Bonfire explosion injures multiple Pulaski students

Incident took place during PHS homecoming weekend

By NEW MEDIA STAFF

The Pulaski community is rallying around each other after a bonfire exploded and injured an undetermined number of people.

Lt. Chris Madle, Shawano County's emergency management director, said on Oct. 18 that the sheriff's department has been collecting statements in an effort to piece together what happened at a bonfire located in the Town of Maple Grove, but he estimated it's something that's not going to be resolved quickly.

"We don't have anybody in custody. Nobody's been arrested," Madle said. "We're still collecting statements, and we're hoping to meet with as many as we can to figure out who was there, what happened, what led up to the events of this happening. Our detectives are still working to piece this puzzle together. Unfortunately, this isn't going to be something that we'll have wrapped up in a day or a week because there are so many people involved."

The bonfire took place about 10 p.m. Oct. 14, but the Shawano County Sheriff's Department reported that the Brown County Dispatch Center contacted them early the next morning regarding several people showing up with burns at area hospitals. According to Detective Craig Rekoske, one of the victims told hospital officials that the injuries were from a bonfire explosion at a home on Cedar Drive in the Town of Maple Grove.

The sheriff's department reported that at least 17 victims have been located up to this point. However Mallory Kinchen, who is doing an online fundraiser through www.spotfund.com, indicated that at least 30 students and alumni in the Pulaski Community School District were injured at the bonfire during the district's homecoming weekend. Further, it was reported that six were burned badly enough to need to be transported to St. Mary's Hospital's burn center in Milwaukee.

Several GoFundMe pages for various individuals indicated a container of gasoline was thrown onto the fire, but that has not been confirmed by law enforcement.

Rekoske reported that an accelerant was applied to the fire, which caused it to expand out of control.

The request for information and support was echoed on Facebook by the Pulaski Police Department.

"As a close-knit community, this is where we need to rely on each other to come together and provide information and assistance," the Facebook statement read. "Our thoughts and prayers are with those who have been affected by this."

Kinchen's Spot Fund effort is hoping to raise at least $2,000 to provide gas and restaurant gift cards for the families whose loved ones are in the St. Mary's burn unit. She said she is working with the school district and village police to make sure those cards get to the right people.

The district put out a statement on Facebook recommending students and families in need of support contact crisis lines for Shawano County at 715-526-3240 or Oconto County at 920-496-7000 to speak with mental health and grief counselors.

Multiple detectives are gathering further details, but the school district is not permitting sheriff's officials to interview students on school grounds. Detectives were expected to conduct interviews in the afternoon and evening of Oct. 19 at the Pulaski Police Department, 585 E. Glenbrook Drive, Pulaski.

Madle said that being able to interview anyone present at the bonfire sooner rather than later would have been preferable, but he understood the district's decision.

"Obviously, it would have made it easier for us to interview all the kids at the same spot at the same time, but we understand their decision. Hence, we were able to make the arrangements with the police department in Pulaski to at least get interviews set up there," Madle said.

Madle said the department believes there were anywhere from 30-40 total people at the bonfire, including other witnesses who were not injured. There is also no indication of the severity of all of the injuries, but the sheriff's department reports some critical cases, along with some victims already being released from the hospital as of Oct. 17.

Madle said there were indications that underage drinking was taking place at the bonfire but indicated detectives are more interested in who was involved with the explosion instead of issuing citations for alcohol consumption.

"We are trying to assure people that is not our priority," Madle said. "We're just trying to identify who was there and what happened."

Superintendent Allison Space did not return a call from NEW Media seeking comment, instead releasing a statement by email. She wrote that the district is encouraging anyone with information to step forward, but its main mission is "staying focused on student learning."

"This is a law enforcement investigation, and while the district will cooperate and encourage anyone with information to cooperate, our responsibility is to focus on maintaining the educational environment of our schools," Space wrote. "This is an unprecedented situation, but it is in times of crisis that the Pulaski community has shown time and again that we will pull together to overcome."

Oconto Falls seeks support for new school

Superintendent presents the case to local town boards, city council, other groups

By WARREN BLUHM
Editor-in-chief

Oconto Falls School District officials continue to tour the district, speaking to town boards and other groups about their $37.6 million referendum question — which includes $35.5 million for a new middle school.

An information session is also planned for 6:30 p.m. Nov. 3 at the district office, 200 N. Farm Road, Oconto Falls, five days before the question goes before voters.

A $49.9 million question was rejected in April, and the new referendum pares down the “ask” to include only the new school, security upgrades at the entrances to all district school buildings and some long-deferred roof repairs.

Inflation this year has increased the estimated cost of the new building from $31 million to $35.5 million. The structure on district land along County Road I would replace Washington Middle School — which has a section that was built as a high school during World War I, a large area built in 1957 and additions dating to the 1980s and 1990s.

The tour brought Superintendent Dean Hess and some school board members to the Oconto Falls City Council on Oct. 11, when Hess noted the school is still heated — unevenly — by a pair of Kewanee that were installed in 1957.

“They’re actually really good boilers; they’d probably outlast me,” Hess said. “With that stated, we can’t buy parts for them anymore unless we buy them used online, which is actually what we’re doing right now on a regular basis. As you can imagine, they’re not really efficient.”

There are asbestos tiles throughout the school, which would require a costly abatement process should they ever be replaced, he said. The school is located on a 5-acre block in a residential area near downtown, with an asphalt playground and traffic issues at the beginning and end of the school day as children are dropped off and picked up.

To bring Washington Middle School up to modern codes would cost about 70% of the cost of replacement, Hess acknowledged, adding that wouldn’t solve all of the problems with that site.

“If you do the 70%, you’re still sitting with a building that’s on a very small 5-acre parcel in town,” Hess said. “You don’t have green space for your students. You still have the traffic issues that we talked about; you still have some pretty significant old bones of the building.”

A new school would cover about 20-30 acres of the 100-acre parcel the district bought several years ago, anticipating the need.

“We just had an opportunity to buy the entire piece — looking at it from the standpoint that if you have more than you need, you have options,” Hess said. The city of Oconto Falls is currently in the process of buying 10 acres on the southern edge of the property for a new electric substation. “By having that property, it allows you some latitude to work with other members of the community to try to work out how we can continue to move forward.”

The property tax mill rate for school purposes will go down in any case — significantly more if referendum doesn’t pass — but Hess said if the question fails, the district would still need to address the issues that led to the referendum.

Planning for a new middle school started in earnest in 2016. Hess said the school board has been paying off debt early when possible in anticipation that the project would bring new debt to address the needs and keep the mill rate stable.

“A stable mill rate is a good thing for your taxpayers,” he said. “If you have a mill rate that’s jumping up and down, it’s hard for them to plan for their own personal budgets.”

As for the upgraded secure entrances, Hess said years ago the school doors were unlocked and stayed open all day. In recent years they have been changed to permit only electronic access during school hours with cameras at entrance, and visitors are vetted before being allowed in. But once inside, he said, the person has access to whole building.

“We need to go to the next step and have it so they’re only allowed into the office and vetted again to decide if they can have access to the school,” Hess said. “Whether the referendum passes or not, that’s something that we as a district are going to have to work on.”

A resident attending the council meeting suggested the district should emphasize how the new school could improve scholastic aptitude. Hess agreed that a more modern environment could help students, but the informational campaign has focused on hard facts.

“I’m not sure that you can necessarily say that because I walk into a room that provides me better lighting, it provides me better aesthetics. I’m not sure that I can look at you and say that’s automatically going to improve scholastic aptitude or outcomes in students,” he said.

“I will say that it provides more opportunities. I used to be a science teacher ... I can tell you that in an environment like the 90-plus acres, I’d be able to walk out and do significant environmental education, ag education, agri-science — if there’s a retention pond, which there probably will be if you build a building, there’d probably be opportunities to do water studies, things that are a lot more hands-on which you would think, then, would improve scholastics.”

A conceptual drawing of a new middle school is included in the district’s PowerPoint presentation, but Hess emphasized that the new school would probably not look like that. The drawing, which shows a facility of approximately the same size and square footage as contemplated in Oconto Falls, is used for people who would like to see a blueprint, which is costly to provide at this stage.

“You’re hesitant to invest a million dollars on a blueprint only to potentially have a referendum fail,” Hess said. “You need to make sure you pass a referendum before you begin the planning process.”

If the question does pass, it would be followed by a six- to eight-month month planning and design phase, with a lot of community input to get as much of a consensus as possible, he said.

Weather will set dog park season

By WARREN BLUHM
Editor-in-chief

The Oconto Falls Dog Park won't close on Nov. 1 after all, unless the city happens to get a major snowfall between now and then.

At the request of several residents, the Oconto Falls City Council voted unanimously Oct. 11 to allow the weather, not the calendar, to determine the opening and closing dates for the dog park along Maple Avenue.

Since it opened in 2019, a Girl Scout Gold Award project of Oconto Falls High School graduate Emily Goner, the park has been closed from Nov. 1 to April 1.

Alderperson Ashley Bahrke said she was approached by people in the community who asked if the season could be extended.

"Not asking for year-round (operation), but I was wondering if we could consider having it open until we would announce its closure based on the weather," Bahrke said.

The spring opening of the dog park season would also be determined based on the weather, she said.

Street Superintendent Allan Winkler said the change would not be a problem. The only necessary change on site would be to remove the sign that says the park is open April 1 to Nov. 1.

Oconto County firefighters help out in Michigan

Local departments responded in early hours of warehouse fire that burned for days

By WARREN BLUHM
Editor-in-chief

An Oconto County contingent was among the small army of firefighters that responded to the huge Oct. 6 fire at the Resolute Forest Products warehouse in Menominee, Michigan.

The fire burned for days and has prompted an Environmental Protection Agency investigation that includes surface water sampling and testing related to potential run-off from the incident site to the Menominee wastewater treatment plant and adjacent Menominee River.

During the Oct. 11 meeting of the Oconto Falls City Council, Fire Chief Tim Magnin said he ended up being the strike team leader for a group that included firefighters from five departments.

"We ran it kind of like a MABAS (Mutual Aid Box Alarm System) deployment, although it actually wasn't because Menominee from my understanding did not sign the Michigan MABAS, so it had to go to the governor as state-to-state resources," Magnin said. "We went with four engines and a ladder – an engine from the Falls, engine from Oconto, Suring and the city of Gillett and a ladder from Pulaski; we responded as a group."

Mustering in Oconto, the group went to Michigan together, providing assistance for a township that had been called from "way up north." The engines pumped for more than six hours straight, leaving after eight hours because the governors had only agreed to eight hours of interstate coverage, Magnin said.

"We got back Saturday around 2:30 in the morning. So it was a long day but everybody did a great job, and they were very thankful for the response that we had from our county," he said. "The sad part is because they didn't have a MABAS agreement, the state of Wisconsin's going to bill them for all those resources and man hours. We could see some of that money coming back our way for truck use and firefighters."

The EPA continued to monitor air and surface water pollution for more than a week after the fire was brought under control.

County launches 'Operation Green Light' to support veterans

In advance of the upcoming Veterans Day holiday, Oconto County announced that the flagpoles by the front of the courthouse and veterans memorial would be illuminated green through Nov. 13 as part of Operation Green Light. This new national collaborative initiative of the National Association of Counties (NACo) is designed to support military veterans, as well as raise awareness about the unique challenges faced by many veterans and the resources that are available at the county, state and federal levels to assist veterans and their families.

The national collaborative is spearheaded by the National Association of Counties and the National Association of County Veteran Service Officers.

"Since the tragedy of Sept. 11, 2001, our nation's voluntary military force members and their families have made immense sacrifices for our safety and security over a two-decade period," said Ron Christensen, Oconto County Veterans Service Officer. "Similar to the sacrifices of previous generations of our armed forces, this service to country also often results in significant stress to many of the veterans who served in times of war and conflict. We want to make sure our veterans and their families know that their service mattered, that we are grateful for their sacrifices and that it is now our turn to make sure they are served by their county government and our community."

In addition to lighting at the courthouse, residents and businesses are encouraged to participate by simply changing one light bulb in their house to a green bulb. This can be an exterior light that neighbors and passersby see, or an interior light that sparks a conversation with friends.

Shining a green light lets veterans know that they are seen, appreciated and supported, Christensen said. While this event is focused around the week of Veterans Day (Nov. 7-13), participants are encouraged to continue shining the light year-round. Residents can share their participation on social media by posting a picture to the OcontoCounty (one word) Veterans Facebook page.

"Operation Green Light is a simple way to express our collective appreciation for the public service of our veterans," said NACo President Denise Winfrey. "We encourage everyone to join us in displaying a green light for our veterans and to also reflect on how we, as a nation and at the county level, assist our military service personal back into civilian life upon completion of their service to our country."

Oconto Falls to implement garbage pickup change

Weekly pickup using 96-gallon bins set to begin Nov. 7

By WARREN BLUHM
Editor-in-chief

Oconto Falls officials are preparing a mailer to go to city residents explaining the upcoming changes in garbage and recycling pickup.

The city held an informational session Oct. 11 to provide details and receive comments on the change being implemented by GFL Environmental Inc., the city's contractor.

City Administrator Peter Wills explained that GFL is moving to automated pickup starting Nov. 7, in part because of the sparse labor market and in part to save money on labor. Instead of a two-person crew, the pickup can be achieved with trucks equipped to lift and empty large standardized bins.

The Town of Oconto Falls made the switch earlier this year with few issues reported, he said.

Every property is assigned a 96-gallon bin, and each has an identification number on the back that corresponds to the property, Wills said.

"So if you leave or move out, the garbage bin remains with the property," Wills said.

Garbage pickup will still occur weekly, and recycling will be collected every other week, with state Highway 22 serving as the dividing line for which half of the city is being recycled, he said.

GFL has also waived the $300,000 cost of buying bins for all the properties in the city; if the bin is damaged, the property owner will have to work out the replacement cost with GFL, Wills said.

Belinda Chou was one of a handful of residents who attended the informational session, saying the 96-gallon bin is much larger than she needs.

"I'm not a high user of trash; I could fill that maybe in a month," Chou said.

She had concerns about getting the wheeled bin to curb in icy conditions and said the large bin could encourage some people to increase their waste. She also asked if households that don't generate much garbage should be assessed a lower price.

Wills said in a previous community where he worked and the city was charged by weight, they didn't see an increase in residential tonnage when the larger bins were introduced.

"We are charged one cost for the entire city for those who are picked up," he said. "It's not based on weight or quantity, whether we give you 10-gallon bins or 96-gallon bins. It's based on what we're being charged by GFL."

GFL will drop off the new bins before the Nov. 7 effective date. The garbage bags used under the old system can be placed in the bins until they're used up, and the city is selling its inventory at reduced prices.

For information, residents can call the city administrator's office at 920-846-4505.

OBITUARIES

Lee Damkoehler

It is with great sadness that we announce the passing of Lee Damkoehler, age 76, of Oconto, on Oct. 12, 2022. He died at home after several health issues.

Lee was born March 3, 1946, to David and Edna (Walters) Damkoehler in Oconto. Lee was a lifelong resident of Oconto and spent his childhood biking, exploring and being very involved in Boy Scouts. Every summer he went to Bear Paw Scout Camp in the Nicolet Forest. While at Bear Paw, he was asked to join the Order of the Arrow, Scouting's National Honor Society. Along with attending two National Jamborees, he was invited to work at Philmont Scout Ranch in Cimarron, New Mexico.

After graduating from Oconto High School, Lee enlisted in the Navy. He was assigned to a post at Moffett Federal Airfield in Santa Clara County, California, during the Vietnam Conflict. After mustering out of the Navy, Lee returned to Oconto where he briefly owned a transfer company, trucking goods around northeastern Wisconsin. Then he took a position at the Kohler Foundry in Kohler. Lastly, he was employed as a web press operator at Fort Howard Paper Company in Green Bay, where he remained until retirement. While he was at Fort Howard, he purchased a home on the Oconto River. The house was beautifully remodeled with a large deck surrounding the kitchen. He created a stone riverbank made of stone from vintage buildings that had been razed in Oconto. His home and surroundings are very beautiful with mature trees and a riverbank view.

In the basement of his house was a one-barrel capacity pilot brewery. Lee had an extraordinary interest in creating beer. Starting at age 14 in 1960, well before there was any home brewing or craft beer, Lee was creating home-brewed beer. Along with contacting retired brew masters to discuss brewing and obtaining recipes and vintage brewing textbooks, he had brewing equipment custom made from copper and stainless steel. As a home brewer, he was years ahead of his time.

His research led him to go to Germany to experience Munich Oktoberfest beer in the late 1960s. He had a prodigious memory for the taste and smell of beers, and his first Oktoberfest remained as an important benchmark. He continuously traveled to Germany to study a wide range of German beers with a special interest in small, family-run breweries. He researched Rauchbier, beer brewed with smoked malt and brewed to Märzen strength from the Franconia and Bamberg area. Additionally, he traveled to England and Scotland to study farmhouse ales and classic scotch ales, and to Slavic countries as member of a beer association.

