jaquiski Tarta provide steady veteran play at safety.

When the 49ers have the ball

Which Green Bay defense will show up? Will it be the one that played so well through the first two-thirds of the season and crushed Vikings running back Dalvin Cook in week 17? Or will it be the one that gave up 28-plus points in five of the final seven games?

The 49ers finished only 13th with 25.1 points per game but hit their stride down the stretch. Notably, they finished No. 1 in red-zone offense (66.7%) while Green Bay finished No. 28 in red-zone defense (66%).

The key will be San Francisco's rushing attack. Elijah Mitchell finished eighth in rushing with 963 yards despite missing six games due to injuries. He's not as explosive as Raheem Mostert, who ran circles around the Packers in the 2019 NFC Championship Game, but he's still a big-time talent.

There are two important changes since Green Bay's week three victory. One, Mitchell is healthy; he was inactive for that game. Two, receiver Deebo Samuel has become a featured runner. With Mitchell (27 carries, 96 yards, one touchdown) and Samuel (10 carries, 72 yards, one touchdown) leading the charge, the 49ers demolished the Dallas defense with 169 rushing yards.

Green Bay's run defense ran hot and cold down the stretch. The Browns rushed for 219 yards in week 16 but the Vikings managed only 27 in week 17. All the jet-motion-style runs featuring Samuel as a runner or decoy will test the discipline of outside linebackers Preston Smith and Rashan Gary and All-Pro inside linebacker De'Vondre Campbell.

The running game will set up quarterback Jimmy Garoppolo for success (or failure). He finished third in completion percentage (68.3) and ninth in passer rating (98.8). He averaged a second-ranked 8.64 yards per attempt because he benefited from a league-best 6.51 yards after the catch. He didn't play well at Dallas and has no cold-weather history.

Samuel, with a league-high 18.3 yards per reception, is a stud in the run-after-catch phase and one of the premier playmakers in the league. He averaged 10 yards after the catch, fourth-best in the NFL and by far the best among receivers. He forced 20 missed tackles on 77 receptions; every Packers receiver combined tallied 24 misses on 238 receptions.

George Kittle (71 receptions, 910 yards, six touchdowns) is the best all-around tight end in the NFL, and receivers Brandon Aiyuk (56 receptions, 826 yards, five TDs) and Jauan Jennings (24 receptions, 282 yards, five TDs) emerged down the stretch.

Special teams

This is the phase that Packers fans have dreaded for most of the season.

The 49ers are fairly mediocre on special teams. Veteran kicker Robbie Gould was 20-of-23 on field goals and made kicks of 52 and 53 yards against Dallas.

Punter Mitch Wishnowsky finished 14th in net average. He's got all the kicks in his bag to make fielding the ball a challenge. Presumably, David Moore will handle punts. He had an excellent debut in week 17 but spent week 18 on the COVID list.

In the first meeting, Aiyuk averaged 11.5 yards per punt return and Trent Cannon had a 68-yard kickoff return. With Aiyuk having a key role on offense and Cannon on injured reserve, Travis Benjamin had an 11-yard punt return and Ja'Mycal Hasty went nowhere on two kickoff returns.