He experimented and refined his beer for family and friends. He didn't have an interest in commercial brewing. Michael Jackson, the beer historian, was a friend in the beer community. Lee corresponded with many beer experts traveling to national beer conferences to meet with them. He co-wrote an article about the history of Oconto beer with his older brother that was published in Voyageur Magazine, Northeast Wisconsin Historical Review. He attended the University of California-Davis short course brewing program, resulting in Lee being awarded two certificates in brewing. In sum, he had an extraordinary devotion to the study and creation of highly crafted beer.

While living at his house in Oconto, Lee befriended feral cats that roamed his neighborhood, providing warm shelter on his deck in the coldest months and taking in several as companions. On the internet when one searches Lee's name, one finds a beautiful photographic portrait of Rusty, one of his beloved cats. Lee was an accomplished photographer, photographing a wide range of subjects including local events and family gatherings, and he created an artistic series of poignant and poetic photographs in setting and situations of people living on the margins of life, including small, picturesque taverns that were unchanged from long ago. Often these images would be in black and white. He supported the John Michael Kohler Art Center because of his interest in vernacular, self-taught and contemporary art.

Lee had many close friends worldwide and specifically Oconto, Green Bay and Sturgeon Bay. He was a member of Oconto civic organizations and the local Masonic Pine Lodge. He was friendly, sharing and loyal to his companions, especially the elderly. From his first forays into looking up retired brew masters in Florida as a young man, Lee had always been interested in the insights and conversations with the elderly. This interest coincided with his intensive and knowledgeable evangelical Bible study and membership in the Gospel Chapel in Oconto.

Lee was preceded in death by his parents, David Sr. and Edna (Walters) Damkoehler. Lee is survived by his three brothers, David and Toni (Baker) Damkoehler, Jay and JoAnn (Grimme) Damkoehler and Mark and Cheri (Smith) Damkoehler.

The funeral service will be graveside at Bay Side Cemetery in Sturgeon Bay on Wednesday, Oct. 19, at 10:30 a.m. with Pastor Bobbie Skelly officiating.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the Oconto Area Humane Society:

Security cameras at Menominee Indian High School captured the image of what looked to be a person potentially with an assault rifle and potentially a handgun on Oct. 12.

According to Menominee Indian School District Superintendent Wendell Waukau, the security cameras caught the individual outside of school hours in the early morning hours of Oct. 12. He did not specify a time. He added that nobody was hurt and that the damage to school property is still being assessed.

After school activities, including sports practices were shortened, in order to get students and staff home before dark. The Menominee Tribal Police department also enforced the juvenile curfew of 9 p.m.

Waukau said that local law enforcement are still investigating and searching for the individual.

"Of course, we involved our law enforcement and right now, we have had increased police presence in our school, at the end of the day and also an increased police presence around our high school throughout the evening," said Waukau.

He added that there will be increased police presence at all Menominee Indian athletic events.

Security cameras at Menominee Indian High School captured what appeared to be an individual holding a firearm on Oct. 12. School officials do not believe the individual to be a student and a heightened police presence will be at the school during school hours and after.

CONTRIBUTED

"That is what we are trying to give our students and our families and our community — ensuring that law enforcement is here, keeping our kids safe and at the same time, we understand that there is a police investigation to where they are out looking for an individual," said Waukau. "We don't know who it is, but we don't believe it is a student."

Menominee Indian High School put out a post on Facebook at 2:23 p.m. on Oct. 12, providing pictures of the security camera footage. Waukau said that another Facebook post would be shared Oct. 13 in the afternoon with an update on the investigation.

He added that the investigation is in the police's hands.

"We obviously have to concentrate at school, we have athletic events, its homecoming — we have a lot going on," said Waukau. "We are going day-by-day, knowing that our main mission is to keep kids safe and engage them in learning. That is what we need to continue to do."

Trial date set in endangering safety case

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

A trial date has been set for a homeless man charged in connection to a June 20 recklessly endangering safety incident in the Town of Washington.

LaNathan Wallace was charged with one count of second degree recklessly endangering safety, 10 counts of bail jumping, two misdemeanor counts of battery and two misdemeanor counts of disorderly conduct.

During a pre-trial hearing on Oct. 14, attorney Daniel Mitchell informed Shawano-Menominee County Circuit Court Judge Katherine Sloma that Wallace had filed for a speedy trial demand before Mitchell was appointed as the public defender.

"I think that we need to set a trial date sooner than later," said Mitchell.

Due to Wallace being charged in two other incidents, one charge being bail jumping and the other being throwing/expelling bodily substances as a prisoner, Mitchell said that at Wallace's previous court date, he had talked to the state about joining the matters.

"I don't know how (the state) plans to proceed on those cases — if they are join-able or not," said Mitchell.

Assistant District Attorney Laura Nelson said that the request for a speedy trial was placed on Aug. 3.

"I hope you understand that I have to discuss discovery with you — I don't know that any attorney in the world would be prepared by Oct. 26," said Mitchell, asking Wallace to consider delaying the trial. "I am asking that you perhaps reconsider the speedy trial and at least give me time to prepare, so we have a chance here."

Wallace agreed to push the trial back to allow Mitchell to prepare for it.

"It was filed on Aug. 3, which then pushes us back to Nov. 3," said Sloma. "The next suggested date was Nov. 22."

In an effort to join the matters for a trial, Sloma scheduled trial for Jan. 18-20 for each of the three cases. She also scheduled a final pre-trial hearing for all three cases for Dec. 9 at 11:15 a.m. Wallace is currently being held on a $50,000 cash bond.

Man charged with OWI requests competency evaluation

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

A Little Chute man who was charged in connection to a Sept. 2 automobile accident requested a competency hearing before moving forward with the case.

Cody A. Sabel, 35, was charged with one count of operating while intoxicated (fifth or sixth offense), one count of causing an injury while operating while intoxicated (second or subsequent offense), one count of first degree recklessly endangering safety and one count of second degree endangering safety.

If convicted, Sabel faces 10 years in prison and $25,000 in fines for each charge of OWI and second-degree recklessly endangering safety, six years and $10,000 for causing an injury while intoxicated, and 12½ years and $25,000 for first-degree recklessly endangering safety.

"I did see a motion come in earlier this week, requesting a competency evaluation," said Shawano-Menominee County Circuit Court Judge Katherine Sloma.

Sloma asked attorney Christine Bruen if they want to move forward with the competency evaluation, to which she replied yes.

Due to the length that it takes to get results back, Sloma scheduled a status conference for Dec. 6 at 1:30 p.m.

Pulaski schools bursting at the seams

$69.8M capital referendum expected to ease space at elementary schools, expand tech ed at PHS

The number of students in class has not grown as the student population has grown at Hillcrest Elementary School, but the school has had to divide larger classrooms in order to have enough classrooms.

LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Anyone who has been to Hillcrest or Sunnyside elementary schools in the Pulaski School District can see they are bursting at the seams.

Storage closets are becoming learning spaces. Larger classrooms are being divided into smaller classrooms. Art and music classrooms are being relegated to gymnasiums or other spaces because the classrooms are needed for core classes. Student populations are growing at a time when neighboring school districts are seeing declines. Old locker rooms are serving as closets while closets are providing one-on-one space for special needs students.

It is because of these reasons and more that the school district is asking voters Nov. 8 to approve a capital referendum for $69.8 million that will be used to build extended areas of the two schools, add on more technical education space to Pulaski High School and update all of the schools in the district in terms of security and safety.

The tax rate will be increased by $1.28 per $1,000 of equalized valuation if the capital referendum passes, which means a property worth $100,000 will see school taxes go up $128. The current tax rate is $6.32, dropping over $3.50 in the last decade, and even if it were to stay where it is, tacking on the capital referendum tax and the anticipated 58-cent operational referendum tax would still keep the tax rate below where it was in 2019.

Hillcrest and Sunnyside are the closest schools to the Green Bay area, serving Hobart, Howard and the southern tip of Oconto County. Hillcrest currently has 375 students and is past capacity now with temporary classrooms currently in place behind the original building, while Sunnyside with 500 students is reaching capacity.

Kris Wells, Hillcrest's principal, noted that the school's music teacher had been shuffled in recent years to share the art room and the gymnasium because student growth required putting regular classrooms in the original music space.

"This year, with the portables in place, we were able to give the music teacher her own classroom," Wells said. "I think we've been creative. This is my 11th year here at Hillcrest, and I'd say when I started, there were 250 students, so around the last 10 years, we grew around 120 students. It's exciting to see that people want to come to Hillcrest — whether they live here or whether they open enroll."

Wells added that there used to be two teachers for every grade level, but now there are three.

"That means six additional classrooms that we've had to find," she said.

The portable classrooms required the district to put extended systems into place, with electric, water, sewer, security cameras and locks and more, according to Nick Phillips, the facilities director for the district. While the portables are filling the need for now, long-term use would be cost prohibitive, which is why he and other district officials feel a permanent extension for Hillcrest is necessary.

“Our PA (public address) system is out here,” Phillips said. “Our mass notification system is out here. It’s not treated any differently than the building itself. If the fire alarm goes off there, it’s going off out here, too.”

Phillips noted that the district is paying $6,000 a month for the use of the portable classrooms, and it cost the district an additional $100,000 to get them in place.

“With the lead times and state approval required, there was no way to have a permanent structure in place,” he said, noting that even if the voters green-light the referendum next month, the projects will not be completed until 2025, which means at least another 2½ years of innovative shoehorning. “We’re making space out of space that was never intended for learning.”

Growth continues to be a factor at Sunnyside, too. Phillips noted there are new subdivisions going up in the towns of Chase and Little Suamico, and the school is close to Brown County’s border, as well, allowing nearby homes in Hobart to bring their children to the school.

“It’s a great problem to have, but we’re just running out of space,” Phillips said. “Bathrooms are a major issue, too. We have one set of bathrooms here (on the lower level) and one set upstairs, and that’s it.”

The renovations and extensions at the two elementary schools also include areas that can be used as outdoor learning spaces while letting natural light get into some of the interior classrooms that don’t currently have windows.

“The little kids, they come upstairs for lunch and recess, but then they are downstairs the rest of the day,” Phillips said. “That faces challenges in learning. We have no window wells downstairs. There’s just no natural lighting at all.”

The high school is not needing any additional classroom space, but when it was built in 1998, the technical education space was adequate for the machinery of the times. However, technical education has exploded in scope, and the existing space can no longer hold the equipment needed to give students choices about future careers, according to Phillips.

“They are offering unbelievable programming,” he said. “They offer the metal shop, wood shop, automotive. There are so many different

Office spaces have been transformed into smaller classrooms for special education students at Hillcrest Elementary School. The growth has passed capacity at Hillcrest, with portable classrooms installed behind the school to accommodate the students. LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA machines and equipment out there, and we want to offer that. Pulaski has prided itself with being hands-on through tech ed, farming community. To keep up with it, we need to expand.”

Sunnyside, along with Lannoye and Fairview elementary schools, are also operating on wells, so the district plans to upgrade the water systems at the three schools.

Additionally, the district plans to upgrade the parking lots at all of the elementary schools, as many of them are too small to handle dozens of vehicles at one time arriving at the school. Phillips calls the drop-off and pick-up times at the elementary schools as “organized chaos.”

“Upgrades at all of the schools are needed — there’s definitely some different finishes that we need to make,” Phillips said. “This (referendum) is going to touch every school. There’s no school left behind, I can tell you that.”

Growth is expected to continue for the foreseeable future, and district of-officials expect the other schools might need to expand in the future. However, a community survey indicates the taxpayers are only willing to pay for so much now, so the district is trying to take care of the most urgent needs now.

Mandela Barnes talks campaign in Keshena

Barnes rallies behind making sure voices of Native American communities are heard

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Lt. Gov. Mandela Barnes appeared Oct. 17 at the College of Menominee Nation on his campaign trail for a spot in the United States Senate.

Democrat Barnes is hoping to prevent U.S. Sen. Ron Johnson, R-Wisconsin, from continuing with a third term. During the meet-and-greet, Barnes began his speech by saying he enjoys coming to the Menominee Reservation.

"It is not my first time here, and it certainly won't be my last time here," said Barnes. "It has always been a welcoming and enjoyable experience. I hope everyone gets to experience it, and I wish more people would take the time to come up here and visit. A lot of people don't, and a lot of people couldn't care less about what is happening in tribal communities all across Wisconsin."

Growing up in a household with a school teacher and a third-shift factory worker as parents, Barnes paid homage to his humble beginnings, saying that his parents gave him the opportunity to run for the Senate.

"This is why I am able to even consider running for the United States Senate — I want everybody in this state, especially in our tribal communities on reservations, to at least have the same opportunities that I have had," said Barnes. "That is what it is all about. Opportunities have been denied for far too many people and its because we have too many self-serving, out-of-touch politicians in office. People who don't understand what our life is like."

When talking about his beliefs, Barnes pointed to climate change as "the greatest threat of our existence."

"We have an opportunity to work together — to come together — to push back and actually win this fight," said Barnes. "Only when we listen to the voices of folks who actually have been doing the work for so long."

Barnes said that when he took the oath of office for lieutenant governor, he promised to make Wisconsin a better place for everybody to live in. He pointed out that those demographics included tribal communities.

"I said that we are going to leave the core principles of equity and sustainability," said Barnes. "(Those are) two things that have been missing from state government. (Those are) two things that people didn't want to take the time to consider because it made them uncomfortable. The relative comfort from folks who are making those decision has led to the discomfort of the majority, and that is why it is time to step up and make our voices heard."

Barnes said that he was proud that he was a part of the group to make Indigenous People's Day a holiday in Wisconsin.

"I am proud that we are an administration that one, respects tribal sovereignty, but also wants to acknowledge the myriad of injustices, but also to give an opportunity to rectify," said Barnes. "That means bringing people into the conversation."

Barnes said that if citizens want to have an impact on the government, they need to change the people that they send to Washington D.C.

"For folks growing up right here in Menominee, I want you to know that this is something that you all can be one day," said Barnes, implying himself. "In all honesty, if I start messing up in my job, please do run against me, because that is what accountability looks like."

In 2018, Barnes became the first African-American to serve as Wisconsin's lieutenant governor. He pointed to the election as proof that anyone can make a difference.

"I hope that serves as a reminder to anybody who felt like they couldn't make a difference — to anybody who feels like their voices don't matter," said Barnes.

He also paid homage to the strong Native American tradition that is rooted in Wisconsin and acknowledged the hardships.

"There is so much for us to be proud of and yet, we still have many hardships," said Barnes. "Through all of those struggles, I can promise and I can assure you that I will be a fighter for you in Washington."

The election takes place on Nov. 8.

Shawano downtown plaza gets its identity

Menominee tribe contributes $15K toward plaza expenses

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

The downtown plaza for Shawano now has an official name after the Shawano Common Council voted unanimously Oct. 12 to call it The Naberhood.

That decision came shortly after Randy Chevalier, intergovernmental affairs manager for the Menominee

Indian Tribe of Wisconsin, stepped up at the beginning of the meeting and presented Mayor Bruce Milavitz with a $15,000 check to help pay for the $2.5 million plaza.

"This was a contribution that (the Menominee Tribal Legislature) had passed some time ago and, for whatever reason, got misplaced or forgotten," Chevalier said at the meeting. "We saw that this needed to get done, so we're here to present you with the check."

As for the name, city officials had been discussing several potential ideas, according to City Clerk Lesley Nemetz. Council members made their own suggestions and recommended that the city get public input on the suggested names. The Naberhood received 158 votes from about 300 cast, she said.

"There was a pretty clear front-runner from the beginning," Nemetz said. "The Naber name really resonated with some people in the community because of its historical significance in the area."

The idea for the unusual spelling for "neighborhood" came about because the old Naber building was demolished in order to create the plaza.

Nemetz said having The Naberhood take the lead from the beginning allowed the city to work on sign designs that were presented to the council. She noted a curving glyph underneath the N in Naberhood would be indicative of the Wolf River, which makes up much of Shawano's identity. There was also a rendering of the former Naber building above the name.

"We were able to work with a local marketing designer who provided us with a couple of options," Nemetz said.

Council members liked the idea but were less than thrilled with the fonts that were used.

"Personally, I didn't care for the font," Milavitz said.

Nemetz and City Administrator Eddie Sheppard both noted that design work is still in progress and what was shown to the council was only one example of what the signage would look like.

For the Novitiate's future, pull back the curtain

For years, the Novitiate in Gresham had been a hollowed-out ruin haunted by some harrowing history. Once a site for those with faith to delve deeply into that faith and serve God, it was irrevocably changed when it became a site for racial tension and violence in 1975, and after that, it has remained largely abandoned.

That has changed in the last couple of years, as new owners have taken charge of the property and are working to restore not only the 180 acres of land but the last remaining building identified as part of the Novitiate. Recently, that mansion played host as one of the sites for Miles of Art, with almost a dozen artists setting up tables in and out of the mansion and exposing the public to a site that only a few have traipsed on during the past two years.

LEE PULASKI

It had been over 10 years since I'd been out to the site, having done a story on an author chronicling the history of the Novitiate, and the mansion that we walked around during the interview was not something to write home about, marred by graffiti and other damage. When I went to the mansion for Miles of Art, the inside was still looking a mess, but the outer shell definitely looked like better days are to come. Looking at it from the banks of the Red River, it doesn't even look like it has a construction fence around it.

According to the website, www.greshamnovitiate.com, the new owners are working with local stakeholders and the surrounding community to find a new purpose for what is now being a dubbed "A Healing Ground."

My suggestion to the owners would be to turn the land into a site for performing and visual arts. If some painters, quiltmakers, basket weavers and other artists could make a ruined interior look dazzling, just imagine how amazing the artwork would look inside a restored building, hanging on

The Novitiate is looking much improved today than it has in the last few decades, and the new owners still have much planned for restoring the mansion that is the cornerstone of the property.

freshly rebuilt and repainted walls or on display on some beautiful tables, maybe something crafted by technical education students from local high schools.

Having just an art gallery is not enough, however. The site also screams for the need for performance artistry. Despite being one of the poorer segments of the state, rural parts of northeast Wisconsin enjoy their theatrical productions. As examples, I put forth the Nancy Byng Community Theater in Abrams, the Park Avenue Playhouse in Oconto, the Mielke Arts Center in Shawano and the WOW-SPACE in Wittenberg.

Imagine driving through the countryside at dusk past farmland and open fields to a shining beacon in the night as the moon shines on the waters of the Red River and you prepare for a night nestled with a wonderful story brought to life. There's nothing more healing than live theater, and there's something about seeing a performance in a building steeped with history.

The owners could invite outside performers to do shows at the site, and not necessarily limited to plays or musicals. What about comedians, local bands, even book authors? While the aforementioned sites play host to local theater troupes, the Novitiate wouldn't need to limit itself, especially if the owners hope to put the Gresham area out there as a spotlight destination. The site could also be a second site for the local groups, if they were interested in collaborating.

Some could argue that there's already a performance venue in that area via the North Star Casino. However, many of the shows are for ages 21 and older, thus requiring parents to find a babysitter instead of hauling the children along for some family-friendly fun. Also, while the casino attracts big-time artists like LeAnn Rimes and Tracy Byrd, the Novitiate could be a venue for local musicians and artists to make their mark.

Even if it's not decided to use the mansion for performing arts, there are 180 acres of land available for usage. Perhaps an outdoor amphitheater would fit just as well at the Novitiate, or even building a brand new facility. The site used to have a number of buildings on it before everything — save the mansion — was demolished.

There's one other aspect the owners should consider if they make the Novitiate into an artist haven. The site is historically known for a time when relations with the Menominee were poor. Perhaps the Menominee could be part of an arts venue, bringing out their artists, crafters, pow wow dancers and any performance artists they'd care to showcase. If this is truly to be a healing ground, bringing in the Menominee is a first step to making that happen.

The Novitiate is located in a pristine area of beauty, and once the mansion is restored and rebuilt, I know it will look even more amazing. Once that happens, a site for performance and visual arts would be the cherry on top.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Murray best choice to elect to legislature

To the editor:

I met Ben Murray six months ago. As a fellow veteran, I was impressed by this personable young man who had already served in Navy submarines and intelligence gathering for 11 years.

Ben Murray believes in an honest day's work for an honest day's pay. Wisconsin is the smallest state in the country with a full-time salaried Legislature plus generous perks. Yet, the Legislature only met for two months this year. In 2020, they did not pass any legislation for over 300 days.

Ben Murray believes in majority rule with minority protection, unlike our current Legislature that rigs the voting maps so completely that Democrats often win the statewide vote, yet get only one-third of the legislative seats. In moral terms, this is called stealing and most certainly not one person, one vote.

Ben Murray believes in representing all the people, not just those with a narrow mindset. If the governor calls for special sessions because a majority of Wisconsin citizens are being ignored in issue after issue, Ben believes in listening, not gaveling in and out in 20 seconds.

Ben Murray believes in common sense science and sustainability. As a reasonable person, he knows that we shouldn't poison our earthly home through our gluttonous behavior. This applies to the shared air that we breathe, the shared water that we drink, the collective food that we grow, and the massive waste products we generate.

Please elect Ben Murray for the 36th Assembly District on Nov. 8.

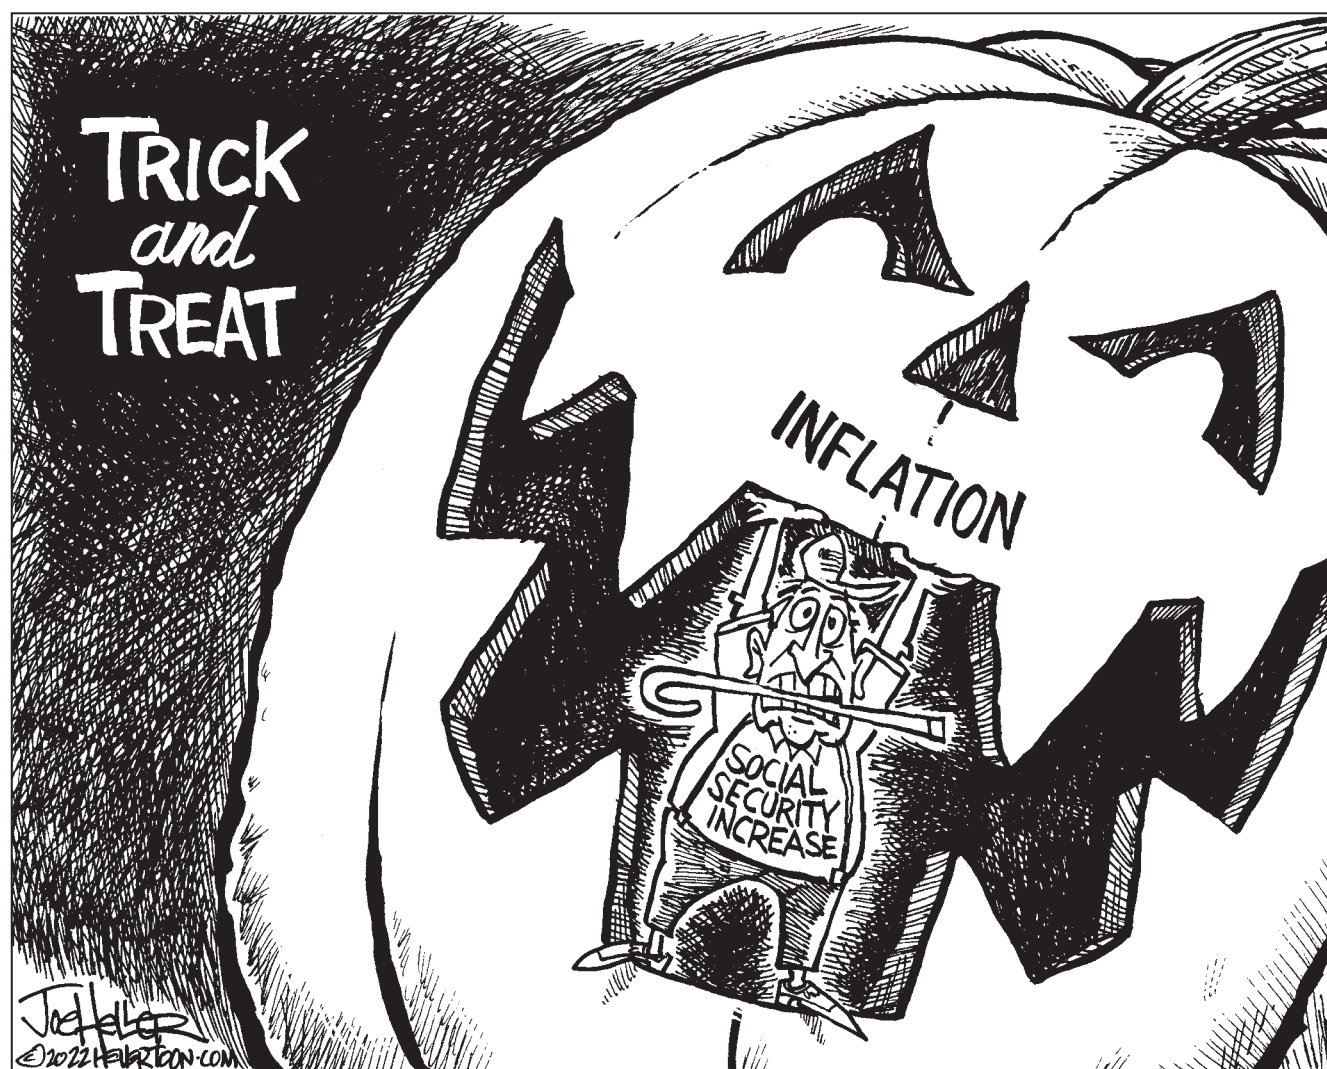

Mark Smith, Oconto Falls

If overcrowded, why let non-resident students in?

To the editor:

On Oct. 4, Pulaski School District representatives came to Hobart's village board meeting to answer questions about the district's upcoming referendum. Unfortunately, many questions remain.

First, why are non-resident students from outside the district still allowed to open enroll into school buildings that are already overcrowded? While the school district publishes pictures of teachers at Hillcrest Elementary using storage closets as office space, and portable trailers installed as classrooms, there are currently 66 non-resident students from outside the district enrolled at that school.

The school district published a Community Growth and Projections Report dated Nov. 4, 2021, which projects enrollment over the period from 2021 to 2035. Hillcrest Elementary is projected to increase 46 resident students over this 14-year period.

Why does the school district's referendum proposal double the size of Hillcrest School for an increase of only 46 resident students? Wouldn't a more cost-effective solution be to deny open enrollment to non-resident students? Should taxpayers in the Pulaski School District pay for building expansion to accommodate students who don't even live in the district? The village's plans for development in northern Hobart have been well-known for over 10 years, so the school district can't claim this enrollment crisis snuck up on them.

The same questions should be asked regarding the district's proposal for Sunnyside Elementary, which, according to the report, currently has 40 non-resident students from outside the district, and a projected increase of 90 resident students over 14 years. The proposal also doubles the size of this school.

So while we are being asked to double the size of two elementary schools (Hillcrest and Sunnyside), both Fairview and Glenbrook elementary schools are projected to remain below each building's lower limit capacity through 2035, and the Lannoye Elementary School won't exceed its lower limit capacity until 2035. Does this plan maximize the efficient use of existing buildings?

Additionally, why isn't the pool at the middle school removed and that space repurposed for the projected enrollment increase at that building? The age, cost and inefficiency of that pool has been a concern for decades, so why hasn't this been offered as a solution?

The upcoming Pulaski School District referendum crumbles under the weight of its own data. The district wants $69.8 million for school building expansion and improvements, yet its own data raises many questions as to why this much money is really needed. Read the report and vote on Nov. 8.

Memorial for police chief needs some rehab

To the editor:

As a young teenager growing up in Oconto Falls, it was a time when most people respected the law and those who enforced it. The Falls had one of the best police officers in Bob Hammond.

When my wife and I visited last weekend, I was shocked to see that the memorial to that man is in serious need of some TLC. I believe the city is responsible for maintenance of local memorials, so please clean up the site. Those of us who remember Chief Hammond (who never had a driver's license) can tell stories about how he loved people, always had a pleasant word to say and, as he was walking the streets, if he pointed at a passing car and blew his whistle, they would stop.

Support group helps blind, visually impaired

City proclamation for White Cane Safety Day draws attention to those who cannot see

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Proclamations from the city of Shawano recognizing certain days and issues are fairly common, but a proclamation regarding White Cane Safety Day — which is Oct. 15 each year — brought out a special guest.

Carolyn Melcher, who heads up the Shawano Blind and Low Vision Support Group, spoke to the Shawano Common Council on Oct. 12 about why such a day is necessary to draw attention to those who are unable to see clearly. She unfolded her white cane and explained that many blind people utilize them when they are not able to get a guide dog that can lead them around obstacles.

"I can't see if cars are coming because I'm legally blind. It makes it a little easier for me to be here because I can't see all of you," Melcher said, getting laughs from the council.

Melcher demonstrated how blind people indicate to motorists that they are about to cross the street by holding her cane out straight and making a circle in the air. She noted that many are unaware of what the signal means, and that is why a campaign like White Cane Safety Day is necessary.

Alderman Kevin Barkow admitted he did not know what the signal indicated, and he said there were probably many others who don't know how best to be aware of blind people.

"Some people deal with the visually impaired a lot, but I don't see them on the road very often," Barkow said.

Melcher encouraged people to offer assistance to anyone who is visually impaired. The simple gesture of offering an elbow for them to hold is one way, she said.

"Then we're instructed to make sure we'll tell them to give it back to them," Melcher said.

Melcher said that when she heard that the proclamation was being made, she knew she had to be there. She also asked the council members to let anyone they know who does not have full sight that her support group, which is part of the Wisconsin Council of the Blind and Visually Impaired, exists and welcomes all who might need a little help.

"We meet together once a month to support the blind and visually impaired and to give everybody information about how to make our lives easier with all kinds of things that they make now," Melcher said.

She noted that, when she first became president for the support group, a retired optometrist contacted her and offered his services.

"I said, 'Come on,'" Melcher said.

The proclamation notes that the law gives right of way to pedestrians carrying a white cane or using a guide dog. It also notes that motorists must keep their vehicles at least 10 feet away to allow blind people to cross the street freely in order to avoid injury.

The truth about solar energy and the proposed Birch Solar Project

Rhetoric: Solar panels are dangerous and leach chemicals into the ground and pose a risk to public health.

Reality: People have been safely living and working around solar panels for generations. Panels are made of solid materials and do not pose a chemical hazard to the general public, underlying soil or groundwater. Solar photovoltaic panels typically are typically made of glass, polymer, aluminum, copper and semiconductor materials that can be recovered. In fact, studies have shown health-related air quality benefits from solar energy are worth even more than the electricity itself.*

Commitment to Excellence

New Middle School Possible Without a Property Tax Increase

On November 8, residents of the Oconto Falls School District will consider a capital referendum question. An approved referendum would allow the district to move ahead with a plan to construct a new middle school, as well as replace roofing and establish more secure entrances across all our schools.

These projects would be possible without the need for a property tax increase. If the referendum is approved, OFSD residents would see a reduced property tax impact from the previous year of $.37 per every $1,000 of assessed property value. This would translate to a reduction of about $37 per year on a home worth $100,000 in our community.

If the referendum is not approved, the property tax reduction would be about $2.62 per every $1,000 of assessed property value, or $262 per year on a home worth $100,000.

In other words, we have an opportunity to make key investments in our school facilities while still realizing an overall property tax decrease. That reduction would simply be less than what we would see if we did not move ahead with the proposed projects.

This situation is possible due to the work we have done to place the district in the best financial position possible. We have paid down debt, cut operating expenditures, and established a facilities maintenance fund to help ensure long-term facility maintenance efforts can continue sustainably.

The total cost of the proposed projects is $37.63 million. About $35.5 million of that amount would go toward building the new middle school on a more than 90-acre parcel of land adjacent to both Oconto Falls Elementary School and Oconto Falls High School. That amount also includes the cost of demolition of the existing Washington Middle School if that action is required.

This location will provide the new school with more space than is available with our current building, which is landlocked. The proposed site features a field and wooded area, with the potential to provide a variety of environmental and agricultural education opportunities. There will also be more of a campus-like feel for three of our community's schools.

It's worth noting that the district and board looked extensively at renovating the current Washington Middle School to address the building's most pressing needs. However, we found we would need to invest more than 70 percent of the cost to build a new school. Even after those renovations were finished, we would still have a building with structures ranging from 35 to 100 years old and located on a lot without any green space.

To that end, we believe the best use of taxpayer dollars would be to construct a new building that provides students with the resources, spaces, and opportunities they need to thrive—for the long term.

The remaining $2.13 million in projects would go toward roof repairs and secure entrances at Abrams Elementary, OFES, and OFHS. These are also critical needs we must address soon to protect the investments our community has already made in its local schools.

District leaders and the School Board are committed to ensuring our community members have the information they need before election day. For information on the district's needs, the proposed solution on the ballot, and answers to frequently asked questions, please visit <https://ocontofalls.referendumfacts.org>.

We look forward to continuing these important conversations about the future of our schools in the weeks ahead.

Dr. Dean Hess is superintendent of the Oconto Falls School District

ADVERTORIAL

It's important to have a plan for breast cancer prevention

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month. This means the color pink is everywhere; pink wrist bands at the gas station, pink hats, scarves and shirts at the clothing store and even pink billboards around town. But it's more than just a pink ribbon, it's about prevention.

According to the American Cancer Society, about one in eight women in the U.S. (about 12%) will develop invasive breast cancer over the course of her lifetime. In 2022, an estimated 287,850 new cases of invasive breast cancer are expected to be diagnosed in women in the U.S. This could be your mother, daughter, friend, sister, grandmother, neighbor, co-worker, even one's self.

It's natural, then to wonder about your own risk of breast cancer and what can be done to prevent it. Some say, "I'm getting a mammogram, so I'm ok." While this is a great first step, managing breast cancer risk is about more than having a mammogram. Read that again.

According to breastcancer.org, about one in eight women in the U.S. (about 12%) will develop invasive breast cancer over the course of her lifetime.

Managing breast cancer risk is MORE THAN JUST A MAMMOGRAM!

It starts by identifying your risk. For some, your plan will be to take care of yourself and get your mammogram yearly. For others, it may be more complicated. You may participate in a high risk program with tailored interventions to decrease your risk including additional imaging, medications and healthy lifestyle modifications.

Our goal at Prevea Breast Surgery is to make sure women are on the RIGHT path to prevent as many cancers as possible. That's why all women who receive a screening mammogram at Prevea Health will be given an initial risk assessment score. If it's identified that a person is high-risk or moderate risk with special risk factors, a referral to our high-risk program will be recommended.

Our program includes a consultation with Prevea Breast Surgery Advanced Practice Nurse Practitioner, Erica Loppnow, RN, MS, APNP, or Lauren Prokes, APNP, who will:

- Review of personal medical and breast health history
- Review of family medical history for cancer
- Perform a clinical breast exam
- Explain your personal breast cancer risk
- Discuss breast screening recommendations, surveillance options and ways to reduce your risk

Our breast risk assessment services are offered in Green Bay. For more information or to schedule an appointment, call (920) 272-3350.

Knowing your risk, having a plan and having your back to make sure you have all the tools you need is what Prevea Breast Surgery is ALL about.

The Bonduel High School girls cross-country team dominated the field to win a team title at the Central Wisconsin Conference Meet on Oct. 17 in Rosholt.

Bonduel placed first with just 35 points, comfortably ahead of second-place finishing Weyauwega-Fremont (60).

"I knew we could do it; our team is very strong this year," said Bonduel's Ashlyn Kurey on the title. "We just had the mentality to go out and do our best and, no matter what, we're proud of our team. We knew we could do it so we knew we could push ourselves."

Kurey was one of four girl runners from Bonduel to place inside the top 10. Kurey came in third in 20 minutes, 25.38 seconds.

Teagan Engel, Kendra Troxel and Mariah Wondra were the next three Bears across the finish line, taking seventh, eighth and ninth, respectively. Engel completed the course in 20:38.67, with Troxel finishing in 20:52.92 and Wondra at 21:16.39.

Joselyn Bohm capped the team score by placing 12th in 21:29.2

Cierra Schnell (22:14.16), Hailey Berg (24:19.53) and Anna Beaumier (25:24.32) also ran for the Bonduel girls.

Wittenberg-Birnamwood freshman Rory Salvesen continued her big freshman season with a second-place individual finish. She completed the course in 20:11.19 and helped the girls team finish fifth with 136 points.

"It's kind of hard when you're not with someone to pace you throughout the race. So you kind of just listen to your body and try to keep going," said Salvesen on her race. "Then it helps when people are yelling out times to know where you are timewise, to see if you got to pick it up or slow down. My mom is always telling me who is behind me and how I got to pick up there; it helps."

Jayden Zeinert and Danica Tomson were the next two Witt-Birn girls to cross the finish line. Zeinert came in 24th in 23:04.34, with Tomson in 29th in 23:39.79.

Annika Resch (26:58.46) and Ave Hegewald (27:28.06) rounded out the team score by placing 51st and 55th, respectively. Amelia Bessert (29:29.76) also ran for the Chargers.

Marion and Menominee Indian also had runners in the meet but not enough girls on the teams to qualify for a score.

Urijah Reeves (22:45.3) and Mariah Fish (24:42.43) placed 20th and 39th, respectively, for Menominee Indian.

Bridget Much (27:25.22) came in 53rd for Marion.

In the boys race, Pacelli won the team title with 38 points. Bonduel was the highest-finishing area team, coming in sixth with 127 points. Witt-Birn was eighth with a mark of 170.

Ben O'Brien placed seventh to lead the Bonduel boys and make the all-conference first team. He completed the course in 17:19.66

"I was hoping to get first team, and I got my goal. I feel very proud of myself because I got second team all-conference last year and have been improving a lot this year," said O'Brien.

Race Anvelink wasn't too far behind O'Brien, claiming 12th in 17:59.69. Ayden Dunst placed 25th in 19:01.16.

Griffin Uelmen (20:44.98) and Ben Reisner (20:49.82) capped the team score, taking 49th and 50th, respectively. Keaton Bahr (25:17.83) also ran for the Bears.

Witt-Birn's Craig Wendel (19:44.99), Mason Meverden (19:48),

Ian Salvesen (19:57.42) and Jonas Bushman (20:05.86) all finished within six spots of each other. Wendel claimed 34th, Meverden took 36th, Salvesen came in 37th and Bushman was 39th.

David Fons (21:02.4) capped the team score by placing 51st. Hayden Miller (21:35.5), Owen Schultz (21:45.25) and Taras Guk (21:52.29) also ran for the Chargers.

Menominee Indian, Gresham/Bowler and Marion all had individual runners in the boys race.

Isaiah Moss led a four-runner group from Menominee Indian, taking 23rd in 18:58.08. Lloyd Reevis (19:17.65) finished 27th, Barron Waupoose (19:32) claimed 28th and Francis Delabrau (20:28.8) was 46th.

Gresham/Bowler's Bryson Nelson finished 24th with a time of 19:00.65. Kevin Miller (24:51.01) placed 71st, while Kobe Miller (26:20.86) was 76th.

Tristan Herro (22:36.72) and Jesse Trebus (24:50.2) represented Marion, finishing 63rd and 70th, respectively.

The Wittenberg-Birnamwood volleyball team holds up four fingers after winning the CWC-East title for a fourth straight season after taking down Weyauwega-Fremont on Oct. 11 in Weyauwega.

Witt-Birn, Gresham win conference titles

Teams have dominated conferences the past several seasons

By MORGAN RODE

The Wittenberg-Birnamwood and Gresham volleyball teams capped perfect runs through their respective Central Wisconsin Conference divisions to claim conference titles on Oct. 11.

Witt-Birn finished off a 7-0 run through the CWC-East with a hard-fought 3-1 win over Weyauwega-Fremont in Weyauwega. The Chargers won by scores of 26-24, 22-25, 25-20, 26-24.

"We all held ourselves accountable this season in all of the positions that we were in or that we played in," said Witt-Birn senior Reese Rogowski. "We never gave up in all the games we played and didn't let the pressure get in our heads no matter how close the game was. And it definitely helped that we had a great team connection on the court since we had the experience of playing with each other last year."

"I really think that this year our team had great chemistry and we all fed off of each other's energy," said Allison Linke, another Charger senior. "It comes down to putting in the work every day at practice and leaving it all out on the court and fighting for every point. We never take any team for granted and we play to our best ability each time we step on the court."

London Metropulos and Rogowski powered Witt-Birn against Weyauwega-Fremont with 25 and 15 attack kills, respectively. Metropulos also led the team with four aces, while Kiara Deruchowski had three.

Metropulos capped a monster match with six total blocks and 13 digs. Rogowski had a team-leading 14 digs, while Payton Foster and Deruchowski had 13 each. Linke chipped in 12 digs.

Foster led the Chargers with 21 assists, with Lilly Betry adding 18 assists.

The title marked the fourth straight year the Chargers have turned in the best conference mark, meaning any of the six seniors on the team knew nothing but conference titles at the varsity level.

Gresham also has ruled the CWC-North for the past several seasons, with a shortened season in 2020 being the only thing standing between the team's seniors having four titles of their own. The team only has two seniors, but since the duo entered high school, the Wildcats have not lost a conference match.

Gresham swept White Lake in White Lake to finish off its perfect 5-0 run through the conference this fall.

The Wildcats won by scores of 25-15, 25-18, 25-14.

"We were able to win the conference title again this year because we all worked really hard this year," said senior Chloe Bohl. "All of us work really well together and are all very close with each other — I sometimes even refer them to family. Whenever there is a problem we always talk about it and figure out ways to make it better."

Bohl led Gresham with eight kills against White Lake, while Jessa Jensen had seven.

Lexi Baddmoccasin-Barnes tallied 14 assists, seven service points and six aces for the Wildcats. Maddie Haffner finished with 11 service points.

Witt-Birn and Gresham will look to carry over strong regular seasons to the postseason. Witt-Birn is a No. 1 seed in Division 3, while the Wildcats are a No. 2 seed in Division 4.

Pulaski ends regular season on positive note

Red Raiders win by sweep in FRCC finale

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Pulaski High School volleyball team has been hampered by injuries and illnesses this fall season, but was able to end the regular season on a positive note.

After winning the final two sets to rally past Sheboygan South on Oct. 11, Pulaski cruised to a 25-8, 25-20, 25-15 sweep of Green Bay Preble on Oct. 13 in Pulaski.

"It was a great feeling," said Pulaski senior Gianna Logue. "The past couple weeks have been tough. We've been battling injuries, sicknesses, illnesses, whatever it may be, but today was a great team win. We all came out here ready to fight. We played as a team, we played for each other."

The win was even more special for the Red Raiders as the team celebrated its five seniors. It was the seniors that led the way most of the night.

Logue finished with eight attack kills and three total blocks. Senior Hailey Wiedeman posted a team-leading 21 digs, while also contributing five assists and two aces.

Senior Ashton Birr recorded 11 digs, while senior Mallory Walton posted four attack kills. Olivia Pozza, the team's fifth senior, is one of the players that was injured this season, and has instead served as a manager for the team.

"Our season has definitely been a rollercoaster, so this is a great achievement to end our (regular) season," said Wiedeman. "Our whole team worked well together and that just brought out the win in us."

"This year has been a struggle with a lot of people injured, including myself, but we're coming back so much stronger," said Birr. "Every time somebody gets hurt, somebody steps up and right in. Our team is gelling, we all get along great. So to come up with a win (going) into the regional game, it's great. We just need to keep this energy up and work well together as a team."

Set one was all Pulaski, with Preble only scoring back-to-back points on two occasions.

Emma Quinnell and Alexia Thibodeau got Pulaski going with a couple of early kills before Logue and Emily Bruss scored a couple points. An ace from Thibodeau made it a 15-3 Pulaski advantage.

Walton and Lauren Kellner later added in kills as the Red Raiders ran away with the first set.

Set two was more of a challenge for Pulaski, especially after falling behind 3-0. Despite several kills from Logue, the Red Raiders continued to either trail or be tied for the first 20-plus points.

Pulaski gained control of the set with a 6-0 run as Birr served. Thibodeau chipped in a couple more kills on the run.

The hosts led the rest of the set, fighting off Preble's comeback efforts. Logue added a couple more kills to her total to help the Red Raiders prevail.

"They put up a fight, they came back swinging," said Logue. "Finishing like how we did is a huge confidence boost. We want to peak at this time, so we're looking forward to the postseason."

Set three saw Pulaski fall behind 2-0 before using a 5-0 run to take a lead it would never relinquish. Quinnell, Kellner and Thibodeau had kills on the run before an ace from Wiedeman and Preble error capped it.

Preble was able to hang around for awhile before Pulaski went on a 4-0 run to go up 17-9. The Red Raiders didn't let off the gas and eventually wrapped up the match on a kill from Bruss.

Behind Logue's team-leading eight attack kills, Pulaski was pretty balanced. Thibodeau tallied six kills, while Bruss, Kellner and Quinnell joining Walton at four kills.

Bruss led the team with 22 assists and added 11 digs. Thibodeau had nine digs.

Pulaski will now gear up for the postseason, first traveling to Hortonville on Oct. 20. The Red Raiders capped the regular season with a 16-21 record and a 4-5 mark in the FRCC.

ATHLETE PROFILE: MACY NILES

Bonduel senior accomplishes career milestone

Bonduel High School senior Macy Niles is winding down her volleyball career. She recently achieved a big personal achievement after reaching 1,000 career digs.

Niles topped 1,000 digs in the team's sweep of Rosholt on Oct. 6 in Bonduel. Niles recorded 22 digs on the night.

Along with serving as a strong defender and being the team's libero, Niles is a strong server for the Bears.

Q: When did your interest in volleyball begin?

A: My interest in volleyball began in sixth grade, and since then my love for the sport has continued to grow.

Q: What is your favorite part about the volleyball season?

A: My favorite part about the volleyball season is forming an unbreakable bond with my teammates. I love the excitement that is brought to the court every game and the energy my teammates and I have for one another after a good play is made.

Q: As the postseason gets started, what does the team need to do well to keep winning matches?

A: To continue winning matches in the postseason, we need to have strong communication on the court. We need to focus on getting our serve receive and defense passes up to the setter so our hitters are able to put the ball away. Most importantly, we need to know our potential and play to the level we know we can.

Q: What's helped the team to the successful year it's had?

A: Our team has built a very strong connection which has really helped lead us to a successful season. Also, our defense has been good this year allowing us to put the ball away more. In games, we know how to pick each other up, and we are constantly supporting and cheering each other on.

Bonduel's Macy Niles serves the ball during a CWC-East match against Wittenberg-Birnamwood on Sept. 13 in Bonduel.

MORGAN RODE | NEW MEDIA

Q: You recently reached 1,000 digs for your high school career. What does that milestone mean to you?

A: Reaching 1,000 digs this year was a very exciting goal to meet. Especially after missing the first few weeks of the season due to a hand injury, reaching this goal felt very accomplishing. I have worked my hardest in every game and practice since freshman year to get up as many balls as possible, so this has just showed me how much my hard work has paid off.

Q: What do you enjoy doing the most on the court and why?

A: On the court, I really enjoy passing a perfect ball to my setter followed by a kill from one of my teammates. I love being able to celebrate a good play with my teammates because it really brings up the energy and enthusiasm on the court. I especially love playing defense against hard hitters because nothing is more exciting to me than getting a dig off of a hard-hit ball.

Q: As a senior, how did you try to lead the rest of your team?

A: To lead my team, I try to be the loudest and most positive teammate I can possibly be on and off the court. I constantly communicate with my teammates on the court, letting them know where the ball is coming from every play, and I'm always cheering them on throughout every game.

Q: Before a match starts, do you or the team have any routines or rituals you go through?

A: Before every match, my team and I turn off the lights in the locker room and join in a circle. We hold hands and scream/sing two songs: "Flowers" and "All I Want." Then we do a team prayer and break it down.

Q: What's your favorite memory of competing on the Bonduel volleyball team?

A: My favorite high school memory of competing on the volleyball team was playing St. Mary Catholic in the playoffs last year. Our team chemistry during that game was outstanding. The support we gave each other on the court and all the support we received from our community that night was the best I've ever experienced in a game.

Q: Favorite movie, TV Show, and musical artist?

A: Movie — "Purple Hearts." TV show — "Outer Banks." Musical artist — Luke Combs.

Q: Name one thing about yourself that not many people know.

A: Most people don't know that I was born with a broken collarbone.

Q: What are some things you hope to accomplish after graduating high school?

A: After graduating high school, I hope to continue my schooling at UW-Milwaukee and graduate with a degree in architecture. I also hope to continue my love for the sport by playing club volleyball in college.

ATHLETE PROFILE: JOSH KRISTOF

Lena senior loves making defensive plays

The Lena/St. Thomas Aquinas Academy football co-op has turned its program around during the last few years. While the co-op has certainly improved on offense, its defense has also stepped up its level of play, with senior Josh Kristof being a big reason why.

Kristof has been an all-conference linebacker since his freshman season. He made the MONLPC 8-player honorable mention team as a freshman.

Kristof made the team's all-conference list again as a sophomore, when the conference didn't distinguish between first, second or honorable mention teams.

As a junior, Kristof was a first-team all-conference linebacker. He was also named the Defensive Player of the Year for his efforts.

Now a senior, Kristof also serves as a running back for the co-op.

The Lena/STAA football team opens up postseason play Oct. 21 at Gibraltar.

Q: When did your interest in football begin?

A: As long as I can remember, I've always loved the game of football.

Q: What is your favorite part about the football season?

A: My favorite part about the football season would be game day and the adrenaline rush I get when I am on defense.

Q: What has the game of football taught you over the years?

A: Football has taught me to be a leader and be confident in my ability to play well in each game.

Q: What's helped you become the strong defensive player you are?

A: My coaches pushed me to become the best defensive player that I can be. I started playing linebacker freshman year and didn't know what I was doing. The coaches teaching me and my commitment to being the best contributed to being the strong defensive player I am today.

Q: What is your favorite thing to do on the football field and why?

A: My favorite thing to do on the football field would be hitting people. Being aggressive is my biggest strength, and taking out that aggression on the field is the best.

Q: The team has enjoyed two really strong years in a row. How much fun has it been to be part of those teams to end your high school career?

A: It has been so much fun the past two years, and it is great to see the support of the fans that come to our games. I couldn't ask for a better team to be with for my senior year, and I wish them the best for when us seniors are gone.

Q: As a senior, how did you help lead the rest of the team?

A: I am confident in our team's ability to win each and every game, and it rubs off onto the younger kids. Their energy on the sidelines makes the game so much fun. During practice, I also push the other guys to do their best because I think that you practice how you play.

Q: Before a game starts, do you or the team have any routines or rituals you go through?

A: I always give the pregame

HIGH SCHOOL CROSS-COUNTRY

Shawano girls 2nd, boys 3rd at conference

Hendricks, Onesti place 4th individually

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Shawano Community High School cross-country teams performed well at the Bay Conference Championship on Oct. 15 in Shawano.

The Shawano girls placed second with 51 points, only behind Xavier (34). The Shawano boys team tallied 75 points to take third, finishing behind Xavier (43) and West De Pere (49).

Bailey Hendricks and Lily Guenther paced the girls team, placing fourth and fifth, respectively.

Hendricks completed the course in 19 minutes, 53.9 seconds.

"Many things contributed to how I ran today. My team is a key factor in this, especially Lily Guenther. Lily pushes me to my limits and helps me to be a stronger runner. She is always encouraging and supportive," said Hendricks.

"Another essential thing that helped me going into this race was having physical and mental goals set. I believe that having those set goals helped me to do so well."

Guenther posted a time of 20:03.4.

"Honestly, today wasn't my strongest race, so I was really lucky to have a teammate like Bailey to run with," said Guenther. "It's really reassuring that even if I do not have my best race, our team will be OK because we can rely on each other for support and motivation."

Grace Chelberg and Maci Beyer also placed in the top 15 for the Hawks. Chelberg was ninth in 20:22.6, with Beyer in 15th in 21:00.

Adalyn Barkley (21:34) took 22nd, while Anabelle Schroeder (21:43.5) was 23rd. Lauren Harkey (22:18.3) claimed 26th, with Trinity Popelka (23:15.3) coming in 32nd.

"Finishing second at our conference meet proved that our team's hard work is paying off," said Hendricks. "I also believe that finishing second will help the girls team get into the right mindset to run well and achieve greatness at sectionals."

The Shawano boys' top finisher also came in fourth. Ethan Onesti turned in a time of 16:31.2.

"Before the race, I made a personal goal that I was going to achieve in the race," said Onesti. "Most of the race I had a lot of adrenaline running through me, so I used it to help me achieve my personal goal."

Will Chelberg claimed sixth in 16:51.9.

"The cold weather was definitely something we had to contend with in terms of warming up," said Chelberg. "I went out strong and tried to stay with the leaders and was happy with my finish."

Andon Chelberg finished 10th in 17:33.6. Connor Chelberg placed 23rd in 18:25.8.

Quinn Olson (19:03.3) came in 34th for the Hawks. Jaymin Boivin (19:33.2) claimed 37th, and Aidan Preston (20:12.1) was 42nd.

HIGH SCHOOL CROSS-COUNTRY

Gillett boys, girls dominate M&O Meet

Tigers' Kaczmarek, Alex Peterson place 1st

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Gillett Secondary School cross-country teams each placed first at the Marinette & Oconto Conference Meet on Oct. 13 at Big Stone Golf Course in Three Lakes.

While the competition for the team titles wasn't too contested, Gillett really proved its dominance with a number of strong individual finishes.

The top three finishers in the boys race were all Gillett runners. Alex Peterson continued his special senior season with a first-place finish in 16 minutes, 24.7 seconds.

While Alex Peterson was able to ease to the conference title, he did get a great test from Crandon's Taylor Karcz. Crandon was competing in the Northern Lakes Conference Meet, which was run at the same time as the M&O Meet.

"I was pushed today by Taylor, so that helped me stay focused the whole race," said Peterson. "Today I definitely felt that I raced a complete race. My focus was to push harder the third mile, and I accomplished that for sure."

Gillett's Evan Peterson was next across the finish line, completing the course in 17:29.6.

Bradyn Wendorff came in third for the Tigers, posting a time of 17:38.8. Six Tigers ended up placing in the top 11.

The Gillett boys scored 17 points to take first, comfortably ahead of Coleman (49) and Oneida Nation (71).

"Bradyn, Evan, and I finishing one, two, three is super awesome," said Alex Peterson. "I've never seen that done at conference before, and to be a part of that my senior year is so special with the guys I get to run with. They have such great attitudes that whatever we put our minds to, we will accomplish. This time it meant winning a conference title."

"These finishes definitely spark a fire for me and both teams because of what we know we're able to accomplish," said Evan Peterson. "With sectionals coming up, I and the team are ready to run our hearts out to make it to state. The state bid won't be handed to us, so we're prepared to face what it takes to make the dream of state come true."

Gillett's Carleigh Kaczmarek won the girls race in 20:32, and was one of six Tigers to place inside the top 10.

"I was able to place first by working hard all season and giving it my all no matter what," said Kaczmarek. "Coach and I knew what I would have to do to get it done and I did that. It means a lot knowing all of the time and dedication through all of the years has finally paid off."

"It's even better that our girls team has and boys team won it too. Especially our girls team winning four straight as a team feels so much better than just winning it by myself. I wouldn't have wanted my last conference (meet) to go any other way. This was a great step forward for my team and I next week."

The Gillett girls scored 20 points, with Suring (38) the only other team to score.

Sophia Limberg (22:16.6) and Cheyenne Krueger (22:24.5) placed third and fourth, respectively, in the girls race for Gillett. Laney DeBauch (23:05.3) finished sixth.

Lily Hansen (23:29.4) and Kasey Hansen (23:55.7) took eighth and ninth, respectively. Megan Wagner (40:59.4) was the team's other runner in action and earned big praise from coach Bill De Jung after completing her second race of the season after dealing with health issues this fall.

Back in the boys race, Gillett's Scott Herroux (19:45.6) and Nash Stange (19:59.2) capped the team score by placing eighth and 10th, respectively.

Chase Anderson (20:02.1) was the 11th-place finisher. Zander Davis (22:08.2) and Virgil Herzog (23:40.8) also ran for the Gillett boys.

The Suring girls finished second behind a second-place individual finish from Georgia Gerndt. She posted a time of 21:20.8.

Full results from the M&O Meet can be found at wi.milesplit.com.

"I have been working to start my races off faster and keep that pace until I settle in a good spot. I just keep my eyes on the girl in front of me and go for it," said Gerndt. "When I turn around the last corner and see the timer, I know I can finish faster than I'm going and it also pushes me to keep beating my last PR (personal record)."

Ginger Gerndt came in seventh in 23:17.3. Hailey Thomson (24:40.8), Allyson Seibert (25:06.5) and Morgan Suring (25:28.1) placed 11th, 12th and 13th, respectively. Samantha Seibert (27:20.9) also ran for the Eagles.

The Lena/St. Thomas Aquinas Academy co-op just missed out on qualifying for team scores with four runners in the boys and girls races.

Dylan Comins led the boys team with a seventh-place finish in 19:19.6. Mason Belongia grabbed ninth in 19:48.4. Reed Hosking (20:04.6) and Erik Kosch (20:08.5) placed 12th and 14th, respectively.

For the girls co-op, Haley Van Ark led the team with a 16th-place finish in 26:00.7.

Miriam Alberts (27:42), Chaela Rabas (29:13.2) and Kali Fischer (32:05.3) took 18th, 19th and 20th, respectively.

6 area teams awarded spots in postseason

Witt-Birn will host level one game

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

Six area high school football teams earned spots in the postseason. The Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association revealed brackets during a one-hour live program on Bally Sports Wisconsin on Oct. 15.

Pulaski, Shawano, Oconto Falls, Wittenberg-Birnamwood and Bonduel made the 11-player field, while the Lena/St. Thomas Aquinas Academy co-op was part of the 8-player field.

Pulaski is a No. 5 seed and will play in the Division 2 field. The Red Raiders will travel to take on No. 4 Marshfield at 7 p.m. Oct. 21.

A Pulaski win would either send the team to No. 1 River Falls or it would be hosting No. 8 La Crosse Central on Oct. 28.

Shawano got a No. 7 seed in Division 3. The Hawks will travel to No. 2 Mosinee at 7 p.m. Oct. 21.

With a win, Shawano would next travel to No. 3 Rice Lake or No. 6 Merrill on Oct. 28.

Oconto Falls also received a No. 7 seed, but in Division 4. The Panthers will open the postseason at No. 2 Freedom at 7 p.m. Oct. 21.

Oconto Falls would either travel to No. 3 Berlin or No. 6 Denmark on Oct. 28 if it won its first-round game.

Witt-Birn picked up a No. 3 seed in Division 5 and will be the lone area team hosting a game in level one of the postseason. The Chargers host No. 6 Kiel at 7 p.m. Oct. 21.

With a win, Witt-Birn would either host No. 7 Sturgeon Bay or head to No. 2 Kewaunee on Oct. 28.

Bonduel is a No. 6 seed in Division 6. The Bears open the postseason at No. 3 Crivitz at 7 p.m. Oct. 21.

ONLINE

A win would mean Bonduel either hosts No. 7 Weyauwega-Fremont or travels to No. 2 St. Mary's Springs on Oct. 28.

Lena/STAA is a No. 4 seed in the 16-team field for 8-player football. The co-op will head to No. 1 Gibraltar at 7 p.m. on Oct. 21. Gibraltar is the only team that beat Lena/STAA during the regular season.

With a win, Lena/STAA would either head to No. 2 Florence or No. 3 Wabeno/Laona on Oct. 28.

Diefenthaler, Krause enjoy state experience

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Pulaski High School girls tennis No. 1 doubles team of Madeline Diefenthaler and Ruth Krause dropped their lone match at state, but enjoyed the experience and now have memories that will last a lifetime.

The Red Raider duo lost 6-2, 6-0 to Greendale's Natasa Pupovac and Katarina Zrnic on Oct. 13 at Nielsen Stadium in Madison.

"The match at state truly was a once in a lifetime opportunity for me," said Diefenthaler, a senior. "Ruth and I both tried to just let it all sink in. The minute you walk in, there's a bunch of people and courts. It's pretty intimidating when you first look at it.

"We tried to get over our anxiety fast and do our best to adapt quickly. Ruth and I competed very well. We put our all into the match and had fun playing. Every game in the match was close, it was a shame that we made just a couple more errors than the other side. We still had an amazing experience together though and it was an incredible way to end our season together."

Krause echoed similar thoughts after seeing her freshman season wrap up at state.

"The match was definitely overwhelming for many reasons. However, once Maddy and I walked through the gate to the courts, all my nerves went away," said Krause. "The Nielsen (Stadium) in Madison was a great atmosphere to experience as a freshman. Both Maddy and I played our best, even when things weren't going so well. Overall, I had fun playing with Maddy and having our families and coaches cheer us on."

Diefenthaler said that the Pulaski duo faced off against their coaches to prepare for state, playing both indoors and outdoors.

"Getting to play against our coaches was a really fun competition and experience," Diefenthaler said. "One day we would win, and the next they would. Back and forth we were all fighting for bragging rights before state."

Krause said the lead-up to state was a bit intimidating because "we didn't know what to expect and the level on play that we would have to take on."

The freshman added that while practice got tough, the duo got through things by knowing they belonged at state.

"Then actually playing at state was amazing and breathtaking," said Krause. "You have so much riding on one match or one point that you freak out. But you realize having fun and staying positive out rules the loss."

The No. 1 doubles team capped the season with a 15-10 record.

The senior, freshman pairing was a unique one, but one that worked out. It did leave the two players with different mindsets after wrapping up state, as one high school career is over and the other just getting started.

"Getting to go to state this year meant the world to me," said Diefenthaler. "It truly was an unbelievable experience. It was a great start to the end of my senior year. After all of my hard work since I was little, it really meant a lot to show that it really did pay off."

"After playing at state as a freshman, I have become stronger as a person and a player," said Krause. "This experience will definitely help later on in my tennis career. I will never forget the nerves leading up to this moment and them all floating away when I served the ball."

Oconto Falls girls 2nd at conference behind duo

Boys team places 4th

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Oconto Falls High School girls cross-country team placed second at the North Eastern Conference Championships on Oct. 15 in Marinette.

The girls team tallied 62 points, only behind Freedom (44).

The Oconto Falls boys finished fourth with 91 points. Little Chute (49), Luxemburg-Casco (58) and Freedom (83) finished ahead of the Panthers.

The girls team was led by the duo of Brooke Hodkiewicz and Hannah Ludemann.

Hodkiewicz finished the race in 21 minutes, 3.9 seconds to place seventh.

"At this point in the season, it is mostly mental. We've put in a lot of work over the past couple of months, and we're ready. I try not to get ahead of myself and focus on the present," said Hodkiewicz. "When you see something you want, you go get it. It's not going to come on its own."

Ludemann came in ninth in 21:15.3.

"Finishing strong allows me to show what I have been training for," said Ludemann. "I use all that I have left in me to make each race the best. Hopefully my confidence can keep me going for the next races to come."

Hailey Delzer wasn't far behind Hodkiewicz and Ludemann, placing 12th in 21:33.2. Maddy Przybylski took 16th in 22:11. Mackenzie Lotto capped the team score by placing 20th in 22:22.3.

Sydney Bell (22:48.1) and Ava Hodkiewicz (23:05.6) also ran for the girls team.

Ben Adams and Griffin Kopke led the Oconto Falls boys team by placing fourth and ninth, respectively.

Adams completed the course in 17:39.3.

"I work hard all season, and it's starting to pay off," said Adams. "I started fast and paced myself with the front runners. I continued this through the race. I felt good throughout the race."

Kopke posted a time of 18:19.

"Although I was disappointed in my finish and missing first team (all-conference), I was still all-around proud of my time and run," said Kopke. "There are some things I learned from this race, and that will probably motivate me going into next Saturday's race. It's going to have to be today and stronger next week. I know we might be far off in our race times, but we want state. Today was good, but we are pumped for sectionals."

Evan Yuma (18:26.7) placed 11th for the Panthers. Brant Laluzerne (19:53.8) and Emerson Rice (19:56.5) claimed 34th and 35th, respectively.

Layton Rickert (21:28.7) and Garrett Ganter (21:41.8) rounded out the boys seven-runner team.

Wisconsin offensive tackle Logan Brown dismissed from team

Wisconsin offensive tackle Logan Brown has been dismissed from the team because of an "internal incident," interim coach Jim Leonhard

Brown, a former five-star recruit, had tweeted late Oct. 12 that he was entering the transfer portal.

"The reality of what happened is there was an internal incident here within the program and Logan Brown was dismissed from the program," Leonhard said. "It was not a choice. He was dismissed from our program."

Fun a priority in Pulaski's FRCC loss to Bay Port

Schmidt wins 200 IM for Red Raiders

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Pulaski High School girls swim team decided to have some fun during its Fox River Classic Conference dual against Bay Port on Oct. 11 in Pulaski.

With the season winding down and postseason right around the corner, the Red Raiders decided to switch up swimmers' events. The final score of the dual finished with the larger Bay Port team winning 120-50, but the goal of the night — which was also parents' and senior night — was more about the team members enjoying themselves.

"For them, it was all about having a fun time and having something a little bit different to do," said Pulaski coach Nick Haydon.

The coach hopes the fun night helps in the final weeks of the season.

"It's a little bit of a break in the mental game, too," he said. "When they are used to swimming those same events that they are the best at, it's kind of nice to sometimes give them a rest from that, especially if they've hit a little bit of a plateau. It gives them a little break and then we can go into the next meet with a fresh mindset."

Even while swimming in some different events then they were accustomed to, Pulaski swimmers were still able to turn in some strong finishes on the night.

Senior Taya Schmidt won the 200-yard IM in 2 minutes, 28.76 seconds for the team's top finish.

"Well, I don't really swim that event, so I didn't really go in with any expectations for it really," said Schmidt. "I just kind of swam, tried to keep my pace. I swim the 50 free and breast, so I just tried to push on those strokes to kind of carry me, I guess."

Schmidt was also part of the second-place finishing 200 medley relay team. The team was rounded out by Grace Duffrin, Abi Roberts and Angelina Fulgione and posted a time of 2:13.75, less than two seconds off the top-finishing time.

Schmidt came in second in the 100 backstroke with a time of 1:13.45.

In Duffrin's first individual event of the night, she placed second in the 200 freestyle with a time of 2:09.47. She later claimed second in the 100 breaststroke in 1:20.19, about a second off the top time.

"I think it really lifts our spirits because we're not stressed out about what our time's going to be. We're just out there to race and have fun and try to win," said Duffrin on what swimming in different events does for the team. "Even though it's not our events, we're not really trying to win but we still just try our best."

The Red Raiders different approach was especially evident in the 200 freestyle relay, where the team of Schmidt, Fulgione, Roberts and Duffrin swam an IM instead.

"That's something we'd never do on a normal day, but we got to do it today," said Duffrin.

Roberts and Fulgione claimed second and third place in the 50 freestyle, posting times of 30.4 and 30.43, respectively.

Brynn Rybicki turned in a third-place finish in the 500 freestyle after completing the race in 6:04.68.

Rybicki teamed up with Maddy Grell, Brynn Kapla and Olivia Krueger for a third-place finish in the 200 freestyle relay after posting a time of 2:09.6.

"I think it just puts everyone in a better mood because they get to do something they don't usually get to do. It's lots of fun," said Schmidt on the team's approach to the dual.

"We don't expect everyone to do the greatest that they can do. It just puts everyone in a good mood because there's no pressure really."

Following the dual, the Red Raiders had just one meet remaining before the season's most important events arrive. Pulaski is at the FRCC Meet on Oct. 29 and then has sectionals Nov. 4-5.

HIGH SCHOOL CROSS-COUNTRY

Opolka, Nowak guide Pulaski at FRCC Championships

By MORGAN RODE
Sports Editor

The Pulaski High School girls cross-country team placed fifth and the boys eighth at the Fox River Classic Conference Championships on Oct. 13 at Seven Lakes Golf Course in Manitowoc.

The girls team came in fifth after scoring 125 points. The Red Raiders finished behind Notre Dame (44), Green Bay Preble (53), De Pere (62) and Bay Port (122).

The Pulaski boys finished eighth with 224 points. The team finished behind Notre Dame (35), Bay Port (68), De Pere (75), Green Bay Preble (92), Manitowoc Lincoln (117), Ashwaubenton (158) and Sheboygan North (181).

The Pulaski girls team saw both Angela Opolka and Olivia Stedl finish inside the top 20.

Opolka led the team with a 14th-place finish in 20 minutes, 35 seconds.

"I was really excited to run this race," said Opolka. "After walking the course, I could really see some good opportunities for passing people on hills and around corners. As we started the race, it was pretty cold. I did not go out super fast, just tried to get a good base on my race."

"I started to go faster and pass people after mile one. Around halfway through the race, it started hailing on us. It really helped me to focus through the race. I was following two girls from Notre Dame and was able to pass them on the last 400 meters to come in 14th and make second team all-conference."

Stedl came in 18th in 20:47.2.

"Since it was the conference meet, I really tried to get out fast and reach my goal of the second team all-conference award," said Stedl. "I got honorable mention last year, so I wanted to move up this year. It was a hard race, we had to run in 40 degrees, rain and hail — some of the worst conditions ever. But we all pushed through it and finished strong."

Emerson Fabry was the next girls finisher, taking 23rd in 20:52.4. Rachael Allen (21:47.1) placed 34th, while McKenna Lowery (21:47.9) was 36th to cap the team score.

Grace Goodness (21:50.7) and Ella Krueger (24:03.6) also ran for the girls team.

Dayne Nowak was the boys team's top finisher, claiming 29th in 18:05.7.

"Though I did not place well overall, I was happy with the placement in my age group (9th grade)," said Nowak. "I, along with my teammates, found the weather abominable as there was sleet and nearly freezing temperatures."

Peyton Yaw placed 41st with a time of 18:32.4, while Arden Gillen was 53rd in 19:12.7. Griffin Nowak (19:23.7) and Dayne Groth (19:26.8) capped the team score by placing 56th and 57th, respectively.

Thomas Murphy (19:50.8), Brody Zeinert (20:12.6) and Enrique Strange (21:08.7) also ran for the boys team.

Wisconsin outlasted by Michigan State in double OT

By BOB TRIPI

The Associated Press

Quarterback Payton Thorne threw a 27-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Jayden Reed in the second overtime to lift Michigan State to a 34-28 victory over Wisconsin on Oct. 15 in East Lansing, Michigan.

The win snapped a four-game losing streak for the Spartans (3-4, 1-3 Big 10). It is the first loss for Wisconsin's interim coach Jim Leonhard who replaced Paul Chryst two weeks ago.

The game-winning throw was set up after Michigan State's Jacoby Windmon stripped the ball from Braelon Allen on the first play of the second overtime and defensive tackle Dashaun Mallory pounced on the ball. Three plays later, Thorne hit Reed in the right corner of the end zone with the game-winner.

"They had walked their (linebacker) up off the edge," said Thorne who completed 21 of 28 passes for 265 yards. "We really hadn't seen that look all day. So I'm thinking he's probably coming, and even if he's bluffing, they might be bringing something from the other side which on the play we called it's not great."

Thorne continued: "So I saw (Reed) was out there, looked like he had single coverage. So I said screw this, let's protect this thing up and throw and let's go get in the end zone. He did a great job coming down with the ball."

On the first play of the first overtime, Reed threw a 25-yard touchdown pass to Keon Coleman at the goal line, giving the Spartans a 28-21 lead.

Wisconsin's Graham Mertz tied the game when he connected with Chimere Dike on a 25-yard scoring pass.

lead, Mertz marched the Badgers 52 yards to even the game at 21 with 2:04 remaining on his 3-yard touchdown pass to Keonte Lewis.

On the ensuing possession the Spartans had an opportunity to win the game in regulation by driving to the Badgers' 29-yard line. However, a bad snap on a 37-yard field goal forced holder Bryce Baringer to throw a pass that was intercepted by John Torchio.

Listen to a story on a cloud

Shawano County Library presents alternative way to enjoy good stories

By LEE PULASKI
City Editor

Parents not wanting to read that bedtime story for the 100th time and those who prefer audiobooks to turning the pages of actual books are getting some good news.

The Shawano County Library has started a new program called Stories on the Cloud, which features library staff reading from a variety of books as yet another way to connect with patrons.

"Especially during the pandemic times and shortly after, we were looking for different ideas of interacting with patrons," said Kristie Hauer, library director. "We were looking at how to offer services in a different way, offer services at a distance from the library or from each other."

In 2021, the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction offered grant funding for libraries to develop hybrid service models, according to Hauer, and the county submitted its proposal and received $50,000 for a number of programs, one of them being Stories on the Cloud.

"Shawano County Library was one of 20 in the state that received these grants," Hauer said. "There were a lot more requests, so we were fortunate."

Hauer said she got the idea from seeing other libraries implement similar programs, but another catalyst was meeting a vendor at a library conference that promoted audio stories.

Library staff members choose the stories and record them via a microphone and computer software and then load the MP3 files to the server. The library is allowed to have up to 99 active files at one time, and even though there are only 14 selections at the moment, Hauer expects that stories will rotate in and out to give people a selection.

Anyone can dial 715-304-3400 and select from the stories as many times as they want. It requires no apps, special equipment or even the internet. The service is not limited to library patrons and is open to everyone.

"When patrons call into the number here, toll-free, they will hear a welcome message, and then it will take them through the menu, like, press one to hear this story or press two to hear this story," Hauer said.

Shawano County Library assistant Claire O'Brien has enjoyed reading children's stories and loading them to the Stories on a Cloud system. O'Brien has headed up the library's workgroup that is recording stories for patrons and other members of the community to enjoy.

LEE PULASKI | NEW MEDIA

Library assistant Claire O'Brien has contributed her vocal talents for a number of the stories currently available, and she has enjoyed the experience so far.

"It's a really exciting opportunity," O'Brien said. "We have a small work group that's kind of working on it together that I'm heading up, and we have assigned a few stories to each of us just to get started. We want to see what the response from the community and see what it is they're looking for. It'll be good to interact with the community and get that feedback."

Most of the current selections are classic children's tales, including selections from the Boxcar Children series and Dr. Seuss' "Green Eggs and Ham," but the library is planning to expand its repertoire.

"We're hoping to load poems for National Poetry Month and chapters of adult novels," O'Brien said.

She noted that some of her colleagues were worried about how their voices might sound reading the stories, but she was unfazed.

"This is what my voice sounds like, and I've accepted it. It's been with me for 31 years," O'Brien said. "It's been really cool to go through the process of recording them and uploading them."

O'Brien added that her first recording for the library was "Where the Wild Things Are" by Maurice Sendak because that's her child's favorite story to hear.

"I basically went with what I knew already," O'Brien said.

The library is using the recording software Audacity, which allows staff members to easily record and edit segments that might not have been as quality as they would like without having to record the whole file again.

"You can even record it on your phone, just any MP3 file and upload it to their site," O'Brien said. "It's a very simple user interface. There's not a lot of bells and whistles, and there's no graphics and advertising."

While the service might seem like it was set up more for when health and weather prevented the library from operating, Hauer said it's just as useful for patrons who might be out of town or unable to access the library.

"It seems like a nice service for parents and kids, or for grandparents and kids," Hauer said.

The library is looking at expanding the options, according to O'Brien, even including reading books in other languages or uploading a fact of the day.

"We can do famous speeches and jokes. It doesn't have to be just a story," O'Brien said. "You can upload any story you want — within library standards — not just children's books and novels."

Hauer noted that Stories on a Cloud could also be a supplement to the library's abundant youth reading programs and could even promote those programs to new residents and visitors.

O'Brien said the library is also looking at reading the first chapter of novels and then suggesting if they like the beginning of the book that it's available for checkout at the library.

"It's just an introduction to try something new that you wouldn't have picked off the shelf, but to hear someone read it to you," O'Brien said.

JW returns to door-to-door ministry

Officials say reception from community has been encouraging

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Shawano residents can continue to expect the occasional knock on their door, as members of the Jehovah's Witnesses have recently gone back to door-to-door ministry.

Jehovah's Witnesses suspended door-to-door ministry in March 2020 due to the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic. During the time that door-to-door ministry was suspended, Jehovah's Witness members instead wrote letters and met virtually for ministry.

"I started referring to it as the big 30 — the 30 months where we weren't involved in our in-person ministry," said Jehovah's Witnesses National Spokesman Matt Oleman. "I think that all of us, regardless of Jehovah's Witnesses, or otherwise, had a challenging 30 months with the pandemic and everything that was going on."

The decision to go back to door-to-door ministry revolved around COVID-19 testing, vaccines and other prevention and response prevention methods being more readily available.

"With all of those things, we finally decided after all of those 30 months away, now was time for us to return to really what is core to our goal of reaching people in the neighborhood to try and get them a positive message," said Oleman.

Oleman said that JW members have been participating door-to-door ministry for close to 100 years. He said that even during wars, the ministry stayed in place.

"A pandemic was something that over those 100 years, at least in this country, was something that we never have faced," said Oleman. "Really as a globe, I don't think since the Spanish flu, there has been something that was this significant."

Going back to door-to-door ministry has been a bright spot for JW members, something that has been received well by the public on a national level.

"I was out there just a few days after we returned," said Oleman. "One gentleman asked where we have been. That just tells you people were so used to us coming — everyone is going to make the decision of how they feel being approached at their door, but the general consensus from the friends that I have talked to, is that the community is happy to see us back."

Shawano JW minister Jacob Wheeler echoed Oleman's words about returning to in-person ministry, saying, that he feels great about going back.

"I was eager to get back preaching that way — that is what I have done most of my life," said

Shawano Jehovah's Witness minister Jacob Wheeler, right, meets a Shawano resident during his door-to-door ministry. Jehovah's Witnesses recently went back to door-to-door ministry after 30 months, due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

CONTRIBUTED

Wheeler. "The first day out I had some nervous feelings, to be honest, maybe wondering if our neighbors would be comfortable or welcoming to us coming back. Due to the nice responses though so far, those feelings quickly went away. It felt normal."

Wheeler said that Shawano residents can expect the same door-to-door ministry as they were used to before the pandemic.

"I would say that there is not a ton that we are doing differently," said Wheeler. "We still send the Bible's message that we really want people to benefit from. The Bible has so many principles that can help during these tough times. Really, due to the pandemic too, we are really focusing on respect for people — giving them that space and asking if they are comfortable."

The response hasn't just been positive on a national level, but Wheeler said that Shawano residents have embraced seeing the door-to-door ministry again.

"I think the response has been great in our community," said Wheeler. "People have been very friendly and welcoming of our visits. Even if they rejected our visit or a future visit, they still express appreciation. That has been encouraging to see that appreciation."

God's creation brings peace and serenity

Are you stressed or filled with anxiety? Do you feel the pressures of society and problems in life bearing down on you so hard you can hardly breathe? I have found when troubles in my life seem to get harder or unbearable, I must remind myself to breathe. I must try to focus on serenity and peace.

KATHRYN HENNES

I recently went on a trip out west to North Dakota. I needed a recharge or a reboot to calm my busy mind. I found my reboot sitting on the bank of the Missouri river watching the breathtaking sunrise and sunset. The sounds of nature and silence gave me the moments of peace and serenity that were greatly needed — just seeing what God in his infinite wisdom had created for us.

Some of you will say, "I don't have time for doing those things." Please take the time to do it. We as humans need to really breathe deeply and feel God's presence. God will give us the reboot we need to face life's challenges.

When I look into the sky or at the animals and creatures around me, I am convinced that this beauty was created by a higher power, and for me, that is God. I cannot imagine how the scientific theories of planets colliding and an explosion could have caused the beautiful and amazing surroundings.

For many years, I was caught up in the hustle and bustle of everyday life. Working full time, taking care of my children, maintaining a household. I never really took the time to see the beauty and blessings that surrounded me. It seemed that there just was not enough time in the day to accomplish all the tasks that needed to be done. I just couldn't solve all the problems that occurred. I needed to breathe deeply. I just wanted to escape life and all its problems and turmoil.

My husband and I moved up here to the Gillett area from the Richfield area last year. My husband had bought his homestead in the country or what was once the country. There was no more peace and quiet with a car speeding by every 20 seconds. God heard our prayers and blessed us with our current home here about 150 miles north from where we used to reside. We are now in God's country.

Seeing the deer cross close to home can be relaxing as the sounds and sights of nature are a reminder to achieve spiritual bliss.

I can sit on my front deck or back deck and listen to the sounds of nature. I can now take those deep breaths and calm myself down. I can relax at last. I am finally truly enjoying the trees turning color and the cooling temperatures in the mornings and evenings.

I am now embracing the peace and serenity that has eluded me for many years. We invite our family and friends to visit and stay in our guest room so we may share the serenity we enjoy so much.

Stop and breathe now, before it is too late. If you can't find peace or serenity in your surroundings, go for a ride to the country. When you do take that ride, find a small park or a spot by the river and get out of the car, look around you and breathe the fresh air. Look at the beautiful creations God has put in front of you to know how truly blessed you are today. Just for a few moments, close your eyes, take in a deep breath and relax. I hope you will find the peace and serenity, if only for a few moments that you will need to continue your life's journey.

Bless you.

FARM LIFE FROM A FARM WIFE

Corn harvest in full gear as days shorten

"Check to see if the corn is dented," says he.

We were unloading a truck-full of freshly cut wood, the aroma thick and heavy with a deep woody smell, the hemlock especially fragrant. The field of corn was within reach of our neatly stacked and growing pile. We have harvested hemlock, mostly maple, some elm, some beech, a little basswood and just a bit of popple, because it burns too fast.

KAY REMINGER

Wait — this article isn't about wood. It's about corn.

"What? How?"

His rhythmic motion of reaching/stacking/reaching/stacking came to a screeching halt as he gazed at me in amazement.

"You've been a farmer your whole life, and you don't know how to check if a cob of corn is dented?" So he proceeded, with some prompting, to explain. "If a kernel of corn looks pushed in, it's dented. That means it's dry enough to store. Otherwise, it'll mold."

I must point out that some of my farm stories button up quite nicely with dual input over here. He ascertains some particulars, and I ad lib. On any vacation trips and/or farm runs, I'm sure to bring my notebook and pen along. When we are together in a vehicle, he has nowhere to run. I pepper him with questions. His inevitable first response is an exasperated, "You know this stuff!"

When we were farming back in the day, we would fill a silo. This was always done with high expectation on his part. He loved harvesting corn and, as we go on our travels now-days, he farmer goosenecks at all the corn fields — checking to see how dry they are or if they're still green, how big the cobs are and so on. I watch the road.

Before harvesting our own corn, we had used a battery-operated corn tester that determined moisture content. We'd husk off a cob or two here and there in different fields and, nudging the kernels off, pour them into the tester. The lower the moisture, the more money we'd make because we didn't have to get it dried down at the feed mill where it was stored.

Big dryer bins run on propane. Dried-down costs were charged per bushel; the dryer the corn, the better. Sometimes the weather doesn't allow that. This is why you might see corn standing when winter blows in. Farmers allow the corn to complete a dry-down to avoid excess fees at the feed mill.

Corn can be harvested in a variety of ways. We have 10-foot high stalks in the field right next to our house. This particular field will be combined (shell corn) or it may be chopped for corn silage. Chopped corn can get stored in silos, or in plastic encased silage bags (those big white rows of feed) or piled in a mound. If it's piled in a mound — which, depending on cow needs, could be at least 10 to 15 feet high or more — a pack tractor is used.

This tractor, loaded with extra pounds to add weight for more packing power, can weigh up to 30 tons. This gets driven up and down the mound, over and over, packing the feed tight, creating a density in order to preserve the feed. After it's packed tight, it gets covered with a large sheet of heavy-duty plastic and topped with hundreds of sliced sidewall tires laid flat to hold the cover in place.

In order to chop corn for silage it must test out under 70% moisture content and, ideally, the cob should be dented. (Refer to aforementioned dent lesson.) Corn for silage should not be harvested when it's too wet, otherwise it juices and can potentially produce a lethal gas. Neither, however, should it be too dry, otherwise it won't ferment.

This cob has dented corn, which indicates it's dry enough to be stored for the winter. If the corn is not dented and it's stored, mold could develop.

Years ago when we were still filling silo, I'd chop and my husband would unload. As the feed reached the top, he'd have to climb up, leveling it off and then my job would switch to unloading. He'd have to drive the wagon up to the blower because I could never get it close enough. (I could drive a tractor that was hooked onto a chopper and back it up to the wagon, but not drive a wagon up to the blower for the life of me.)

Leveling off a silo was the worst job on the farm, as far as I was concerned. My biggest fear was that he would be overcome with gas, pass out unbeknownst to me and I'd bury him alive as I kept blowing silage up. When I got done unloading, I'd leave the blower running on low to keep the air circulating up there. Cranking my neck way back, I'd stare at that top window of the silo, willing him to wave. What a relief when I'd see his hand.

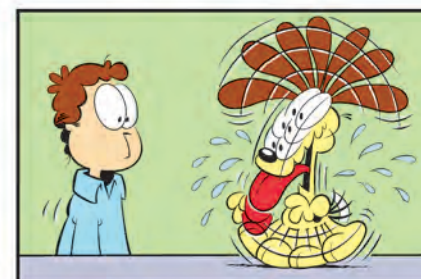

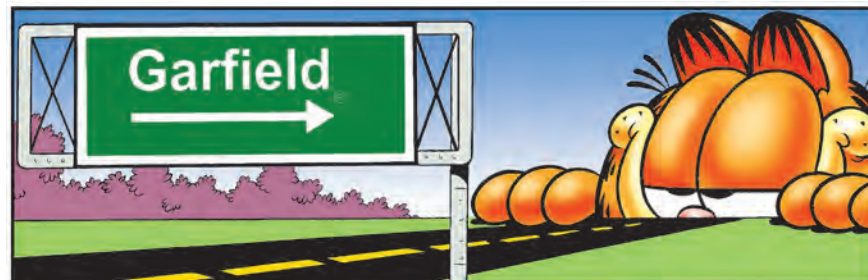

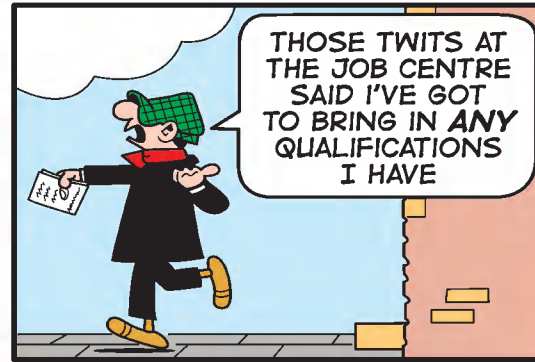

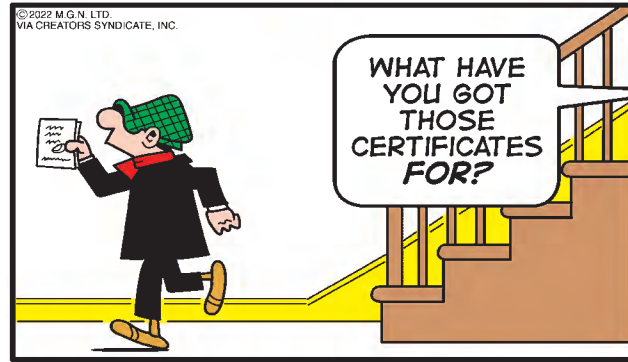

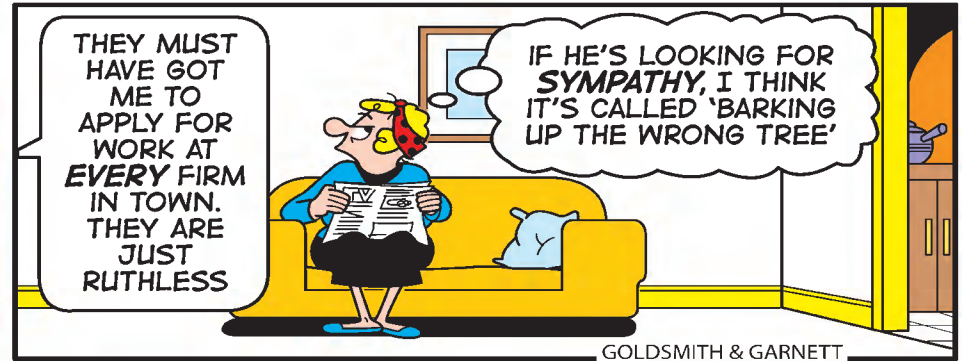

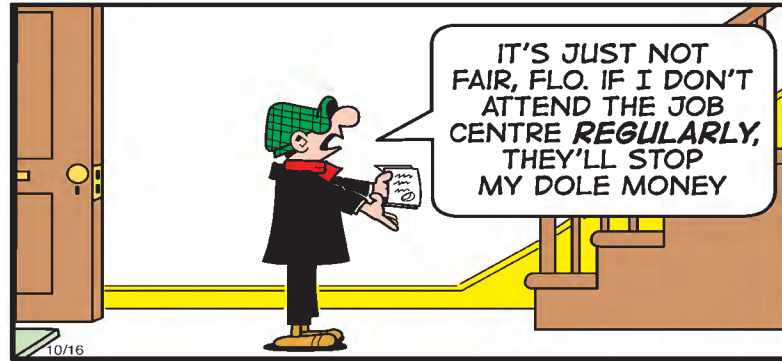

Just now the harvest is in full gear and many farmers with wide, 10- to 12-row corn choppers, along with semis loaded with produce, are traveling to and from the farms. Have patience. They feed us.

("Commit to the Lord whatever you do, and He will establish your plans." Proverbs 16:3)

Kay Reminger was born and raised on a dairy farm, and she married her high school sweetheart, who happened to farm for a living in Leopolis. Writing for quite a few years, she remains focused on the blessings of living the ups and downs of rural life from a farm wife's perspective.

Now's the time to bury bulbs in your garden

With October comes peak spring bulb planting season. October is the best time to plant as the soils are beginning to cool and the bulbs are readily available. Be sure to get your selection now, either from a local garden center or online. There are so many wonderful, colorful, delightful bulbs to tempt gardeners that are planted now for an amazing spring showcase of bloom.

Many garden centers are filled with a huge selection of colorful bulbs. Fall planted bulbs for spring color include such traditional varieties as tulips, daffodils, allium, hyacinth, fritillaria and others.

Of course, tulips and daffodils are well-known and come in a variety of different styles and bloom times. Some of the other bulbs are lesser-known, but equally dramatic and charismatic in the garden during the spring season.

Here are some tips for planting bulbs this fall for an amazing display come spring:

ROB ZIMMER

When shopping for tulips and daffodils, be aware that, with each of these, you can select bulbs that bloom early in the season, mid-season and late in the season. For example, there are tulips that bloom early (April), tulips that bloom in the middle of the season (early to mid-May) and tulips that bloom late in the season (sometimes into June). These bloom times should be indicated on the package. For the longest bloom season, select a variety from each of these three bloom periods. That way, you will have bulbs in bloom from April into June.

Plant a variety of different bulbs for the best display. You can mix and match them, almost like a wild flower garden, or keep them in their own colorful drifts and masses of bloom.

Plant bulbs in masses for the best showcase. Instead of using a bulb planter and digging single holes in straight rows, use a shovel and dig out a hole 1 to 3 feet wide and stuff it full of spring bulbs. Whether you use all the same bulb or a variety of different types, you will create a more vivacious and lively display in the spring by planting in masses. Experiment with different shapes, as well. Plant in a large oval or teardrop shape for a drift of stunning beautiful color in spring.

Take advantage of pre-mixed color combinations and blends for an amazing effect. Many bulb companies now offer bulb mixtures or blends in color combinations that are easy to plant and come up looking beautiful in spring. For example, there are combinations of pink and purple, red white and blue, red and white, purple and white, and all different mixtures. Some of these mix bulbs of different types together.

These blends allow you to mix it up without having to spend a lot of time or money sorting through individual varieties. Many of these blends, like the pink lemonade mix of pink tulips and yellow daffodils, are simply beautiful.

Many gardeners plant bulbs in and among their perennials, so that when the perennials begin to leaf out in May and June, they will hide the leftover foliage of the bulbs. Sometimes, daffodil foliage and tulip foliage can look unsightly for a few weeks, but it is necessary to allow the foliage to continue to feed the bulb. Planting bulbs among hostas, daylilies and other perennials can help hide this unsightly foliage until it withers away.

Mix and match colorful bulbs this fall for a beautiful spring display that will be so welcomed during March and April when they begin to emerge and bloom and brighten the garden with the season's first color.

Latest barn quilt has quite a fowl theme

Greg and Debbie Bernitt have sponsored Shawano County's 397th barn quilt that is on display on a barn on their 20-acre farm at 542 State Road in Birnamwood.

Even prior to the Bernitts purchasing the farm in 2014, it was known as Mallard Acres, so that is what they named their quilt pattern. The quilt, which features a mallard duck in the center, was painted by Judy Kunst, who is the grandmother of one of Greg and Debbie's sons-in-law, Shane Schmidt.

After living in Galloway for 36 years, Greg and Debbie thought about moving to the Appleton area, but Greg was not excited about the idea of living out his retirement years in a subdivision, so when he heard about the property in Birnamwood coming up for sale, he contacted the owner to see if they could come and see it. Although the buildings, especially the house, were not in great condition, Greg, who has worked in construction for 37 years, thought it had potential, so they made the purchase.

Immediately upon moving in, reconstruction of the house was started. During the construction, the Bernitts tried to preserve the integrity and charm of the farmhouse and the property. The house was almost completely gutted, plumbing and electrical wiring were updated, and a new master bedroom, master bathroom, entry, and laundry were added. Demolition of the lower level created an open concept kitchen, dining area and living room.

To preserve the barn, a metal roof was added, windows were replaced and a potting shed was added to the barn's east end. Since completion of the farmhouse, Greg and Debbie have enjoyed working the land to add a variety of food plots, a garden, an apple orchard and a pumpkin patch to improve the quality of the soil and preserve the land. They also cleaned and enlarged the existing pond, adding huge rocks as the border.

Greg and Debbie raised four daughters, three of whom are married and have six children among them. The girls bring their families to the farm often and the grandchildren treasure their time there.

The Bernitt property was established in 1857 and exchanged hands several times until Leonard and Mary Oppen purchased the house in 1963. Leonard farmed the property with six dairy cows and fields of corn, oats and soybeans. They raised 11 children in the house that had five bedrooms and one bathroom. After Leonard died in 2014 at the age of 87, Mary moved into an apartment in Birnamwood in September that year and still resides there. She enjoys visiting the farm from time to time.

Greg and Debbie Bernitt are shown with Shawano County's 397th barn quilt on their farm at 542 State Road in Birnamwood.

Backpacks ease loads when they're used properly

Backpacks are a practical and useful way to get textbooks and supplies to and from school, and when used properly, they should ease children's load, not make it worse.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, there was an estimated annual average of 1,200 backpack-related injuries to children under 19 years old treated in emergency rooms from 2019 to 2021.

In recognition of National School Backpack Awareness Day, Aspirus Health aims to help educate parents, caregivers and students about health risks of backpacks that are too heavy or worn incorrectly.

"Common backpack-related injuries that we see in kids include neck pain, back pain and shoulder pain," said Megan Stankowski, Aspirus Health physical therapist. "These are avoidable, but it may require parents to observe and gently remind their kids to make some adjustments to how they use their backpacks."

The American Academy of Pediatrics and the Pediatric Orthopedic Society of North America offers some tips for parents to help children wear their backpacks safely and correctly:

- Choose the right backpack. Your child's backpack should have two broad, padded shoulder straps, a padded back, a waist or chest strap, and compartments. These features help distribute the weight of the contents more evenly throughout the body.

- Educate your child about proper backpack wear. Keep straps on both shoulders and use the waist strap. Adjust straps to fit snugly.

"Backpacks will probably need to be readjusted seasonally, loosening it up with a winter jacket and then tightening it back up in the spring," Stankowski said.

- Pack safely. Help your child understand how to distribute the weight properly. Put the heaviest items low and near the center of the back. Make sure the bottom of the backpack rests in the curve of the lower back.

- Check the weight. Make sure your child is not carrying more than 15% of his or her body weight in their backpack. If you notice them leaning forward to support the backpack's weight, then it's too heavy.

- Lighten the load. Encourage your child to clean the backpack weekly and take out unneeded items, store items in a locker at school when possible, and take only what's needed to school. Carrying heavier items in their arms will also alleviate some of that extra weight.

"If a child starts showing signs of injury from wearing the backpack incorrectly, the first thing the parent should do is adjust the backpack and make sure it's fitting correctly," Stankowski said. "Check that they are packing and lifting it properly. If nothing is helping, they should seek help from their primary care provider or physical therapist."

Shawano woman selected for WFBF leadership event

Fifteen agricultural leaders have been selected to participate in the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Leadership Institute, including Amanda Williams from Shawano.

This year-long leadership training program's mission is to develop strong and effective agricultural leaders.

"The institute gives participants the skills and confidence necessary to lead the future of farming and agriculture in their county Farm Bureau, local community and beyond."

The WFBF Leadership Institute consists of five, multi-day sessions that provide hands-on learning on agricultural issues, leadership development and speaking skills, interaction with Farm Bureau staff and government leaders at the state and national levels and networking with other participants. The class capstone event will be a trip, with the WFBF board of directors, to Washington, D.C., in June 2024.

Lack of offense holding Green Bay back

Green Bay ranks 23rd in total scoring in NFL

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

Through six weeks of the 2022-23 NFL season, the Green Bay Packers have scored just 107 points, good for about 17.8 points per game, and 23rd in the league in total points.

The low scoring is not the full reason for the Packers having just three wins in six games, but the dropoff in offensive production is not doing the team any favors. The Packers have yet to put together a game where all three areas of the team, offense, defense and special teams, have performed to winning standards.

While there were valid questions surrounding the offense in the offseason, not many people would have predicted the Packers to struggle as much as they have on that side of the ball. During his press conference after Green Bay's 27-10 loss to the New York Jets, quarterback Aaron Rodgers detailed that the offense needs to simplify.

"(The offense is playing) very inconsistent, and that is why I think we need to simplify things," said Rodgers. "Because on the couple of drives we did move the ball, it was very simple things. Very simple plays, no motion."

While simplifying the offense may be a solution to becoming more consistent, the Packers may find trouble simplifying the offense, as veteran wide receiver Randall Cobb was forced out of the game against the Jets with an ankle injury.

While Cobb has produced just 257 yards on 18 receptions, most of his damage has come on third down.

With Cobb almost being used in a safety blanket type of role, someone will need to step up to fill that spot. With Christian Watson nursing a hamstring injury and Sammy Watkins on injured reserve, the Packers might be quickly running out of options to help fill the vacant role.

As the trade deadline looms on Nov. 1, speculations are starting to arise on if the Packers are going to make a move for another offensive weapon.

Names like Carolina Panthers wide receiver D.J. Moore and free agent wide receiver Odell Beckham Jr. have been floated around as possible acquisitions. Even with the roster as it is, Rodgers believes that the Packers are a Super Bowl winning team.

"We need Sammy back. I think that is happening here pretty soon," said Rodgers. "(General Manager) Brian (Gutekunst) and I have had a number of conversations. I trust him and his staff that if they feel like they need to add that they will. I think there's enough on this team to be a successful team."

Having dealt with injuries to both Watson and Watkins, the Packers have been short to find sparks in the offense. Since both receivers play that field-stretching role, big plays have been hard to come by for Green Bay. In fact, Rodgers is just 6-for-22 on passes of 20 yards or more.

While the big play is eluding the Packers every week, running back Aaron Jones was once again nowhere to be seen with the ball in his hands against the Jets. Recording just 12 touches during the game, only nine of them came on the ground. Green Bay has seemingly struggled with consistently using their run game this season, only recording two rushing touchdowns, with one of them coming from Watson.

"Yeah, that's not good enough," said Packers head coach Matt LaFleur, when questioned about Jones receiving just three carries in the first half against the Jets.

Jones absence from the offense has been puzzling, as the sixth-year running back has proven that he is one of the better runners in the NFL, with 42 career rushing touchdowns.

The state of the offensive line may need to take some blame for that though, as the play of the unit as a whole has left a lot to be desired this year.

Jets defensive tackle Quinnen Williams took over the game, as he recorded four tackles and two sacks. To help combat his dominant performance, LaFleur made the switch at right guard from Royce Newman to Jake Hanson. That was quickly changed though as Hanson went down with an injury.

Tackle David Bakhtiari, who has either been out or limited for the last year and half played the entire game before the starters were taken out. While that is a good sign for the offensive line, it presents a problem. Backup tackle Yosh Nijman has shown that he is capable of playing starter snaps in the NFL.

"I think that everything is on the table," said LaFleur, when asked if using Nijman is an option.

If the Packers went the route of moving Nijman to right tackle, they could transition Elgton Jenkins back to guard, a position that he has thrived at in the past. One thing is certain though, some problems that the Packers are having on the offense start with the offensive line. Keeping Rodgers upright will lead to more success from the offense, granted the wide receivers and running backs can effectively contribute as well.

Line issues

For years, the Green Bay Packers' high-flying offense was driven by Aaron Rodgers but powered by fine offensive lines.

This year, the line is a fine mess.

While left tackle David Bakhtiari has started four consecutive games and appears to be getting better with each week, the rest of the line has fallen on hard times. Those issues came to a head in Sunday's loss to the New York Jets. Rodgers was sacked four times and took nine quarterback hits, and Aaron Jones and A.J. Dillon combined to average just 3.2 yards per carry.

Right guard Royce Newman, in particular, had a bad day. He had a hand in two of the Jets' sacks. At one point, coach Matt LaFleur had seen enough. For the two-minute drill before halftime, Newman was benched in favor of Jake Hanson. The Packers drove to a field goal but Hanson suffered a biceps injury during the drive. Newman was back for the second half.

Right tackle Elgton Jenkins had a bad day, too. Coming off a strong performance in London vs. the Giants, he was penalized three times and gave up a few pressures vs. the Jets. A Pro Bowler at left guard in 2020 and a standout at left tackle in 2021 before suffering a torn ACL, the combination of coming back from a major injury and a new position has been a challenge.

How will the Packers line up against the Washington Commanders on Sunday? Will they give Newman another shot at right guard and stick with Jenkins at right tackle? Will rookie Zach Tom replace Newman? Or will Jenkins move from right tackle to right guard and will Yosh Nijman get his shot at right tackle?

Throughout his tenure, LaFleur has preached the importance of getting the "best five" on the field. Nijman, with 10 quality starts at left tackle in 2021 and 2022, is one of the best five linemen. But is he part of the best combination?

Nijman hasn't played right tackle since he was at Virginia Tech. With Bakhtiari missing all of 2021 and a big chunk of 2022 when you factor in the offseason practices, training camp and start of the regular season, the Packers had to lock Nijman in at left tackle.

Even with Bakhtiari's return, Nijman played extensively against the Buccaneers in week three and the Giants in week five. He just hasn't played a lot of right tackle; he hasn't played it at all in a game.

Moreover, can the Packers realistically move Nijman to right tackle when he might be needed at a moment's notice at left tackle? That seems about as ideal as running Newman back out there given his year two regression.

"I think everything's up for discussion," is all LaFleur would say on Monday.

Jenkins said Monday was about watching film and trying to fix all that was wrong. He's not sure where he'll line up when the team hits the practice field on Wednesday.

"I'm not opposed to any position at this point – especially with these past two weeks. Whatever helps the team and whatever helps us win, I'm with it," he said.

There are issues beyond personnel. The Jets didn't need to blitz to ruin Green Bay's day. Their front four looped players from left to right and right to left. It's exactly what the Packers expected; Rodgers said they do that 50% of the time in certain situations. But it's as if the Packers had never seen it.

"That was extremely frustrating," center Josh Myers said. "Those are situations we pride ourselves on, being really good at. And we weren't. So, to come back in here and watch that was extremely frustrating."

Those issues need to be resolved quickly. While the Commanders are only 2-4, their defensive line includes three first-round picks:

Daron Payne and Jonathan Allen as the tackles and Montez Sweat as one of the ends. They've combined for 10½ sacks and 29 quarterback hits. As a unit, Washington is fourth in sack percentage.

Alexander walks the walk

Cornerback Jaire Alexander wanted more one-on-one opportunities. He got them against the Jets. Lining up against their best receiver, rookie Garrett Wilson, for most of the game, Alexander delivered a superior performance. Wilson caught 1-of-5 passes for 8 yards and Alexander broke up three passes.

He had only one pass defended, an interception against Chicago, through the first five games.

"He just went out there and competed every play, and he was challenging, contesting,” LaFleur said. “I was super-proud of his performance.”

Thanks, Dad

Jon Runyan Sr. started 192 games at right tackle during his NFL career. Following a stint in politics, he was named the NFL’s vice president of rules and policy administration in 2016. His job is to hand out punishment, whether it’s suspending Tampa Bay receiver Mike Evans before a big Packers-Buccaneers game, or to fine players for rules violations.

One player who he fined was his son, Packers left guard Jon Runyan, for a leg-whipping infraction against the Giants in London. The cost? $5,215. The elder Runyan notified his son via text before sending him the official letter from the league.

“I was thinking about getting him a nice Christmas present this year,” Runyan said with a smile on Monday, “but, with all that money taken away from me, I’m probably not going to be able to. So, oh well, I’ll give it to him next year.”

The two have not discussed the fine.

“I didn’t want to give him the satisfaction of knowing that,” he said.

According to ESPN, it might be the first time in NFL history that a father has fined his son.

“Yeah, I did keep the letter,” Runyan said. “I put it in my nightstand drawer. I don’t know what I’m going to do with it. Some people were telling me that I should frame it or something like that. I did keep it, though.”

Cobb avoids break

a broken ankle. He was in tears when he was carted to the locker room.

Turns out, the injury isn’t so bad after all. Yes, he’ll miss some time — another blow to a struggling offense — but it’s not a season-ending injury. On Instagram, Cobb said he’d be back “soon.”

Sammy Watkins could take Cobb’s place on the roster. He is eligible to come off injured reserve this week after missing four games with a hamstring injury.

KEYS TO THE GAME

By BILL HUBER
Correspondent

The Green Bay Packers (3-3) will travel to face the Washington Commanders (2-4) at noon on Sunday at FedExField in North Englewood, Maryland. FOX will televise the game.

History

In a series that dates to 1932, when the Packers won at the Boston Braves 21-0, Green Bay leads 22-16-1. The Packers have won two straight, including 24-10 at Lambeau Field last year. The last time the teams met in Washington was 2018, with the Packers falling 31-17. Alex Smith had two touchdown passes and Adrian Peterson had two touchdown runs as Washington led 28-10 at halftime.

Coaches

Green Bay — Matt LaFleur, 42-13, fourth season. Washington — Ron Rivera, 16-23, third season at Washington; 92-86-1 overall in 12 seasons.

When the Packers have the ball

Washington enters week seven ranked 18th with 22.5 points allowed per game. The Commanders have been generous in giving up yards — 19th in total defense (353.3 yards per game), 21st in rushing per play (4.65) and 24th in passing per play (6.99) — but have been excellent in the key situations of third down (third-ranked 31.7% conversions), red zone (ninth-ranked 50% touchdowns) and goal-to-go (third-ranked 45.5% touchdowns). They've forced a league-low three turnovers.

"We struggled last year in third downs. We struggled getting pressure on the quarterback," Rivera said. "We now are one of the better groups in getting pressure on the quarterback. We're one of the better groups at third down. And we're also one of the better groups in the red zone."

The strength of the defense is the front. Even with star defensive end Chase Young out with a torn ACL, Washington's front includes three first-round picks. Defensive tackles Jonathan Allen (3½ sacks, seven tackles for losses, one interception and one forced fumble) and Daron Payne (3½ sacks, five tackles for losses) are elite, and defensive end Montez Sweat (three sacks, second in league with 14 quarterback hits) is underrated. Led by those three players, Washington is fourth in sack percentage.

Washington plays almost entirely out of nickel (four linemen, two linebackers, five defensive backs) or dime (four linemen, one linebacker, six defensive backs). The every-down linebacker is Cole Holcomb, who ranks fifth in the league with 60 tackles. The other linebacker is Jamin Davis. A first-round pick last year, he has 28 tackles and three sacks.

Green Bay Packers defenders team up to take down a New York Jets runner during a game on Oct. 16 in Green Bay.

Kendall Fuller, Rachad Wildgoose and Benjamin St-Juste are the three cornerbacks. It's the weak link on their defense. Fuller has been torched for a 137.3 passer rating, according to Pro Football Focus. St-Juste, a towering 6-foot-3, has allowed just a 48.4% catch rate and has broken up four passes.

Wildgoose, a sixth-round pick from Wisconsin in 2021, replaced the unit's big name, William Jackson. Jackson, who signed a three-year, $40.5 million contract with Washington in free agency in 2021, didn't play last week and is likely to be traded before the Nov. 1 deadline.

Bobby McCain and Kamren Curl are the starting safeties, and Darrick Forrest plays a lot off the bench. Forrest and Curl play a lot in the box to help offset the lack of a third linebacker. Forrest is third on the team with 27 tackles and tied for first with four passes defended.

When the Commanders have the ball

The Commanders have one of the worst offenses in the NFL. The Packers must take advantage. They are 29th in scoring with 17 points per game.

You name it, they're bad at it. They are 30th in yards per play (4.83), 24th in rushing per play (4.01) and 28th in passing per play (5.81). They're also 27th in sack percentage, 26th on third down and 17th in the red zone.

Washington starting quarterback Carson Wentz suffered a broken finger and is out indefinitely. That means, for the second consecutive year, a matchup against Taylor Heinicke. In Green Bay's win last season, Heinicke threw for 268 yards and rushed for 95 more. So, this might not be much of a break from Joe Barry's perspective.

The Commanders have a few playmakers. Topping the list is receiver Terry McLaurin, who has 22 catches for 367 yards (16.7 average) and one touchdown. He is coming off back-to-back seasons of 75-plus receptions and 1,000-plus yards.

Curtis Samuel has a team-high 34 receptions but for only 287 yards. First-round pick Jahan Dotson, who has all sorts of speed, has added 12 catches for 152 yards and a team-high four touchdowns.

Running back Antonio Gibson is a three-down player. He has a team-high 214 rushing yards (3.5 average) and is fourth with 19 receptions (8 average).

His backfield sidekicks are J.D. McKissic, who is more receiver (24 receptions) than runner (19 attempts), and burly rookie Brian Robinson. Robinson missed the start of the season after being shot. Against the Bears last week, he carried 17 times for 60 yards and one touchdown. Rivera liked the results of pounding away with Robinson and then getting Gibson on the edge.

Lucas replaced second-year player Sam Cosmi (broken thumb). Cosmi is the team's worst pass protector (five sacks) but best run blocker.

Special teams

Special teams had been the consistent strength of the Packers until last week, when they gave up a blocked punt and blocked field goal against the Jets.

The Commanders will pose a huge challenge. They are No. 2 in special teams, according to Football Outsiders.

Punter Tress Way ranks fourth in the NFL with a 44.8-yard net average. So, it won't be easy for Green Bay's feeble punt-return unit to get going. Returner Amari Rodgers didn't have a prayer against the Jets.

Kicker Joey Slye is 4-of-5 on field goals. He's got a big-time leg; opponents have returned only three of his kickoffs. He is 14-of-22 from 50-plus yards for his career.

Dax Milne handles returns on kickoffs (20.5 yards per return) and punts (9.5).

Q&A WITH PAT O'DONNELL

By BILL HUBER
Correspondent

The Packers signed punter Pat O'Donnell in free agency following his eight seasons with the Bears. He enters week seven ranked third in the NFL with 14 punts that pinned the opponent inside the 20. Almost all of them were inside the 15 or closer to the goal line.

Q: What's the key to all those inside-the-20 punts?

A: Good gunner play.

Q: You must be doing something, too.

A: Honestly, it's just all touch, it's all feel. When you get closer (to the goal line), it gets a little bit harder, so it's more of a feel-finesse ball. It's being able to get the guys in a position to down the ball. You don't want to make it too hairy when you put it on the 1 every single time. You need to give them a little bit of a buffer space.

Q: Here's an off-the-wall question for you. What shoe size do you wear normally and what do you wear to kick?

A: I'm a normal 12 in sneakers and I wear an 11 to kick. Nothing crazy — a size down.

Q: Does that get uncomfortable wearing too-small shoes for about 4 hours on Sundays?

A: Oh, yeah, especially when it starts getting cold out. That's when you really start to feel it, but I'm used to it. I'm sure my foot has shrunk because I bind my feet up in a smaller shoe.

Q: What's it going to be like when you're 60?

A: I don't know. I don't want to know.

Q: Why? I'm sure you'd punt the ball just fine with sneakers, bare-foot, sandals or with Crocs.

A: It's more of a feel. You can feel the ball more. It's like wearing a golf glove. You wear it tighter; you don't want a big, baggy glove so you can't feel the club. It's essentially the same thing.

Q: I was looking for photos of you a while back and there were a bunch from the kicking camp you host in West Palm Beach, Florida. How long have you been doing that?

A: I've been doing a youth kicking camp for three years — COVID knocked out one of the years.

Q: Why is that important?

A: I just think it's important for me to give back. Down in South Florida, a lot of guys when I was growing up did camps like that. I thought it was really cool. For me to give back, I thought it was something that I definitely should.

A lot of guys don't do that. I think it's important to expose kids to different positions in football. Quarterbacks do it and a million people show up, but the specialists, not so much. If I can change one kid's life and have him fall in love with kicking like I did, I did my job.

Q: I'm glad you answered it like that. Was there someone in your life when you were a kid that helped you on this path?

A: It was actually a guy (Tony Bugeja) who played in the AFL and he played at a Division III school in Carolina who's now my kicking coach. He's been my best man at my wedding. He's awesome. I was a soccer kid growing up.

All of us wanted to get a scholarship somehow and I jumped from soccer to kicking, and he was the guy that exposed me to kicking and kept in touch and basically taught me everything I know.

Q: How old were you when you started playing football?

A: I was just going into high school. I had never played football before. I was always super-competitive in soccer and I always saw (the football team) on the neighboring field and I was like, 'I could do that.' So, it was cool that I got to experience that, and look where I am now.

Q: Were you good right away? Like, did you start kicking and you thought, "I'm as good as I thought I'd be!"

A: I always had natural instincts to kick a ball and strike a ball well, but punting was probably more challenging because it's a different style. Punting is linear and straight up vs. kicking and the rotation that you kick. It was definitely a challenge, a transition for me. Typical story: I was trying out for the freshman team and it was a week before the opening game and they lined us all up on the fence and the coach said, 'Who's kicked before?' I said I played soccer. Typical movie scene. I kicked it the furthest and the rest was history.

Packers stunned by Jets at Lambeau

Green Bay outgained on the ground 179-60

By LUKE REIMER
Reporter

An unproductive offensive performance from the Green Bay Packers led to boos from the home crowd and a 27-10 loss to the New York Jets at Lambeau Field on Oct. 16.

Offense was once again a major issue for Green Bay, as it has mustered just one touchdown in the last three halves. Boos were loud at Lambeau, something that typically is not heard in Green Bay, after seven straight drives to open the game resulted in no points for the team.

Even though the Packers won the time of possession, the Jets were able to match the Packers' total yardage of 278. Rushing was the major disparity in the game, as Jets rookie running back Breece Hall ran for 116 yards. Second-year running back Michael Carter added another 40 yards, as the Jets totaled 179 rushing yards on the day. The Packers recorded just 60 yards rushing, with A.J. Dillon leading the crew with 41 yards.

"When everybody in the building knows you are going to run the football, and they are able to do it, that's a little discouraging," said LaFleur.

Scoring was hard to come by, as the Jets scored the first points of the game on a 32-yard field goal from kicker Greg Zuerlein with just 5:50 left in the first half.

During Green Bay's responding drive, Rodgers completed passes of 6 and 16 yards to tight end Robert Tonyan, before missing receiver Romeo Doubs on fourth-and-four.

Taking over at its own 46-yard line with 2:20 remaining in the half, New York drove down to the Packers' 35-yard line on the back of Hall's 13 total yards and a 6-yard reception from wide receiver Braxton Berrios. The drive culminated in a 53-yard field goal attempt, in which Zuerlein missed to the left.

The Packers then went six plays in 31 seconds, scoring a Mason Crosby 29-yard field goal to get on the board. Tonyan, Lazard and Cobb were the beneficiaries of Rodgers' passes, with Tonyan's 22 receiving yards on the drive being the main factor.

Berrios opened the scoring in the second half for New York, as the 27-year old receiver took a Wilson pitch 20 yards for a touchdown. That scoring drive included Jets wide receiver Corey Davis recording 52 yards on two receptions.

Almost immediately after the Jets scored, defensive tackle Quinnen Williams sacked Rodgers on third down, forcing Green Bay to punt. On the subsequent play, Jets defensive end Michael Clemons blocked Pat O'Donnell's punt, which was returned for a touchdown.

Down 17-3, the Packers put together their first touchdown scoring drive of the day, as Rodgers completed a 25-yard back shoulder touchdown to Lazard. New York quickly took back control of the game though, marching down the field in five plays, culminating in a 34-yard rushing touchdown for Hall.

The Packers then began to drive, mostly on the arm of Rodgers and his 46 passing yards. Five receivers were involved on the drive — most notably Amari Rodgers, recording his first reception of the season, for 14 yards. The drive ended though as Green Bay was unable to convert on fourth-and-14 from the New York 37-yard line.

Up 24-10, the Jets put the dagger into Green Bay, with a 14-play, 6 minute, 30 second drive, tacking on a field goal and going up three scores with just over 2½ minutes left in the game.

While the drive was the dagger, it did produce something to build off of for LaFleur and the rest of the Packers coaching staff. Faced with a first-and-goal from the 3-yard line, the Packers stopped the Jets on six consecutive plays to prevent a touchdown.

"I was proud of our guys' effort," said LaFleur. "I thought at least that was a good sign that they continued to fight until the end."

An injury to Rodgers' thumb was a point of discussion during practice and while Rodgers was not in MVP form, he went a respectable 26-for-41 with 246 passing yards and one touchdown. After the game, Rodgers was quick to use his thumb as an excuse for missing some throws.

"It's a little sore," said Rodgers, when asked if the injury affected any throws. "Maybe a couple, but not too many."

The aforementioned Williams was a major thorn in the Packers' side all day, as the Alabama product recorded two sacks to lead the team, which recorded four. With Williams' dominance on the inside, the Packers were forced to substitute Royce Newman out in favor of Jake Hanson. Hanson was injured shortly before halftime, bringing Newman back in the game.

"They brought about two or three pressures maybe, it felt like all day," said Rodgers. "It was (a) four-man rush. They brought some twists, but we knew they were like 50% twists in certain situations based on the analytics. So we just didn't execute that very well."

Another major injury for concern for Green Bay is wide receiver Randall Cobb, who was forced out of the game with an ankle injury. Rodgers was quick to show concern for the veteran receiver.

"I think he thought that was it, that he'd broken it, but I don't think that's the case," said Rodgers. "It's tough, but he was in better spirits in the locker room, and I think you can put guys down on the IR now (for) four weeks, so that might be a possibility."
